

Prexy To Head Parade On Armed Forces Day

President Milton S. Eisenhower will serve as chief marshal for the Armed Forces Day parade to be held here at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Community organizations with various ROTC units and Air Force men who are training to be clerk-typists at the College will participate in the parade.

The parade will march west on College avenue from Shortlidge road to Burrowes street. Formation of the parade will begin at 1 p.m.

Tribute To Forces

Col. Lucien E. Bolduc, professor of military science and tactics at the College and local chairman for Armed Forces Day, explained that this year's parade will be observed as "a tribute to the Armed Forces as an integral and independent part of the total material and spiritual power of America now being mobilized, and as a renewal of faith in our country's sacred heritage, the ideals of peace and freedom, to the preservation of which our power is dedicated."

Although Saturday will be the second Armed Forces Day to be observed throughout the country, this will be the first time it will be celebrated when American armed forces are engaged in combat.

Air Exhibit

The Air Force will exhibit a J-33 Jet Aircraft Engine in the Armory on Saturday afternoon. A series of Air Force and other films will also be shown for the public at regular intervals.

The Department of Naval Science has arranged an exhibit of various weapons to be shown in the Armory and Naval personnel will be on hand to explain the weapons to visitors.

Weapons Exhibit

Some of the weapons to be included in the exhibit are a three-inch 50-cal. dual purpose gun; 40-mm. and 20-mm. anti-aircraft guns; an aircraft torpedo and a torpedo director; a moored mine; a five-inch, 38-cal. loading machine; 50-cal. aircraft machine gun; 20-mm. aircraft cannon; coincidence range finder; and an 81-mm. mortar launcher.

The Air Force and Navy will also have planes flying overhead.

In addition to the parade, State College will mark Armed Forces Day with exhibits of various kinds on campus, including demonstrations by the 112th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, and exhibits and displays in downtown windows.

Case To Head La Vie Board

Prof. A. W. Case has been re-elected president of the La Vie board of directors.

The other board officers for the 1951-1952 school year are vice-president, James Worth, All-College president; and secretary, Jeannine Bell, managing editor of the 1952 La Vie.

The board members are Prof. A. W. Case, art adviser; Woodrow Bierly, editorial adviser; George Donovan, financial adviser; Ridge Riley, editorial assistant; Lou Bell, editorial assistant; Professor Franklin Banner, editorial assistant; James Geffert, editor of the 1952 La Vie; Miss Bell; Worth, David Olmstead, senior class president; and Marvin Krasnansky, editor of the Daily Collegian.

Reported Erroneously

It was erroneously reported in Tuesday's Collegian that George A. Weber, driver of the car in which Donald MacIntire was killed Sunday, resided at the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity house. He lives at 231 South Atherton street.

Hartenbach Given Danforth Award

Vivian Jane Hartenbach has been awarded the Danforth Fellowship for the summer of 1951, Dr. Grace Henderson, dean of the School of Home Economics, has announced.

The fellowship is awarded by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo. each year to an outstanding junior in home economics and covers expenses for two weeks in St. Louis and a weeks' leadership training program at the American Youth Camp on Lake Michigan.

The fellowship also affords opportunity to study problems of manufacturing, commercial research, distribution, advertising, and personnel.

Council Will Send 1400 To Europe

More than 1400 students and teachers have been assigned to student ships sailing to Europe this summer under the auspices of the Council on Student Travel.

Among the organizations going are Boston University School of Education, the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, and the Scandinavian Traveling Seminar.

Many will join in international work camps clearing rubble, building schools, churches, and nurseries. Some will be studying for college credits, while others will be traveling alone or with friends.

Cultural and social conditions of European countries will be studied, while many will live in homes in various European countries experimenting in international living.

The Council on Student Travel is composed of many student educational travel organizations which have arranged for the trip.

Lion To Lose Its Orange Tint

The orange tint that has enhanced the Lion shrine since its painting April 19 is finally being removed.

A steam-jenny, shooting live steam, is being used on the statue to loosen and dissolve the paint that has penetrated the stone.

Work began on the Lion yesterday by physical plant employes and will be completed today, Daniel Krumrine, who is in charge of the cleaning, said yesterday.

"It looks pretty good," he remarked, adding that those portions treated with the steam have become clean.

The shrine was painted about midnight April 19 by a gang that revealed its identity to Captain Philip Mark, of the campus patrol. Mark would not release the names of those involved, but said they were not Penn State students.

Chem-Phys Council Discusses Booklet

The Chemistry and Physics Student Council held an introductory meeting for new council members.

Council discussed plans for the School of Chemistry and Physics booklet which will inform prospective students of the school's advantages. Robert Sharetts, James Ramsay, and Gerald Loughran were appointed to arrange the booklet.

A one-page issue of the Chem-Phys Newsletter will be published especially to remind students of the school to take their draft exemption examinations.

MERCURY HITS HIGH OF 86

The mercury hit the 86-degree mark at the College weather station on Tuesday afternoon. This is the highest temperature recorded for the year.

