Mixed Views Greet AA Board Proposal

The proposal to increase the membership of the College Athletic Advisory Board by two students received mixed opinions from various members of the student body.

The board is presently composed of 15 members, three of which are students.

Harry Cover, All-College vice president said, "the proposal is very commendable and should be passed as soon as possible. Colleges with the finest student government in the country are being represented more and more on their athletic councils." Cover cited the University of California at Berkeley as an example.

Lewis Favors Idea

"Any addition at all, not necessarily students, would make things better. The more people we have determining the policy, the better it will be," according to Ollie Sax, track star.

David Lewis, member of the men's debate squad, believes that since, "we, the students, bear the main burden of the expense, we should be adequately represented."

"I don't favor having too many students on such a board because most of the students are between the ages of 18 and 21 and are too immature," William Ashenfelter, cross-country star, said. "They would have a college full of athletics. The College should have more say since the athletic policy is part of the school's administrative program."

On AA Board Agenda

Pete Schoderbeck, sophomore guard on the football squad, is in favor of the proposal because "the board represents the students more than the alumni, and therefore, we should have a larger

Tribunal Sentences 3 Freshmen

By TED SOENS

Three more freshmen were added to the growing list of custom violators last night when they were handed sentences by Tribunal for smoking and fraternization.

Stanley Rackley, one of the men caught talking with a girl, will have to wear a skirt, his pants rolled above the knees, a green ribbon in his hair, and will be subject to women's customs starting today.

The other fraternizer, Charles Fried, must carry a two-by-three-foot sign reading: "To girls I talk, At customs I balk, Now I have reason to squawk, Watch me like a hawk." On the back of the sign will be an advertisement for the Student Dry Cleaning Agency.

Cleaning Service Operating Again

The Student Dry Cleaning Agency, a non-profit organization for the convenience of students at the College, began its services last week at each of the dorms on campus.

Local collecting stations are in the sub-basement, Atherton Hall; recreation rooms of Simmons, McElwain, and Thompson Halls; PUB, Nittany-Pollock Dorms; storage room 1B, Hamilton Hall; and 324 McAllister Hall. Agents for Woman's Building and Grange are posted on the bulletin boards.

Receiving hours are at the women's dorms 6:30-8:30 p.m. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday, 1-2 p.m. Saturday, and 4:30-5:30 p.m. Friday. Stations at the men's dorms are open 5:30-8:30 p.m. every week-day except Friday, 3:30-5:30 p.m. Friday, and 7:30-11:30 a.m. Saturday. West Dorms will also be open 8-9:30 a.m. and the PUB-7:30-9:30 a.m. daily.

Eisenhower Announces Fee for SU

President Milton S. Eisenhower yesterday officially announced that the student union fee would remain at $7.50 for the current semester.

The fee was to have been raised this semester to $10 with the scheduled start of construction. The executive committee of the College Board of Trustees, however, voted to continue the same fee as last year when it met last week.

While plans for the building are complete, and government permission to build has been secured, a shortage of materials has caused an extended delay in the ground breaking for the new building. College authorities now feel that material availabilities will permit construction to begin sometime during 1952.

All-College Cabinet, foreseeing the delay, recommended the action to the board last spring. The fee was authorized by student government to help pay construction and maintenance costs for the proposed building, to be built on Holmes Field, south of Osmond Laboratory.

A model of the building is on display on the balcony of the lobby in Old Main.

Penn State Club To Organize Tonight

The Penn State Club will hold its organizational meeting at 7 tonight in Hamilton Hall recreation room.

Members of the club, which is open to all independent men except first semester freshmen, will outline a social program for this semester.

Guest speaker will be Russell Clark, director of housing and adviser to the club. Joseph Hudak, former club president, will also speak. Refreshments will be served.

Frothy and Freshman To Paddle Own Canoe

The Penn State Froth, College humor magazine, will again venture into deep water, this time by entering a canoe in the Flaming Foliage Festival canoe race, sponsored by the Lock Haven Express, on Oct. 6.

Frothy, the Froth jester, will be on hand to navigate the canoe down the Juniata River in the forty-mile race from Clinton County to Lock Haven. The other paddler will be selected from the freshman class by a contest, the terms of which are to be announced later this week.

Ronald Bonn, Froth editor, confidently predicted that "the Froth entry will lead the field across the finish line," and hoped that many Penn State students would be on hand to cheer the team to victory.

Many Canoe Entries
With traditional Froth fanfare, the canoe will be escorted to Beaver Field for exhibition at Saturday's game.

Student Talent to Get First Viewing at Dance

By BOB FRASER

Student talent will get its first viewing Friday night at the "Kickoff Dance" at Rec Hall, which will follow the football rally.

