Over The Hurdles

MARGARET WARNER, president of the Penn State Riding Club, takes her horse over one of the new jumps at the riding course in preparation for the annual horse show to be sponsored by the Riding Club today and tomorrow.

2nd Horse Show To Begin Today

The second annual horse show sponsored by the Penn State Riding Club gets under way this morning at the campus riding stables.

The show begins at 10 a.m. and will continue this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon.

The main feature of today's program will be the appearance of the Pennsylvania state troopers' mounted drill team at 3 p.m.

This morning's program opens with the novice and intermediate horsemanship classes. Also slated for this morning are the children's events and horsemanship jumping.

Olympics First Phase

This afternoon's program will start at 1 p.m. with the pony competition and the advanced horsemanship. The first phase of the modified Olympics will begin at two o'clock. This will be followed by the open pleasure horses and the warm up jumpers.

Immediately following the troopers drill team at 3 p.m. will be the bride trail hack, the open hunters, and the open stock horses.

The final two events of this afternoon will be the knock down and out and the pairs of hunters. The knock down and out is a jumping event in which the winner will be the horse clearing the most obstacles without a knock-down.

Tomorrow's program will open at 1 p.m. with hunters and ad-

Home Ec Council Holds Open House

The Home Economics Student Council has arranged for ten hosts to be on duty each hour for the Home Ec open house Saturday, May 12.

The open house will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Also at Tuesday's meeting the council nominated Huber Stevens, former president of the council, for the Alpha Phi Omega ugly man contest.

The council also reported that $43.25 was made at its fun night April 24.

A committee was appointed to revise the Student-Faculty constitution as to membership, officers, and name. The committee is made up of Barbara Norton, chairman; William Tritsch, Mary Jean Dean, Patricia Robinson, and Betty Anders.

The committee will report at the next meeting May 15.

Duquesne To Debate At College

The men's and women's debate teams will meet Duquesne in a series of arguments this afternoon and tonight at the College.

The men's debates will be held at 7 p.m. in 304 and 305 Sparks, and are open to the public.

Mark Unger and Gene Kolber will take the negative side of this year's intercollegiate question, "Resolved: That the non-Communist nations should form a new international organization."

Gerald Walmer and William Klisanin will argue the affirmative of the same question.

The women's team will debate at 3 p.m. in the southeast lounge of Atherton Hall. Ethel Brown and Peggy Fahringer will take the affirmative side of the intercollegiate question, and Eileen Olessker and Shirley Gallagher will argue the negative in the second debate. The second debate will probably start about 4 p.m., according to Lois Pulver, manager. These debates are also open to the public, and a forum will be held afterwards.

Home Ec., Education Gown Deadline Set

Today is the last day that seniors in the Schools of Home Economics and Education will be able to order their caps and gowns.

Monday through Wednesday, students in the School of Liberal Arts will order theirs at the Athletic Store. Students are requested to know their hat size when ordering.

Invitations and announcements will be available at the same time at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Trueblood To Speak In Chapel

Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, noted author of books on religion and head of the Department of Philosophy and Religion at Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., will speak on "The Next Step in the Christian Movement" in Chapel tomorrow at 11 a.m.

The Chapel choir will sing "Praise" (Rowley), with Mrs. Wila Taylor directing and George Ceiga at the organ.

Dr. Trueblood was born of Quaker parents in Iowa and received his undergraduate education at Penn College. After graduate work at Brown University and Hartford Seminary, he received an S.T.B. degree at Harvard University and his doctorate from Johns Hopkins. In 1948 he was awarded the degree of Litt. D. by Washington and Lee University.

"Alternative to Futility" is one of his most famous books. Others include "The Predicament of Modern Man," "Foundations for Reconstruction," and "Dr. Johnson's Prayers." He is a contributing editor of the Friends Magazine, published in Philadelphia, and at various times has written for the Atlantic Monthly and the Christian Science Monitor.

Dr. Trueblood has been professor of philosophy at Guilford College, Haverford, Garrett Seminary and Earlham. In 1935 he was acting chaplain at Harvard University and later from 1936 to 1945 was professor of philosophy and religion and chaplain of Stanford University, Palo Alto, California. From Stanford he took over the work at Earlham College in 1945.

Dr. Chandlee To Open 25th Priestley Series

Dr. Grover C. Chandlee, for 25 years head of the Department of Chemistry at the College, will open the silver anniversary series of the Priestley lectures, founded at the College as a memorial to the noted physicist and chemist, Joseph Priestley.

