

Today's Weather
Cloudy And Probable Showers

The Daily Collegian

FOR A BETTER PENN STATE

Students Deserve
A Better Deal—
See Page 4

VOL. 52 — No. 9

STATE COLLEGE, PA., TUESDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 25, 1951

PRICE FIVE CENTS

They're Sorry Now

— Photo by Rosenberg
CUSTOMS VIOLATOR Herbert Nealon checks the black-ened eye of another violator, Thomas Fitzsimmons. His arm is in a sling, too. Nealon and Fitzsimmons were sentenced by Tribunal last week. They must wear their signs and slings all this week.

Frosh Show Spirit In Unscheduled Rally

In their first burst of enthusiasm since the customs program began Sept. 17, several hundred freshmen held a roving pep rally on campus Sunday night.

The rally began with cheering in the West Dorm area where frosh were called out of the dorms by a rally yell. Led by William Shook, a freshman, and a half dozen green-dinked frosh, the freshmen massed on the steps of Old Main where they sang school songs.

The group moved to MacAllister and Grange Halls where they sang to the coeds. The frosh then went to the Nittany area, repeating the rally yell and calling out more classmates.

After serenades at Simmons and McElwain Halls, the freshmen formed a single file snake line and moved across campus to President Eisenhower's house. There were almost a thousand in the crowd by that time.

Hanna Leads Cheers

Gathering quietly before the Prexy's home, the frosh sang the Alma Mater. President Eisenhower spoke to the crowd and it then dispersed.

Thomas Hanna, head cheerleader, led the frosh in cheers. Several hatmen mixed with the freshmen, but the rally was not initiated by them. Cheering from the rally could be heard throughout the borough.

Tribunal To Meet

David Mutchler, Tribunal chairman, said he felt the rally was a "good sign of spirit." He also said the customs program had gone along "very well" but added there had been some laxity in dating customs over the weekend.

Tribunal will meet tonight to consider more customs violation cases. Violators will be punished and will march around the football field at the Boston University football game Saturday.

Collegian Business Staff

Carolyn Alley, personnel manager of the Daily Collegian, requests all interested freshmen and sophomores to attend the meeting of the business staff at 7 tonight in 1 Carnegie Hall. Miss Alley said the staff needs me, especially.

The promotion, circulation, advertising, and classified departments of the Daily Collegian will be discussed.

Newman Club Movie

The Newman Club, Catholic student organization, will sponsor the film, "The Keys of the Kingdom," starring Gregory Peck, at 7 tonight in 217 Willard Hall.

Football Tickets On Sale

Tickets for the football opener with Boston University Saturday are now on sale at the athletic office, 102 Old Main. Ticket prices are $3.60 for side seats, and $2.40 for end seats.

Student tickets for the Villanova game at Allentown, Oct. 6, are also available. All seats for the game will be $3, reserved. Checks should be made payable to the Penn State Athletic Association.

Marsteller Chosen MC for Pep Rally

Patricia Marsteller, a third semester student at the College, has been named master of ceremonies of the pre-Boston University football game pep rally, Friday night, Frank Lewis, entertainment chairman, announced yesterday.

Miss Marsteller, the first woman student to MC a rally in recent years, made her first appearance as a comedienne in the Penn State Club talent show last year. She mimicked Jerry Lewis, Broadway and Hollywood star.

"An MC for the entertainment at the 'Kickoff Dance,' which will follow the rally, has not yet been named, Lewis said.

President Milton S. Eisenhower and Coach "Rip" Engle will speak at the rally. Engle will introduce some of the players, and cheerleaders will lead the songs and cheers.

Tickets at SU

The program will begin at 7 p.m. at Prospect and Garner streets from where the Blue Band will lead a parade to the Lion Shrine for the rally.

Tickets for the dance are on sale at the Student Union desk in Old Main. Several hat societies are assisting with ticket sales. The price of admission is 50 cents per person. Jack Huber and his orchestra will play.

All eight hat societies and Al-

Oath Action Delayed By House

HARRISBURG, Sept. 24—(AP)—The House delayed action again today on a bill requiring employees in Pennsylvania to take loyalty oaths as opponents sought to kill the measure.

A delegation of civic, religious and labor groups, opposing the bill, gathered here today to urge its return to committee.

Robert Folwell, Philadelphia, spokesman for the groups, said every effort is being made to send the measure back to committee to die.

Rep. Charles C. Smith, Republican floor leader, said meanwhile the GOP caucus may take the bill under study tomorrow to decide whether to push it to a final vote or recommit it.

The measure would require anti-Communist vows by all public workers, including school teachers and elected officials. It is one step short of a final vote in the House calendar. It has been held there since early last week when it was sent to the floor by the House state government committee.

The Senate-passed measure is strongly opposed by teacher organization and civil rights groups along with the state AFL and CIO. Backing the bill are state veterans organizations and Gov. John S. Fine.

Opponents of the bill claim it would fall far short of its goal to prevent any Communists from seeking and getting employment in Pennsylvania. Instead, they maintain it would promote "fear and suspicion among public employees" and would expose them to the risk of being "branded with unproved charges."

