

Faculty Makes News Throughout Summer

Several members of the College faculty have been making news during the summer months.

Capt. Alfred F. Pelka and 1st Lt. David Wirshborn, members of the Department of Air Science and Tactics, spent the summer as guest instructors in the academic instructor course of the Air Command and Staff School, Air University, Montgomery, Ala.

Several faculty members spent part of the summer participating in workshops.

Donald Davis, professor of journalism, led a discussion on "Social Responsibilities of the Advertising Teacher" at the American Association for Education in Journalism Convention in Urbana, Ill.

Dr. Frederick B. Marbut discussed research in journalism history.

Marbut Writes Article

Marbut, also a journalism professor, is author of an article, "The United States Senate and the Press, 1838-1841," that appeared in the summer issue of the Journalism Quarterly.

Dr. Gerhard Ehmman, associate professor of education, conducted two two-week workshops on higher education at Frankfurt, Germany. He was one of four educators chosen for the project by the State Department and the high commissioner of Germany.

Charles Marsh, assistant professor of electrical engineering was among 19 professors from leading engineering colleges who augmented textbook knowledge by working in industry this summer.

11 Attend Meeting

Eleven members of the Department of Psychology staff attended the 59th annual meeting of the American Psychological Association at Chicago.

Bruce V. Moore, department head, attended the meeting in three official capacities, including his position as president-elect of the conference of state psychological associations.

Other members attending were William M. Lepley, William U. Snyder, John F. Hall, John L. Kobrick, Robert G. Bernreuter, Albert F. Kurtz, Lester P. Guest, Joseph H. Grosslight, George M. Guthrie, and Dr. Nathan Jaspen.

Brickman At MIT

Arthur D. Brickman, assistant professor of mechanical engineering, is enrolled for graduate study at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He has been granted a leave of absence from the College until June 30 of next year.

David B. Pugh, in charge of instruction in central extension and one of the organizers of the original undergraduate centers of the College, will retire this month after 28 years here. He will become professor of education and director of the Evening College and Summer School at Queens College, Charlotte, N.C.

Two faculty members recently were named deans at southern colleges.

Journ Prof Goes South

Ross Schlabach Jr., assistant professor of journalism here will head the School of Journalism at the University of South Carolina.

Dr. Pauline Berry Mack, director of the Ellen H. Richards Institute of the School of Home Economics, has accepted the deanship of the College of Household Arts and Sciences at Texas State College.

Louis H. Bell, director of public information, was elected vice-president for membership of the American College Public Relations Association.

Officer Wins Award

Maj. Walter D. Sowa, formerly a member of the Department of Military Science and Tactics, was named secretary of the general staff of Maj. Gen. Clovis Byers,

Women's Board Exempts Six From Customs

Immunities were granted to six freshman women by the freshman customs and regulations board last Saturday. Marian Ungar, secretary, announced.

Freshman women over 21 or those who had undergone freshman customs on other campuses were the only ones exempted.

Although a Jewish holiday falls within the three-week customs period, Jewish students may go home on those days without appearing before the board, Joan Yerger, chairman, said.

The board will continue to meet every Saturday at 10 a.m. in the WSGA room in White Hall, Miss Yerger said, in order to try the cases of offenders of customs.

Choir Holds Tryouts

The Chapel Choir will wind up preliminary tryouts for upperclassmen tonight in 100 Carnegie. Sopranos will audition at 7, and altos will tryout at 8.

Trustees to Meet

The College Board of Trustees is expected to hold its fall meeting today at the Shawnee-on-Delaware estate of Fred Waring. This is the third year that the trustees have been entertained by Waring. President Milton S. Eisenhower is expected to be present.

Fire Extinguished At Phi Epsilon Pi

Being elected president of a fraternity usually means carrying out the official business of the house, but Bernard Gutterman, president of Phi Epsilon Pi, got more than he bargained for when his brothers called him from the second floor to extinguish burning grease in the kitchen.

The Alpha fire company came to the rescue when they were called on Saturday afternoon but the fire was almost out when they reached the house. Except for slight smoke stains on the walls and ceiling, no damage was done.
