

Swedish Gymnasts To Perform Tonight

Tonight at 8 in Recreation Hall the Sofiafläckorna, famed girl gymnasts of the Sofia School in Stockholm, Sweden, will present a gymnastic program as well as a Swedish folk dance exhibition.

This group of 15 girls, trained by Mrs. Maja Carlquist, a teacher of physical education for many years at the Sofia School, range in age from 15 to 27. They are known as "Good Will Ambassadors from Sweden to the U.S.A.," and have been giving performances in the United States since the end of March.

Will Give 60 Shows

Before returning to Sweden, they will have given approximately 60 performances. Emphasis is placed on graceful movements, as they demonstrate the modern conception and development of Swedish gymnastics and physical culture. The girls will dress up in costumes borrowed from Skansen, an open museum in Stockholm, when they demonstrate folk dances.

In previous years, this group attended the Olympic games in Berlin and the World's Fair in New York City. Its recent success is evident in that they have been honored in California, Minnesota, and Chicago.

Before coming here today, they visited the Swedish embassy in Washington. They will journey to Pittsburgh to give a performance tomorrow.

Tickets 90 Cents

Tickets for the performance, priced at 90 cents for adults and 30 cents for children under 12, are available at the Student Union desk, Kaye's Corner and any Physical Education major.

The School of Physical Education and Athletics, Lakonides, and Phi Epsilon Kappa, physical education honoraries, and Miss Elsa Haglund, a graduate student in physical education and a former Sofia teacher, are sponsoring the program.

MacIntire Fund Gets About $2000

The senior class gift committee, by unanimous consent, has voted to set aside part of this year's senior class gift fund to establish a Donald MacIntire scholarship award. Approximately $2000 has been allotted to the fund—that amount which was left over, from the campus radio station contribution.

At present, senior class president John Erickson and College Comptroller S. K. Hostetter are working out a plan to invest the money for 20 years to accrue interest. At the end of that time the money will be used to provide scholarships for deserving students, not necessarily those children of the class of 1951.

During the period of investment, the money will be handled by the scholarship and awards committee of the College. This committee is composed of members of the College Senate and students.

The fund is intended to be a memorial to Donald MacIntire, senior, who was killed in an automobile accident last Sunday.

Patrick Murphy Malin, director of the American Civil Liberties Union, will deliver the final address in the Liberal Arts Lecture Series at 8 tonight in 121 Sparks.

Malin will speak on "The Daily Practice of Civil Liberties" and will attempt to tie together the previous lectures in the series by emphasizing some of the practical daily problems involved. The lecture is open to the public.

Prior to becoming director of the Civil Liberties Union in 1950, Malin was professor of economics at Swarthmore College. He also served for several years as vice-director of the Intergovernmental Committee on Refugees, the predecessor to the International Refugee Organization which was concerned with the resettlement of European refugees and displaced persons.

Forms Needed For Selective Service Test

Each student who will take the Selective Service College Qualification Test on Saturday must take a pen or pencils and at least two Selective Service forms, Dr. Hugh M. Davison, who is in charge of testing at the College, said yesterday.

Students must have their Selective Service Registration Certificate (SS Form No. 2) and one of the following:

Tickets of admission, which have been mailed to the individual by the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J., also must be presented for admission to the test.

AIM Board Of Governors Rejects Galati's Charges

By JIM GROMILLER

The Association of Independent Men's Board of Governors last night gave a unanimous vote of confidence to the men accused of unconstitutional political influence in the recent AIM elections.

The action came after Joseph Galati, who had charged earlier that the elections were unconstitutional, appeared before the board to ask, in a prepared statement, that a committee be set up to investigate the charges of illegal political influence.

Constitutional Change

Galati also suggested elimination of Article 11 of the AIM Constitution which restricts political influence in the board.

The motion was directed to absolve Ray Evert, Joseph Haines, John Stoudt, and David Mutchler, candidates for AIM offices in the recent elections.

The motion, introduced by Richard Mills and adopted unanimously, stated that "the Board of Governors expresses the utmost confidence in those men accused by Mr. Galati, and that the Board of Governors goes on record to the effect that no political influence contrary to the constitution was exercised in the election."

The motion was introduced after the board was unable to obtain, to its satisfaction, definite evidence that illegal political activities had gone on. Throughout the discussion, which became heated at points, Galati stated that the job of submitting definite evidence should be left to a committee of AIM.

Popycock

Marvin Krasnansky, editor of Collegian, who was recognized to answer charges by Galati of Collegian sensationalism in covering the story, called Galati's statement "popycock." Krasnansky called for Galati to apologize to the four men who were affected by his charges.

IFC Heads Appointed By Wengert

By JOHN PAKKANEN

Four Interfraternity Council committee heads for next year were appointed last night by the new IFC president, Stanley Wengert.