The lectures will be given at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, and at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday in 119 Osmond Laboratory.

Now professor emeritus of chemistry, Dr. Chandlee will speak on "The Historical Concept of the Nature of Acids." President Milton S. Eisenhower will be chairman for the lecture.

Other present and former Penn State faculty members chosen to speak during the series are Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, nationally prominent director of the Ellen H. Richards Institute, and Dr. Woldemar A. Weyl, professor of glass technology.

Also chosen were Dr. M. R. Fenske, director of the Petroleum Refining Laboratory, and Dr. Herbert E. Longenecker, dean of the Graduate School at the University of Pittsburgh, Penn State alumnus, and former faculty member.

Household Chemistry

Dr. Mack, whose topic is "The Contributions and Potentialities of Household Chemistry," will be introduced by Dr. Charles W. Stoddart, dean emeritus of the School of Liberal Arts on Tuesday. On Wednesday, Dr. Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the School of Agriculture, will introduce Dr. Longenecker, whose topic is "A Prediction for the Future of Bio-

Al Michaels' Blue team has been picked a favorite in the first Bucket Bowl football game in Penn State history to be played on the State College High School Memorial Field at 2 p.m. today.

Head coach Rip Engle yesterday selected the Blues as his choice to win the Blue-White intrasquad game and capture the "old water bucket." The coveted trophy will be presented to the captain of the winning team by a member of the Collegian sports staff after the contest.

Fee, Radio Discussed By Trustees

The executive committee of the College Board of Trustees met last night. Indications were that they discussed the proposed reduction in the student assessment fee and the proposed campus radio station.

All-College Cabinet at its meeting Thursday night passed the reduction recommendation for the third time which automatically referred it to the board for consideration.

The measure to reduce the student interclass assessment fee from 75 cents to 50 cents was originally introduced at Cabinet by Emerson Jones, All-College secretary-treasurer. He said that at the present time the interclass fund contained an accumulated balance of nearly $17,000 from dance receipts taken in during the past several years.

Jones also pointed out that the interclass assessment was never reduced to compensate for the 25 cents which is no longer taken out for the Blue Band.

The committee will make a recommendation to the Board of Trustees as to what action should be taken towards the proposal.

A report of the proceedings will be submitted to the full Board of Trustees at their next regular meeting, June 9.

Next year's gridiron captains, Art Betts and Len Shephard will captain the teams. Betts will captain the Blue team and Shephard will lead the Whites.

Scholarship Fund

Student tickets will be on sale at the gate for 50 cents, and general admission tickets are $1. Receipts from this first Bucket Bowl game will go into a scholarship fund.

Earl Bruce, freshman coach, will direct the Whites in today's alumni-sponsored game. The game will conclude the five week training program of the Lion grid squad. Because new grass is being planted on New Beaver Field, the game was scheduled for the high school field. If the game is a success it will become an annual part of spring training.

Enthusiasm High

Enthusiasm has been running high in the camps of the enemy squads. Bruce's Whites have had several secret practice sessions to gird for the clash. Michaels' Blues worked out on the high school field, and he said he plans to use Matt Yanosich, hard driving fullback, as his secret weapon.

Engle said that a new pair of shoes had arrived for Tony Rados, Blues' ace quarterback, but Coach Michaels won't allow him to use them. "They might throw him off stride," Michaels said.

Several new signal-callers who have been performing well in spring drills will see heavy duty. Frank Minana, freshman ace, will understudy Rados for the Blue team. Bob Szajna will start at quarterback for the Whites.

Bruce plans to use unorthodox

'Ugly Man' Entries Accepted At SU

Entries for Alpha Phi Omega's ugly man contest will remain open until the end of next week, but photographs may be turned in at the Student Union desk in Old Main until 5 p.m. Monday.

Organizations wishing to sponsor an entry after Monday must turn their application in to Richard White at 138 S. Allen street.

William Burrows, in charge of the contest for Alpha Phi Omega, reported yesterday that 16 entries had been received to date, but that photographs were expected from additional campus organizations.

Any male student is eligible in the contest if sponsored by some campus organization. Each organization is limited to a single entry.

Voting in the contest will be conducted at the Alpha Phi Omega booth in the Spring Carnival, Thursday, May 17.
