

Penn Staters Take Part In Navy Assault

Forty-one Penn State Naval Reserve Midshipmen were headed for port recently aboard ships of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet after making an assault landing yesterday on Camp Pendleton Beach, near Norfolk, Virginia.

The group, headed by Midshipmen Officers A. C. Harvey; R. S. Gehaman; O. H. Barmes; J. O. Carney; and M. J. Weat; is part of an 827-man Reserve Midshipman regiment which sailed July 9 from Norfolk. Their eighteen-ship Amphibious Task Group is under the command of Captain E. L. Schleif, USN, Commander Transport Division Twenty-Four.

Yesterday's landing, in which a fully equipped battalion of Marines was put ashore ready to fight, saw Reserve Midshipmen taking part in almost every Naval task in the complicated business of amphibious warfare. Together with regular crews, they manned the scores of small landing craft which carried the Marines to the beach from transports anchored several miles off-shore. They served aboard the LSMR's (rocket firing ships), LST's (Landing Ship, Tank), and other smaller vessels which took part in the landing. Earlier in the week the Midshipmen took part in the rehearsal landing at Little Creek, Virginia, and received intensive training in the jobs they may someday fill as Naval Officers.

The Midshipmen's week afloat followed two weeks of preparatory training at the Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Virginia. Twenty-five colleges and universities throughout the United States were represented among the cruising Midshipmen.

The Penn State students on the cruise were: C. W. Bascom; R. W. Body; H. S. Bolan; P. T. Bourdeau; G. F. Carter; R. D. Clark; E. E. Cole; T. A. Eastland; G. T. Eden; R. A. Erb; C. A. Erickson; R. B. Evans; N. Gresham; E. J. Gulas; P. E. Harmeier; L. B. Hartsough Jr.; A. C. Harvey; E. E. Howard; T. H. Irving; D. D. Kinsey; P. J. Lunde; J. A. Martin; W. B. McMillin Jr.; J. E. McNamara; E. J.
