

'It's All Too Wonderful' Says Miss Penn State

By JIM GROMILLER

Barbara Klopp was crowned Miss Penn State of 1951 Tuesday and last night at the Starlite Dance in front of Old Main she appeared just as excited as the moment she received the crown.

"It's all just too wonderful," she said. "I still can't believe it." The cute brunette hesitated to relate, but finally admitted, that she felt her luck in the contest came from a Delta Tau Delta lucky garter which she wore at the coronation. "Barby" is pinned to Arnold Budroni of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. The garter was presented to her at a dinner in her honor Monday night.

First Contest

It was the first beauty contest for the pride of Reading, who matches her good looks with a bubbling personality.

A member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, Barbara explains that she had plans for a career in magazine work when she came to Penn State from Millersville State Teachers College, but since then has become interested in dramatics, "and then of course there's 'Boop'" she added, referring to the owner of the fraternity pin she wears.

The 20 year old junior in Arts and Letters is the co-star of the movie "This is Penn State," portraying life on campus. The movie was recently released to high schools throughout the state.

Other Parts

Miss Penn State played the part of Bridget in "Shadow and Substance" last fall. Last year she was in "Life With Father." "My big line was 'I never met a Yale man before,'" she recalled. She was serenaded Tuesday night after the coronation by Delta Tau Delta and Alpha Sigma Phi fraternities.

As a sportswoman she once tried fishing, she relates, but stood from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., never got a bite, and that ended that.

Senate Member

She served as both sophomore and junior senator on the Women's Student Government Association senate and will occupy a seat on the Liberal Arts Student Council next year.

"It's all just wonderful, and everybody has been just too grand," she repeated.

Freshmen To Hold Dance At Rec Hall

The freshman class will hold its informal dance next Saturday at Recreation Hall from 9 p.m. to midnight.

Gene Magill's orchestra will furnish the music. Tickets are free and may be obtained at the main desk in the West Dormitories or at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

The dance will be a closed affair. At least one member of every couple must be a freshman. Charles Wood is chairman of the dance committee.

Engagements

Fraser-Angstadt

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Angstadt, of Atlanta, Ga., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Janice Aline, to Robert William Fraser, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Fraser of Germantown, Pa. The wedding will take place in September.

Miss Angstadt is a junior in psychology at Byrn Mawr college. Mr. Fraser is a junior in journalism at the College.

Phi Kappa

At the annual senior dinner at Phi Kappa fraternity Monday night, awards were presented to Aldon Michelotti, most outstanding brother, and to Joseph Dougherty, most outstanding pledge.

A party honoring the seniors followed the dinner.

Phi Sigma Sigma

Phi Sigma Sigma sorority recently initiated Carol Cohen, Barbara Felt, Miriam Flickstein, Audrey Lipsky, Elsa Pasline, Charlotte Selector, and Harriet Stiefel.

High School Group Sings At Fraternity

The Junior Polka-Dots of State College High School "sang for their supper" Tuesday night at the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity house.

The youngsters, whose ages average about 14, were invited by the fraternity to dinner, and were asked to sing afterwards. They have been trained as a male choral group by Gerald Dagher, a student teacher and member of the fraternity.

They sang, among other songs, "The Erie Canal," "Eight Bells," and "Cotton Town." Midway in the program the boys presented a Ronson cigarette lighter to Dagher "in appreciation of the work he had done." After the program they joined with the members of the fraternity in singing school songs.

The Polka-Dots were organized in December by Dr. Francis Andrews of the Music Department and trained by Dagher as an experiment in four part choral singing. Usually the boys have to wait until they are at least in junior high school before they can join the A capella chorus. To date, they have made three public appearances.

Before leaving, the Polka-Dots challenged the fraternity to a game of volley ball Monday night.

Chalfant To Play With Orchestra

Paul Chalfant, violinist who presented a concert in the State College High School auditorium recently under the auspices of the Penn State Christian Association, has been invited by conductor Antal Dorati to play next season with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra. This orchestra is rated by Critic Deems Taylor as one of the ten best orchestras in the United States.