Pat Marsteller

Phi Omega, national service fraternity, have pledged to aid the Campus Chest, which is sponsoring the program. Campus Chest, which has set a $12,000 goal for this year, will receive the profits from the dance.

Campus Chest combines most of the annual donation drives into a "give to one, serve all" program.

No information was available yesterday concerning the lifting of freshman customs for the dance, but Lewis said the announcement would be forthcoming.

All eight hat societies and Al-

Enrollment Reaches 11,463, Shows 8 Per Cent Drop

Total enrollment at the College for the fall semester has reached 11,463 students, C. O. Williams, Dean of Admissions, announced yesterday.

Of this total, there are 9975 undergraduate students, 1301 graduate students, 181 special students, and six miscellaneous students.

This figure represents a drop of 1821 from the total enrollment at the College for last semester, when 13,284 students were on campus. In percentage, the drop shows an eight percent smaller enrollment than last semester. This figure compares favorably with the drop of 10 percent experienced in schools throughout the country.

Williams said that college administrators expected a much larger decline because of the draft and other financial conditions, but were relieved to note the comparatively slight drop.

2.6 Ratio

In spite of the enrollment drop, there are actually more students on campus this semester than there were during the Spring semester. The cause of this, he explained, is that there are fewer students attending Penn State centers than there were in previous semesters. At present there are approximately 800 students enrolled at centers.

A breakdown of the figures reveals there are 8290 men and 3173 women on campus, which works out to a 2.6 ratio. Last semester there was a 3.2 male-female ratio.

The totals by semesters are: first semester, 1855 men and 722 women; second semester, 141 men and 44 women; third semester, 1501 men and 630 women; fourth semester, 184 men and 67 women.

1301 Grad Students

Fifth semester, 1475 men and 581 women; sixth semester, 251 men and 46 women; seventh semester, 1355 men and 650 women; eighth semester, 337 men and 86 women.

In the graduate school there are 1108 men and 193 women; special students, 79 men and 102 women; and miscellaneous, four men and two women.

Included in the total male enrollment are 1797 veterans, the smallest number attending the College since the war.

Three Professors Resign Positions

Pres. Milton S. Eisenhower has announced the resignation of three faculty members of the College.

Dr. Andre L. Jorissen, professor of civil engineering, has resigned effective Sept. 30 to accept a position as head of the Department of Hydraulics at Cornell University. Dr. Jorissen joined the faculty two years ago.

Mabel E. Satterthwaite, associate professor of home economics extension, will resign to be married. Her resignation becomes official Oct. 31.

Dr. Charles D. Cox, associate professor of bacteriology, who joined the faculty Feb. 1, 1949, resigned Aug. 31 to become head of the Department of Microbiology in the School of Medicine of the University of South Dakota.

Jorissen to Head Cornell Department

Prof. Andre L. Jorissen for two years head of Penn State's hydraulics laboratory, yesterday was named head of the Hydraulics department in the School of Civil Engineering at Cornell University, according to the Associated Press.

Prof. Jorissen succeeds Prof. Marvin Bogema, acting head of the department since the retirement of Dr. Ernest W. Schoder in 1947.

After serving on the faculty at the University of Liege, in Belgium, for 22 years, Prof. Jorissen came to the College in 1949.

Student Fees Will Be Paid Oct. 4 and 5

Student fees for the semester will be collected from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Oct. 4 and 5, in 6 Willard Hall.

The amount of fees due will be posted Oct. 4 by matriculation number in the lobby of Willard Hall. David C. Hogan Jr., bursar, asked students to check this board and write checks for the proper amount before getting into alphabetical lines. If students would follow this procedure, rather than waiting until they reach the window to write checks, the whole process of paying fees would be speeded up considerably, Hogan said.

All checks are to be made payable to the Pennsylvania State College.

The College does not bill parents because students have three weeks to obtain the money and also because of the large student enrollment.

This year printed sheets stating the estimated fees of undergraduate students were distributed to all dormitory students when they received their meal tickets and room keys. Students living off campus may obtain a copy of this form at the bursar's office in the basement of Willard Hall. From this sheet students should be able to allocate the amounts they must pay.

If students have any questions about the amount they are to pay next week, they may call at 6 Willard Hall and receive assistance in working out their problems.

Waring to Give Benefit Concert

To help establish a hospital in Tyrone, Fred Waring, orchestra and choir director, will present a concert at 8 tonight at Gray Memorial Field, Tyrone.

Waring, a former student at the College, is now a member of the Board of Trustees. He has presented Penn State's favorite songs, including the alma mater, over the air and television for the past 25 years.

Waring's full orchestra, glee club, and featured singers will perform in the two and one-half hour show.

All women, except freshman, have been granted late permissions to attend the concert by the WSGA. They are to return immediately following the concert.

In case of rain, the concert will be held tomorrow night.

Tickets costing $5, $3, and $2 are on sale at McLanahan's drug store.

Dinks Available at BX

Dinks for freshman men's customs dress have arrived at the Book Exchange and are now on sale.

Bow ties have not arrived, but they are expected shortly. Meanwhile all men who do not have their dinks must pick them up as soon as possible.

Tribunal officials urged frosh to purchase their dinks at once. They foresaw stricter enforcement in customs this week.