The Four Flats and a Sharp, hit by two graduations in June, will again strut their stuff this year. Members of the singing group are Earl "Red" Baker, David Margolf, Richard Wrentmore, Eugene Myers, as the flats, and Nancy Hensel as the sharp. William Detwiler and Polly Potter graduated in June.

Lewis and Smith

The group was among the finalists in the Penn State Club talent show last February.

A comedy act by Frank Lewis and Thomas Smith should prove interesting. Lewis, who is in charge of the dance entertainment, claims the act is pretty good. With him, anything is possible and probable.

Gail Thrush, a newcomer to campus entertainment circles will do an acrobatic act. An interesting side point is that she once performed for Philadelphia's professional football Eagles. Lewis also has words of greatness for her.

Huber to Play

Patricia Leis, who also performed at the Penn State Club talent show, will sing several selections. She sang "Bushel and a Peck" at the talent show.

Jack Huber and his popular dance band will provide music for the dance. He played for several dances last year including the "Sweetheart Dance."

A master of ceremonies for the program has not yet been selected, but rumors have it that Pat Marsteller, comedienne of the talent show, will do the honors.

People are still talking about her performance last year. She mimicked Jerry Lewis, Broadway and Hollywood star. Her act also included novelty reading of "Vera at the Vaudeville," complete with voice and bodily laughs.

Pat, a sophomore, won the 1950 award as best supporting actress of the year from the Red Lion Little-Theater, Red Lion, Pa. She began her footlight career while in grade school.

Expect 15,000 At Grid Opener

A crowd of 15,000 is expected to attend the Penn State opener with Boston University at 2 p.m. Saturday on Beaver Field.

H. R. (Ike) Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics, announced yesterday that many tickets are still available at the ticket window in Old Main for the Boston game.

The first day sale of tickets for the Villanova game, to be played in Allentown next Saturday, totaled 500. There are still many tickets available for this game at $3.60 each.

For home games students may purchase tickets permitting parents and friends to sit with them in the student stands.

Student Employment

Students who applied to the Student Employment Agency for jobs before registration, should report to Student Employment office, 112 Old Main, to fill out their schedules.

Reece said the agency could do nothing to find work for students until it had their schedules.

Freshman Girls Get 11 O'clocks Friday Night

Dating customs for both freshman men and women will be lifted Friday night for those who desire to attend the Campus Chest Kickoff Dance in Recreation Hall.

Action for the removal of dating customs was taken yesterday by Tribunal and the Freshman Customs and Regulations Board.

David Mutchler, Tribunal chairman, announced the customs change for men and Joan Yerger, chairman of the Freshman Customs and Regulations Board, announced the change for frosh women.

Must Show Ticket

All freshman women who plan to attend the dance will be given 11 o'clock permissions. Dating customs will be removed for only those frosh who attend the dance, and removal will last from 6 to 11 p.m.

Women who return to their dorms after 9:30 p.m. Friday, the regular late hour for frosh women, will have to show a ticket stub from the dance or they will be violating regulations.

Dress customs for men will not be removed. Dress customs for frosh women are removed each Friday at 5:30 p.m.

"Because of the spirit the freshman men have shown, up until now," Mutchler said, "in particular the impromptu rally Sunday night, we have decided to lift

Kolasinski Named Editor

Leonard Kolasinski has been elected editor of "Who's in the News at Penn State," Moylan Mills, president of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, announced yesterday.

Robert Schooley will represent the College at the national convention of the fraternity, to be held in Detroit from Nov. 14 to 17.

The new editor of the Alumni Newsletter is John Pakkanen. The Newsletter is a paper published twice a year in cooperation with the journalism department. It comes out in November and in May.

Paul Poorman has been appointed nominations chairman of Sigma Delta Chi. It is his duty to screen candidates and eliminate all those who are ineligible before the fraternity meets to consider the possible members.

The program for the year will be arranged by George Glazer and Marvin Krasnansky who have been appointed program chairmen.

Robert Fraser has been named chairman of the luncheon which is to be held Oct. 1. Alexander Zehner, city editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will be a guest at the luncheon.

Florenz Fenton has been named chairman of the initiation banquet at which President Milton S. Eisenhower will be a guest.

PSCA Frosh Council Will Meet Tonight

PSCA freshman council will meet at 7 tonight in 10 Sparks, when Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs at the College, will speak to it on "What Am I Doing Here?"

Sophomore roundtable will meet at 7:30 tonight in 304 Old Main to hear Ben Euwema, dean of the School of Liberal Arts talk on "How Much Education Can I Get?"
