ROBERT ALDERDICE AND RICHARD HARTLE, two hatmen, check frosh customs yesterday in the lobby of Hamilton Hall. It was the first appearance of any hatmen since customs began Monday, but they vanished again after only an hour of checking.

On Campus with the Frosh

Greek Organizations Confuse Freshmen

One of the newer female arrivals on campus, perhaps a bit more confused than some of her companions, approached a female upperclassman and asked her, "Are Leonides and Panhellenic the only two sororities on campus?" The dazed upperclasswoman's answer unfortunately was not recorded.

Rumors around MacAllister Hall have it that some of the freshman women are already tired of customs. Just to change the boring routine of things they doffed their dress customs and "played upperclasswoman" for a while. They got the biggest charge out of hazing some of their fellow freshman until someone recognized them. Now there are two friendless women roaming the lonely halls of MacAllister.

Bobby Metzger, a freshman from East Stroudsburg lives on the fourth floor of MacAllister Hall. "Trudging up and down the stairs seven times a day is one way to keep the waistline down, but it gets awfully tiring," she sighed. Counting up the steps, she reported that there are 72 steps from the bottom to the top. Multiply this by seven trips up and seven more down—1008 steps a day.

Barbara Patton from Strafford couldn't find her history class—and for once it wasn't her fault. Arriving at the door of her class in Willard Hall, she naively asked several intelligent looking males standing at the doorway if this was the right class. They looked back at her blankly and responded, "No, the classroom has been switched to Sparks." At Sparks the joke was continued and she was sent merrily on her way to Temporary. At Temp she finally caught on and got back to her class just in time, to be dismissed.

Titles Given To Pastors And Laymen

Pastors of local churches who work with students have been given the status of counselors in religion with the College, W. E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs, said yesterday.

This is an arrangement to promote closer cooperation and to recognize the relationship of local pastors to student life, Kenworthy explained.

Those designated are ordained ministers representing the various churches. For churches not having ordained ministers, a lay representative has been designated and will have the status of adviser in religion.

The counselors and advisers, all of whom were approved by Inter-Religious Council, do not become College employees.

Counselors in religion are the Rev. John N. Peabody, Canterbury Club; the Rev. James P. Reed, Evangelical and United Brethren Fellowship; the Rev. Constantine Auroroff, Greek Catholic Orthodox Society, Rabbi Benjamin Kahn, Hillel Foundation; the Rev. John F. Harkins and the Rev. E. E. Korte, Lutheran Student Association, the Rev. John O'Leary and the Rev. Richard Walsh, Newman Club.

The Rev. Luther H. Harshbarger, Penn State Christian Association; the Rev. Robert H. Eads, Roger Williams Fellowship; the Rev. Albert S. Asendorf and Rev. Richard A. Goodling, United Student Fellowship; the Rev. Frank W. Montgomery, Wesley Foundation; and the Rev. Donald W. Caruthers and the Rev. An-

AIM Expects to Organize 4 Councils in 5 Weeks

The Association of Independent Men expects to have the four AIM councils organized within five weeks, John Laubach, AIM president, said yesterday.

Laubach said that members of last year's Board of Governors will help with the organization of Nittany, Pollock, West Dorm, and Town councils.

The West Dorm council, in operation for its second year, will follow a new organization plan this year, Thomas Durek, last year's council president, announced.

All nominations for district officers must be made on printed nomination petition forms and signed by at least ten resident electors, Durek said.

These petition forms are obtainable from resident advisers and will also be distributed at a district meeting to be held in each hall lounge. The exact time and date of these meetings will be posted on the bulletin boards in the districts, Durek added.

Each candidate may run for only one office, and there will be at least two nominees for each office.

The deadline for nomination petitions, which can be given to resident advisers, is midnight, Sept. 30.

Another district meeting will be held before Oct. 3. At this meeting each candidate for election may present his ideas about the council operations and qualifications.

After the district elections, Durek said, West Dorm Council will hold its first meeting at 7 p.m. Oct. 8 in McKee Hall lounge.

All district presidents and vice presidents from districts where there are 105 or more electors, which are the first, second, third, and fourth floors of Watts, Irvin, and Hamilton Halls, are to attend.

The return of a men's housing file in the dean of men's office will enable Town Council to organize in less than half the time it took last year, Laubach said.

The men's housing card system, which was dropped from registration procedure in 1948, is being financed at present by the AIM until other cooperating groups can allocate funds. Other cooperation groups are IFC, Campus Chest, Dean of Men's office, and College telephone service. The cards will be available to all campus groups and will be filed permanently in the Dean of Men's office, 109 Old Main.

As soon after registration as possible, the cards will also be available to the public at the main West Dorm lobby desk every evening for three weeks.

A temporary telephone directory will also be compiled from the cards to be used by the telephone operators until the Student Directory is printed.

New York's Bums Startle Ukrainian DP

Ukrainian D. P.

SEVA AREFJEV

Wsevolod Arefjev, 19-year old Ukrainian displaced person, was surprised to see bums begging on Third Avenue in New York City. He lived in Germany from 1944 to 1951 where Hitler had forbidden begging. Very little is seen there now.

His first name was shortened to Seva by the displaced persons committee which brought him to State College where he is working as a house boy at the Nittany Lion Inn. Next year, he plans to take Aeronautical Engineering at the College.

Born in the Ukraine, he lived there until 1943 when the Germans moved him to Czechoslovakia where he stayed until Stalin's picture and the red flag were hanging on all buildings.

At his home, besides studying Ukrainian, he had German, English and Latin.

In 1945, Arefjev worked as a farmer in Germany. He attended school in Nuremberg and a United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation camp in 1946. Through the International Relief Organization, he entered a gymnasium, which is comparable to a senior high school and junior college.

He applied for assurance papers to come to the United States two years ago. Two months later he went to a Civilian Intelligence Corps settlement where he took a medical exam and a navy exam for the United States consul.

Through the Immigration and Naturalization Service he went to Bremen and then to Bremen-haven from where he sailed aboard a navy ship. Eight days later, Sept. 4, he arrived in New York.

In New York he was told that he would have to work a year before attending college. Arefjev said that the information disappointed him and he felt that he was losing a year from his life.

Use of Meal Tickets Limited

Students may not use their meal tickets in any other campus dining room than the one indicated on their card, Mildred A. Baker, director of foods service, said yesterday.

Friends are now permitted to dine with students in their dining halls on Saturday nights or Sunday noon by purchasing tickets at the specified desks in the various dining halls. This does not make a student meal ticket transferable.

Sale of tickets will begin on each Wednesday and continue until the following Tuesday for dinners that week-end, or until the limited supply of tickets have been purchased.

Students must present their own meal ticket and matriculation cards in order to purchase guest tickets. Simmons, Atherton, McElwain desks, West Dormitory post office, Dorm 20 office, and housekeeper's office in Woman's Building are the distribution points for tickets.
