

Klisanin, NSA Chairman, Named Head for Region

William Klisanin, chairman of the National Student Association at the College, was elected president of the Pennsylvania Region of the United States NSA this summer at a conference at Downingtown.

Klisanin is starting his second year as head of the College's NSA. Last year he was vice-president of International Affairs for the Pennsylvania region.

The regional office will be set up at the College. Students will be needed to help with clerical work as well as for other NSA projects. A call for workers will be issued near the beginning of the semester.

Leads Discussion

At the conference, Luther Harshbarger, College chaplain, who discussed "NSA: Today and Tomorrow" in a panel, was elected to the advisory council. Harry Cover, All-College vice-president, spoke on the Penn State NSA's absentee voting petition in a panel discussion of student affairs.

Klisanin led a discussion on international affairs. Lenore Kanowitz served on the ways and means committee. Thomas Jurchak, All-College secretary-treasurer, and David Fitzcharles also represented the College.

The regional NSA opposed loyalty oaths in the academic field and sent a letter to the state legislature attacking the Pechan loyalty oath bill. Penn State's absentee voting plan was approved.

Communist Problem

Elizabeth Emlea, regional director of the Middle Atlantic and New York areas of the World Student Service Fund, lauded the College's aid to displaced persons program.

Allard Lowenstein, national NSA president, discussed the difficulties encountered by NSA when it tried to work with the communist-dominated International Union of Students. The two organizations no longer cooperate.

The conference approved faculty evaluation and universal military training.

Auto Poll Will Be Taken

An automobile census will be undertaken by the College this semester to provide a basis for further study of the campus parking problem.

Walter H. Wiegand, director of physical plant, said the student census will be conducted as part of formal registration this week, while the faculty-staff census will be undertaken a few weeks later.

With these combined figures, Wiegand hopes to gain a thorough knowledge of the traffic on campus during the day, and in that way be better able to tackle the parking problem on campus.

Campus patrol records show that only 4000 permit tags have been issued to automobile owners over a four-year period, he said.

"Those figures," Wiegand explains, "are not conclusive. I think it would be foolhardy to spend a lot of time on the problem without first making an accurate count of the automobiles on campus."

Forum Gets Outstanding Speakers

Three outstanding speakers have already been engaged to speak during the coming year at Penn State's Community Forum series.

The lecturers contracted thus far include Eric Johnston, economic stabilizer; Kurt Von Schuschnigg, former chancellor of Austria; and Dr. Bernard Bell, author and present consultant on education to the Bishop of Chicago.

Johnston, listed for the Nov. 23 forum lecture, was scheduled to appear here last year when he was president of the Motion Picture Association of America. However, appointment to his present post as administrator of the economic stabilization agency forced him to cancel the engagement.

Austrian Chancellor

Johnston is also a former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Von Schuschnigg also holds an imposing record. A soldier, scholar

Walker Begins Dean's Duties

Dr. Eric Walker has succeeded Dr. Harry P. Hammond as dean of the School of Engineering.

Dean Walker divided his time between instruction and industry during the period from 1934 to 1945. From 1942 to 1945, he worked with the Harvard underwater sound laboratory at Cambridge, Mass., emerging as associate director. For his work there, he was awarded the Naval Ordnance Development Award and a Presidential Certificate of Merit.

Dean Walker, along with Dr. Hammond, was instrumental in getting the ordnance research and development board of the Department of Defense.

Dr. Hammond retired with emeritus rank.

Hat Society to Meet

Skull and Bones, men's hat society, will meet tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. in Rec Hall. Plans for Fun Night and the distribution of shingles is the order of business, president Clair George said.

Two-Way Traffic Rule Is Initiated

(Reprinted from Monday's Collegian) Pollock and Shortlidge roads on the campus are open for two-way traffic under a recent ruling by the College. Last year, both roads were open only to one-way traffic.

As a result of this change, no parking or stopping will be permitted at any time on Shortlidge road from College avenue to Pollock road. No parking will be permitted on Pollock road, except on the north side from 5:30 p.m. to midnight, physical plant officials said.

All reserved parking spaces on Pollock road have been canceled to permit the free flow of two-way traffic.

Four Parking Areas Named

After the opening of the regular session next week, a revision of the overall parking system on campus is planned, officials stated, and new permits will be issued. At that time, the administration intends to eliminate all reserved parking spaces except for those vehicles on emergency call and those people who are physically handicapped.

Four new parking areas will be placed on campus to make up for parking space consumed under the new traffic plan.

Temporary Measure

One area will be constructed north of the Service Building along Pollock road, behind the Phi Delta Theta fraternity house. A second will be established south of the engineering units atop the bank along College avenue. A third will be located south of Grange dormitory, north of Temporary Buildings. The fourth will be built north of the Jordan fertility plots near the TUB.

One-way traffic was established on Pollock road in 1948 as a temporary measure when the increase in the student body and construction work demanded additional parking space.
