

Cabinet Considers New Lending Library

John Laubach, president of Association of Independent Men, requested Thursday night that All-College Cabinet establish a record-lending library to be used by the students.

The initial set-up of the library would cost approximately $750, Laubach told cabinet. Of this sum, $500 would be spent for records and $250 for other equipment, according to estimates by Ralph McComb, College librarian.

According to present plans, the campus radio station will be broadcasting to all campus buildings by next September, Milton Bernstein, co-chairman of the campus radio station committee, said yesterday.

Within a short time of the initial broadcasts, the committee hopes to be broadcasting to fraternity houses and other off-campus buildings which desire reception.

The student committee, which includes Bernstein, David Mutchler, and Florenz Fenton, is now working out plans for the radio station with faculty advice. Dr. R. T. Deferment Testing To Start Today

About 175,000 college students will take the first of three Selective Service College Qualification Tests today, the results of which may determine whether they will remain in college or enter military service.

In any event, they will receive deferments up to Aug. 20 in order to give the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J., time to grade the results and send them to local boards.

Draft boards have been instructed to take test results and class standing into consideration before drafting college students. The final decision, however, is up to the discretion of the individual local board.

A total of 1008 students at the College will take the Selective Service College Qualification Test at 8:30 a.m. today.

Classes have been excused for those who will take the test. The Council of Administration approved the move last week.

All students are to report to 121 Sparks where they will be assigned testing rooms.

Selective Service officials have recommended that all college seniors be deferred to complete their schooling. They have also suggested that seniors who wish to go to graduate school be deferred provided they are in the upper half of their class, or if they score 75 in the test. Other suggestions include: Juniors in the upper three-fourths or scoring 70 should be deferred; sophomores in the upper two-thirds or scoring 70; freshmen in the upper half or scoring 75.

The test, which will last about three hours, is the first of its type in the history of the United States and probably the greatest mass examination ever undertaken. Tests will be taken at 1000 centers throughout the country.

There are 150 questions in the test which is divided into two sections—verbal and mathematical. The test is being given by a staff of men, all of whom have doctor of philosophy degrees.

The latest electronic calculating machines will score the tests, which will be sent to the draft boards within a month after the testing date.

The deadline for applying for the test was last night at midnight. The original deadline was May 15, but it was extended 10 days because only a relatively small number of college students applied.

The test will also be given June 16 and June 30. A special test for students of religious beliefs that prohibit Saturday participation will be given July 12.

Students may obtain their scores by writing their individual draft boards, not the testing service.

The Penn State Club will award a plaque to the outstanding independent senior at the annual senior banquet which will be held at the Allencrest at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

A committee consisting of Harold Leinbach, past IFC president; H. K. Wilson, dean of men; and George Donovan, manager of the Student Union, made the final choice from 16 candidates.

The men's debating team will hold a picnic tomorrow afternoon at Black Moshannon, according to Clair George, new debate manager.

Under the AIM proposal, records in the library could be removed for use in the students' rooms. The Music Department has a record library for use by students, but the records must be used in Carnegie Hall.

Robert Davis, past All-College president, reminded cabinet that listening rooms would be provided in the proposed Student Union where students could use the records. He felt such a move by cabinet to create a library would be a step in forming a good collection that could be used in the Student Union when completed.

Laubach to Head Committee
Laubach will head the committee to investigate the advisability of having such a library and will report to cabinet next fall on his findings. Members of AIM, to be chosen by Laubach, will serve on the committee.