Chalfant received the invitation by telephone after he had reached State College. He will play in the first violin section.

Penn State Club Postpones Meeting

The regular Penn State Club meeting which was to be held last Tuesday has been postponed until next Wednesday at 7 p.m. in 405 Old Main.

The reason given for the postponement was the interference of Spring Week. Next year's officers will be elected at next week's meeting.

Delta Sigma Pi Initiates 14 New Members

Fourteen new members were initiated into Delta Sigma Pi, national economics and commerce honorary, at a banquet meeting at the Eutaw House Monday night.

Those initiated were Edwin Amsler, Harold Bredbenner, James Carter, John Clark, Robert Dunlavery, Jack Engleman, Vance Fields, David Gray, Edwin Herring, Douglas Hoerner, Robert Lansberry, James McCormick, Robert Monahan, and Peter Raidy.

Dr. William M. Hench, advisor, presented scholarship keys to Andrew Houston and Anthony Lombardo. Service keys were presented to Dr. Hench and P. J. Boner, instructor in economics.

Frederick Phillips, retiring president, turned his office over to John Barrons, newly elected president. Other new officers are Henry Ingram, senior warden; George Jeffries, junior warden; James Eckman, scribe; and William Heinz, treasurer.

Weimer Chosen Clover Club Head

Austin Weimer was installed president of the Clover Club on Tuesday night.

Other club officers installed were: George Strickler, vice president; Plater Campbell, secretary; Harold Garretson, treasurer; Robert Menges, corresponding secretary; and Kendall Tomlinson and Donald Waddington, Agriculture Student Council representatives.

Dr. C. C. Wernham, associate professor of plant pathology, spoke on "Breeding for Disease Resistance in Corn."

Campbell and Waddington were named the club's delegates to the National Society of Agronomists, to meet here Aug. 27-30.

The senior women of the College in 1939 gave $60 to the American Red Cross for emergency relief in Europe. In order to do this they gave up the refreshments at their class dance.

Men Invade Dorm; Coeds Mark Reaction

By MIMI UNGAR

"Did you ever see so many men upstairs in your life?" cried one of the girls in McAllister Hall on Saturday as men began to invade the place.

We had the opportunity to browse around and not only get the reaction of many of the girls but also of the fellows.

At the stroke of 2 p.m. the invasion began. One of the first young gentlemen, who climbed the steps, very dramatically clenched his fists like a champ. But as he proceeded, he changed his tone-muttering, "Wow, this is embarrassing!"

An elderly gent came next, commenting, "This isn't forbidden ground today, so I guess I can browse around." He had us worried for a while but upon descending the stairs, he very proudly reported that "She had it cleaned better than I thought she would—even better than the one at home!"

Air Force Inspects

One of the many Air Force men who were inspecting this lovely habitat walked about slyly, stating, "I haven't been thrown out yet—ha, ha—so far, so good."

When we asked a friendly fellow from the campus how he felt being in a women's dormitory for the first time, he didn't even hesitate in saying, "Right at home." However, he tacked on the statement, "There's still a nicer living unit, Thompson Hall, but of course, I'm a little prejudiced."

At approximately 2:45 p.m. the fad was wearing off, but the amusement continued. One of the girls shouted, "Enjoy it while you may, it's almost over!"

Good Opportunity

One of the latecomers walked up the steps with a smile from ear to ear as all he could say was "What an opportunity, and to think I only have five minutes to look the place over." We felt sorry for him because of his excessive enthusiasm.

All the girls breathed a sigh of relief as they were once again given their privacy at 3 p.m., and they could jabber about all the comments they had heard and the reactions of the many people who had their first chance to view a women's dormitory.

Ray Evert To Play For AIM Houseparty

The Association of Independent Men will hold its annual Spring weekend houseparty Saturday in the main lounge of the West dorms from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight.

Ray Evert and his "Artists in Melody" will furnish music for the dance. Admission to the houseparty will be free, and will be open to couples only.
