

128 Seniors To Graduate With Honors On June 11

One hundred and twenty-eight seniors will be graduated with honors on June 11 at the College's first outdoor commencement exercises, President Milton S. Eisenhower said yesterday.

Francis Henry Russell, director of the Office of Public Affairs, U. S. Department of State, will speak. He was on the staff of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations conference in San Francisco in 1945.

He attended the United Nations assembly in London and was chairman of the National Conference of American Foreign Policy.

Weather permitting, there will be one ceremony for the entire graduating class at 1 p. m., June 11 at New Beaver Field. No tickets will be needed for admission to the outdoor ceremony.

Inclement Weather Ceremonies

In case of inclement or threatening weather before 11 a. m. the double ceremony in Recreation Hall will be held. Guests will need tickets, three of which will be given to each graduate with his cap and gown.

Liberal Arts, Education, Home Economics, Physical Education and Athletics students then will graduate at 1 p. m. and Agriculture, Chemistry and Physics, Engineering, and Mineral Industries graduates will follow at 3:30 p. m.

'Barb' Klopp Crowned IC-4A Queen

Barbara Klopp, Miss Penn State of 1951, won her second beauty title in two weeks when she was crowned queen of the 75th diamond jubilee celebration of the IC-4A track and field meet in Philadelphia over the weekend.

It was the second beauty contest the junior in Arts and Letters had ever entered.

A Collegian reporter's telephone interview with Barbara Klopp yesterday was punctuated with screams of terror and wild confusion from the beauty queen. It seems that a wolf-minded mouse had decided to look over the IC-4A lovely for himself to see if the judges knew what they were talking about.

The mouse was unavailable for comment.

Crowned at a banquet Friday night, she was the queen of the parade of floats Saturday afternoon preceding the track meet.

"Honestly, with Miss Penn State and everything," she said when interviewed yesterday, "it's all so sudden I'm still going around in a whirl."

Representatives from forty-three schools were entered in the contest.

Hort Show To Be Held Oct. 19-21

The Hort Club is making plans for the 1951 Hort Show, to be held Oct. 19-21 in the stock pavilion, according to M. T. Lewis, club adviser.

"Autumn Symphony" is the theme of the show, which will consist of four division displays and a central landscape panel.

The division displays will be ornamental horticulture, pomology, vegetation, and landscaping. Each of these divisions will have two phases of interest—propagation and breeding.

Alumni Week-end

The Hort Show will be a feature of alumni week-end again this year. Last year over 10,000 persons went to see the displays, which consisted of live trees and a goldfish pond with a running stream of water.

The landscaping for the central panel will be planned by a committee led by John Kudroski. Fowler Strang is working on an exhibition of cut flowers.

The officers for the show are Francis Hoffman, manager; Joseph Ondrejko, assistant manager; Helen Stender, secretary; Robert Baer, procurement manager, and Harold Kreiser, program manager.

Alumni Association Gets Ticket Priority

Alumni who join the Penn State Alumni Association will receive first priority on reserved football tickets next fall, Ridge Riley, executive secretary of the association, recently announced.

The special two dollar membership rate of the Alumni Association for graduating seniors is being offered until June 11.

Riley said that after June 11 the regular dues of $3 per year will apply. Application forms may be turned into the alumni office, 104 Old Main.

In addition to preference, membership entitles alumni to subscriptions for the Alumni News, 32-page magazine published seven times a year; the Penn Stater, a quarterly newspaper; and the Football Letter, which gives a personalized account of each game.

"The College and her alumni depend upon each other," Riley said, "and since the College has become an integral part of our lives, as alumni it would still pay us to keep informed of what Penn State does in our own technical and professional fields as well as keep in touch with our classmates through alumni facilities."

"Maintain a permanent contact with your College and be of service to yourself and Penn State," Riley said.

The Alumni Association works locally through its 62 district clubs in Pennsylvania, main cities of the nation, and Puerto Rico. These district clubs hold meetings featuring campus speakers and films, advance scholarships, and aid the College with special projects like the sponsoring of the annual Men's Glee Club concerts held in Pennsylvania cities. In a recent letter sent to all graduating seniors, President Milton S. Eisenhower urged the students to become Alumni Association members and said, "The alumni are the real interpreters of the College to the people of the commonwealth and of the nation."