Under the Hats . . .

Parmi Nous Helps Penn State Spirit

This is the fifth in the series, "Under the Hats," about campus hat societies and their activities.

By JOHN PAKKANEN

This week's feature is devoted to Parmi Nous, senior men's hat society, whose tappers started wearing their black and white name cards yesterday.

Formal invitation of the eighteen seniors and thirty-nine juniors will be held a week from today and will be followed with a joint banquet with Skull and Bones.

Smarr Winner In Discussion

Frances Smarr, a sophomore in home economics, won the women's intramural discussion contest last night in the final round. Miss Smarr received possession of the gold intramural discussion cup for one year.

Miss Smarr, who represented Atherton's Leonides group, supported the affirmative of the question "In the advent of an all-out war, should women be drafted?"

Those competing against Miss Smarr in the finals were: Sonia Goldstein, also representing Atherton's Leonides group; Mary Lou Transue, of Alpha Gamma Delta; Sylvia Berkowitz, representing McAllister Hall; and Virginia Laudano, of Alpha Chi Omega.

Mail Address Notice

West Dorm post office officials have announced that all mail to West Dorm residents must include the name of the building in the address.

Parmi Nous, which is French for "among ourselves," is the oldest upperclass hat society on campus.

It was founded in 1908 by Thomas W. Piolet, a civil engineering transfer student from Cornell, with the purpose of honoring prominent upperclassmen and developing Penn State spirit. It has remained a local organization.

B. M. Hermann, professor of American history, was one of the founders of the organization.

Athletes Predominate

Through the years the members of the society were predominantly athletes. A new constitution was adopted by the group last year to enlarge the field of activities from which tappers are selected. Fifty-one per cent are still chosen from athletics and the rest are divided among the fields of dramatics, forensics, publications, student government, and politics. Prospective tappers are suggested by present members or accepted from letters of application.

Group Symbol

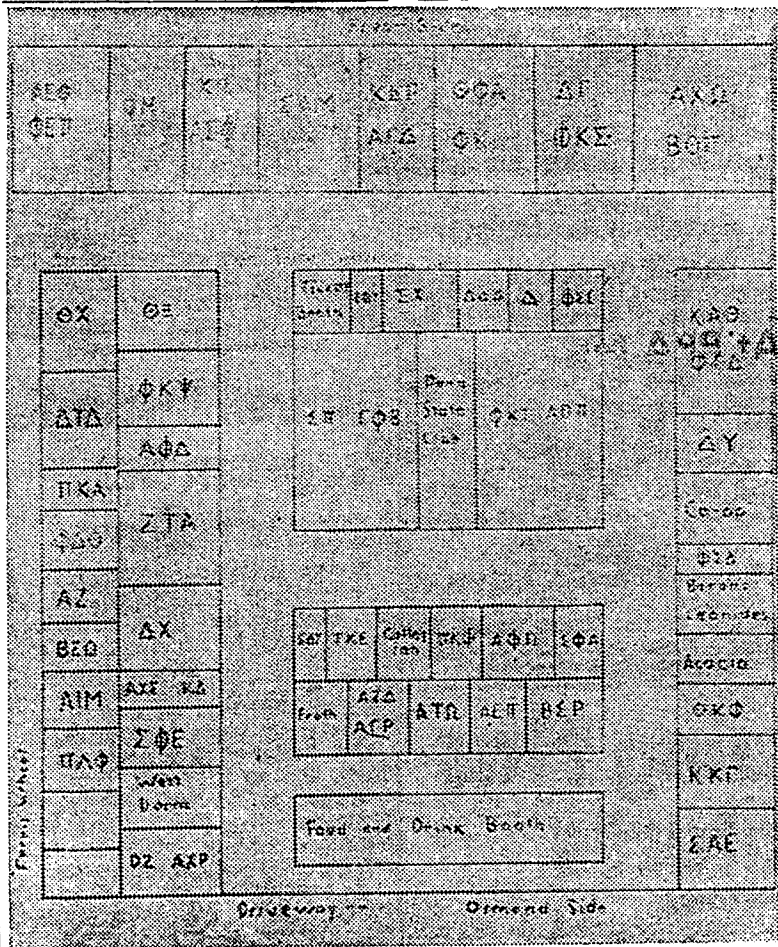

The symbol of the group is shaped like a Greek Pi, but with the two vertical lines curving and meeting at the center of a horizontal bar. The meaning of the symbol and the initiation rituals are secret.

The activities of the members include ushering at official College functions such as President Eisenhower's reception last year, upholding customs, ushering at the freshman football stands, helping plan and operate the flash cards used during football games, and, along with the other hat societies, form the honor line on the football field before game time.

Activities

Parmi Nous members also worked with the cheerleaders last autumn to plan the pep rallies and helped make the banner which is strung across the mall to publicize the rallies.

The officers, as in nearly all the other hat societies, are selected by the outgoing members. This (continued on page eight)