Milton Bernstein and Edward Shihadeh will head the executive committee; John Allison, the Fraternity Management Association committee; James Wharton, the workshop; and Julian Cook, the visiting athletes committee.

The $250 fund for the support of athletes which has been in operation this year was passed by the council.

The rushing system for next fall was explained by Wengert. Post cards have already been sent to students at centers, so they may indicate their desire to go fraternity, he said.

"There will be no getting men out of dorms next semester," Wengert said. "However, exchanges of fraternity and independent men in dorms will be permitted according to President Eisenhower."

An unofficial straw vote supported the Fraternity Management Association program which is planned to go into effect next semester. Merrill Sporkin gave the committee report on the system of collective buying of dairy products, meat and fuel.

An explanatory pamphlet will be ready in a few days, Sporkin said, and it will be sent to each fraternity.

Committees Selected By Worth

All-College President James Worth will submit a list of standing committee members for approval at tonight's meeting of All-College Cabinet.

The Spring Week committee will announce winners of the $100, $50, and $25 booth awards for the Spring Carnival as a part of its report to cabinet tonight.

In addition, the committee is expected to report the net profits from the carnival. Committee members earlier in the week released the gross figure for the carnival. The $2670.37 collected was $551.89 more than was grossed from last year's carnival.

This led members of the committee to predict a net profit in excess of the $800 turned over to Campus Chest last year. The profits from this year's carnival will help establish a student loan fund under direction of Cabinet.

Discussion on the motion calling for cabinet to loan funds to the campus displaced persons committee is expected to be reopened. Worth is also expected to call for a report from the special investigating committee appointed to look into the advisability of a cabinet appropriation to the fund.

Cabinet will hear a report by David Fitzcharles on the absentee voting petition taken to Harrisburg recently by members of the National Student Association.

James Wharton will report on the success of a committee appointed by Worth to meet the State College Commerce Club in the interest of better student-town relations.

John Laubach, chairman of the Association of Independent Men Board of Governors will ask cabinet to establish a committee to investigate the possibility of establishing a record-lending library to be set up in Pattee Library for use by all students.

Laubach was instructed to take the matter to cabinet by the AIM Board of Governors which met last night.

DP Is Impressed By U.S. Friendliness

"In Europe only politicians and movie stars get their pictures in the paper," Gyoergy Geczy, Jr., the first of 25 displaced persons to come to State College as prospective students, remarked yesterday. He referred to his picture carried in last Friday's Collegian.

Geczy expressed appreciation at the friendly attitude of everyone he has met since arriving from Salzburg, Austria.

"I feel as if I knew everybody for many years," he said. "The customs officials in New York said State College was a nice town and they weren't wrong."

To Study Business
The 19-year-old Hungarian youth arrived in State College Monday night and will work at College Sportswear for about a year. He then plans to enter the College, majoring in business administration.

When told that the campus displaced persons committee was attempting to raise a fund to help the displaced persons in getting settled, Geczy said that it would be a big help, but he would feel better if he could earn his own way.

845 Sign Pledges For West Dorms

A total of 848 housing pledges for the West Dorm area will be considered in selecting the 225 upperclassmen who will live in the area next semester, a committee member said yesterday.

There has been no decision as to what will happen to students who did not file a housing pledge but still desire a room in the area next fall. Indications were that pledges would be considered first, then others.

At a meeting Monday night, the committee, composed of Housing Director Russell Clark, Dean of Men H. K. Wilson, Thomas Durek, West Dorm Council president, John Laubach, Nittany Council president, and Leonard Tomizan, Pollock Council president, sorted the pledges according to semester rank.

There are nine pledges from seventh semester seniors, 223 from sixth semester students, 23 fifth semester, and 225 from fourth-semester students. The remaining pledges were freshmen.

West Dorm residents' pledges total 657, 162 from the Nittany area, and 29 from Pollock Circle.

A continuity plan has been proposed which would give preference to this year's fifth semester students. The plan is based on the idea that after one year in the West Dorms, these students would be capable of handling student government positions on the West Dorm Council.

Another possible plan would set up a ratio of next semester's juniors and seniors in order to fill the 225 upperclass vacancies.

Born in Budapest, Hungary, Geczy fled to Austria with his parents and sister Maria in 1945 before the Russians entered the country.

Attends 'Gymnasium'
He explained that he attended grade school for four years and spent seven years at a "gymnasium," the European equivalent to our intermediate and high school. When forced to stop attending classes, he kept up his studies in his spare time, taking tests at intervals for advancement.

In 1948 he obtained a job at a coal mine and worked there until beginning his work with occupation forces in June, 1950. He worked there until leaving for the United States.
