

Summer Stock Group Offers Amusing Play

"Light Up The Sky" enters the second and final week of its Center Stage run tonight offering one of the most amusing bits of theater fare seen here recently.

The production is the first of three, each to be staged for two weeks by a summer stock company headed by Walt Walters and Warren Smith as producers.

Done by a cast that for the most part seems to know what they

Trustees Approve New Scholarships For Penn State

Provisions for three scholarships to be established at the College were approved at the last meeting of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of the College, said today.

One of the scholarships, established by the late Mary Elizabeth Garner Rothrock, of State College, has been designated to aid worthy Centre County boys in securing a college education or more advanced training.

To establish the scholarship, Mrs. Rothrock bequeathed to the College the sum of $5,000 to be known as the Garner Rothrock Memorial Fund, the income of which will support the scholarship.

Class of 1893

Mrs. Rothrock was a daughter of one of State College's oldest families and attended the Preparatory Department at the College commencing in 1887 and entered the College in the Class of 1893. Her husband, William P. Rothrock, also was a member of the Class of 1893 and served at one time as burgess of the Borough of State College. He died in 1944 and Mrs. Rothrock died on Dec. 2, 1950.

Provisions of a memorial scholarship fund in memory of the late Lt. Lawrence J. Ostermayer, of Clairton, which was established in 1950 with a gift of $15,000 from Robert W. Ostermayer, of Clairton, father of Lieutenant Ostermayer, also were approved by the Trustees.

Posthumous Degree

Lieutenant Ostermayer was enrolled at Penn State in the commerce and finance curriculum from 1940 until he entered the service in 1943, and was killed while serving with the U. S. Air Force in India. In 1946, the College posthumously awarded him the degree of bachelor of arts.

Under the provisions adopted, (continued on page eight)

Farrell Is Acting Ag Vice-Dean

Dr. M. A. Farrell, assistant director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the College, has been named acting vice-dean, School of Agriculture and acting director of the Experiment Station for the period, July 1 to June 30, 1952 and Dr. Howard O. Triebold, professor of agricultural and biological chemistry, has been named acting head of the department of agricultural and biological chemistry, also effective July 1.

The changes, approved at a meeting of the Board of Trustees, were announced by President Milton S. Eisenhower.

Dr. Farrell will serve in the post vacated by Dr. F. F. Lininger who has been granted a leave of absence to serve as chief of the Agricultural Institutions and Service Branch, Food and Agriculture Organization, of the United Nations with headquarters in Rome, Italy while Dr. Triebold succeeds Dr. R. Adams Dutcher, who will retire with emeritus rank on June 30 after 30 years of service as head of the department.

Korean Envoy To Speak Here

Dr. You Is Med. Grad, Boston U.

Summer sessions students at the College will have an opportunity to hear the attitudes of the Republic of Korea toward the current cease-fire talks in that country tomorrow afternoon when Dr. You Chan Yang, ambassador from Korea to the United States will speak on that topic at the Radio and Television Institute.

Dr. You was born in Pusan, Korea, a community familiar in this country from Korean war dispatches. He spent much of his life in Hawaii, however, practicing medicine in Honolulu. He received his bachelor of science and doctor of medicine degrees at Boston University.

Dr. You will be introduced by S. M. Vinocour, former faculty member at the College, who is now with the Korean-Pacific Press in Washington, D.C. Vinocour will preside at the afternoon session tomorrow.

Dr. You's talk, which is expected to be mainly on the subject of the peace treaty, will be open to the public.

College Senior Wins Warner Bros. Contract

Raymond D. Rachkowski, a senior at the College, last month won a six-month contract to Warner Brothers film company as a result of a nation-wide talent contest sponsored by the company.

Rachkowski, winner of the local contests held at the Cathaum theatre, proceeded to the semi-finals at Greensburg and from there to the finals for the Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia region in Pittsburgh. There he was one of three winners from more than 2000 entrants.

Rachkowski's winning performance was a dramatic monologue from the movie, "Home of the Brave."

are about, Moss Hart's parody of what the behind the scenes theater is—or might seem to an outsider, pokes fun at both the theater people and the public.

Always on the borderline between the credible and the incredible, the comedy steps off into the farcical for laughs now and then but no particular harm is done.

Show's Star

Harold Fishbein steals the show with his characterization of a rich roughneck who steps into the theater game "not to make money" but for his own personal satisfaction.

Joe Bird seems to thoroughly enjoy his part as Carleton Fitzgerald, an eccentric director who is marked by his oft-repeated "Oh, I could cry."

Helen Jaskol turns in a creditable performance as the star's mother although fighting a handicap of being a bit more glamorous than the daughter.

