Orientation week activities will come to a climax Saturday night in Recreation Hall with an All-College Fun Night for new students. The Fun Night, under sponsorship of All-College Cabinet, will begin at 7 p.m.

The dean of women's office has granted freshman women permission to attend the program until it ends, but they must then return immediately to their dorms.

Free Tickets

A tumbling act by new freshman gymnasts will be presented. The sound film, "This is Penn State," will be shown. Round and square dancing will be held and facilities for card games, volleyball, and other indoor sports will be played.

New students may pick up their free tickets at the offices of the deans of their schools; Marilyn Williams, chairman, has announced.

Students new to the campus met student government leaders for the first time in Recreation Hall Monday night.

question. In case they're still looking, we have since learned that Helen lives on the fourth floor.

The most frequent request, or we should say plea, was "Can't we use the elevators?" The elevators work on keys which are only in the hands of janitors, housekeepers and hostesses, but that's hard to tell people who have loaded all the early possessions of one girl into a car.

The line at the receiving platform was almost as long as the one in the front of the key window in Hamilton.

The mail chute proved too much of a temptation for a little brother who was bored with the unpacking process. He confiscated some Kleenex and proceeded to deposit it in the slot.