Joyce Rexford

The star herself, Joyce Rexford as Irene Livingston, seems at times a bit stilted although the job of consciously overplaying the part of a star is not always easy, e.g., "Bless you, darling!"

Jack Tyo, as an on-stager with an off-stage viewpoint is a bit too stiff in a stiff part, that of a playwright who abhors the falseness of the theater yet loves it.

Jim Beaver as Peter Sloan, a naive, young playwright who (continued on page eight)

Freshmen To Plan Summer Programs

A meeting for fresh will be held tomorrow in 304 Old Main at 7:30 p.m. by the PSCA.

The purpose of the meeting is to plan and arrange a frosh program for the summer session.

Preceding the meeting there will be a movie shown "This Is Penn State." The freshmen will also learn some of the school songs.

Test-Drilling

DRILLING RIGS on Holmes field this week caused discussion among students about the proposed Student Union building. College officials however said that the building was no closer to completion than previously since the tests were being taken only as a means of discovering what problems would be met if the building were started.

Radio-TV Institute To Hear Peace Views

The proposed cease-fire negotiations now being discussed between United Nations forces and the Communists in Korea is expected to be the topic of an address by Dr. You Chan Yang, Korean ambassador to the United States, at the closing session of the fourth annual Radio and Television Institute tomorrow.

DR. YOU CHAN YANG

More than 300 leaders in radio, television and education are expected to attend the two-day conference which begins at 10 o'clock this morning in Sparks building. Bob Prince, Pittsburgh sportscaster and announcer for the College's home football games in the fall, will lead a lecture-discussion this morning at 10 o'clock.

Role of TV

The role that television can play in education will be the subject for the 1:30 session this afternoon with John D. Scheurer, Jr., of station WFIL, Philadelphia, as principal speaker. Dr. C. R. Carpenter, professor of psychology at the College, will preside.

In a panel following the talk, Dean George L. Haller, of the School of Chemistry and Physics, Dean M. R. Trabue, of the School of Education, and Dr. Carpenter will join with Pennsylvania radio and television men in a discussion on the future of TV in the light of recently assigned channels.

Tapes For Teachers

Thursday morning at nine o'clock, George Yoachim, director of Audio-Visual Aids in the Erie public schools, will talk on "Tapes for Teachers." A. W. VanderMeer, associate professor of education, will preside. At 10 o'clock, Homer Martz, agricultural director for station KDKA, Pittsburgh, will speak on "Programming for the Rural Audience."

The main speaker, Dr. You, will begin his talk at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon in room 121 Sparks. S. M. Vinocour, of the department of Speech will introduce the ambassador. Vinocour is currently working for the Korean government in Washington.

All sessions of the Institute are open to the public, and there is no admission charge.

Dr. Harold E. Nelson, assistant professor of speech at the College, is arranging the program.

Six Faculty Members Get Leaves Of Absence

Leaves of absence for six faculty members have been approved by the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Robert T. Oliver, professor and head of the department of speech, was granted a leave for the fall semester. He will serve as special adviser to Dr. Syngman Rhee, president of the Republic of Korea.

Dr. John G. Aston, professor of organic chemistry and director of the low temperature laboratory, was granted a leave from July 1 to June 30, 1952 to conduct research and teach at the University of Leyden, Holland, under the Fulbright program.

David H. McKinley, associate professor of finance, was granted a leave from July 1 to June 30, 1952 for graduate work at Western Reserve University.

Dr. Philip J. Elving, professor of chemistry, has been granted a year's leave to lecture at Harvard, and Charles J. Rowland, professor of accounting, will be on leave during the fall semester to write a textbook.

Joseph C. Nageotte, professor of dairy husbandry extension, has been granted a leave for the spring semester, 1952 to visit experimental barns throughout the country.

4 Students To Take Deferment Test

Four students will take the Selective Service College Qualification Test here tomorrow, Dr. Hugh M. Davison, professor of educational research, reported.

The test is for the benefit of those men whose religion prohibits them from taking the examinations on a Saturday. The first three tests had been Saturdays.

3781 At College For Main Session

A total of 3781 students have been enrolled at the College for the Main Summer Session, according to John E. Miller, administrative assistant to the director of summer sessions.

While the enrollment is less than the 4033 final figure of last summer, special programs for which students will register during July and August are expected to bring the figure close to the enrollment of last year.

Last year 2301 had pre-registered as compared to the 2252 which pre-registered this year.

Enrollment for the Inter-Session, as well as the last Six Weeks Science Session which will continue until July 20, totals 2691, which does not include more than 500 persons who participated in week-long conferences and workshops during the Session.