Civil Service Will Conduct Ag Job Exam

An examination for junior agricultural assistant excluding only the fields of agricultural engineer, farm and home management supervisors, soil and range conservationists, and soil scientist, has been announced by the Civil Service Commission.

The minimum starting salary will be $3100, which will be increased periodically.

Must Pass Exam

To qualify for positions the applicant must pass a written examination and have a bachelor's degree, or have had a combination of training and experience equal to the four-year college course which leads to the bachelor's degree. Training in public or business administration is not required, but will help.

Those students who expect to graduate by June, 1952 are eligible to apply for the test.

Applicants must also prove that they are U.S. citizens, that they are physically able, and that they are between the ages of 18 and 35. Age limits will be waived for veterans.

Complete Form

Interested persons should get Form 5000-AB from post offices, or from a civil service office, fill the card out completely, and send it to the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D.C., before Oct. 23.

Detailed information will be sent to all those completing the form.

The majority of positions to be filled are in the Departments of Agriculture and Interior, Washington, D.C., and throughout the U.S.

Theta Xi

Donald Orcutt, Joseph Saber, Robert Hartmann, Chester Makarewicz, David Kennaday, and Austin Martz were formally initiated into Theta Xi.

Checker Show Star Plays 9 Games Blind

Daniel Frank, who is able to play nine games of checkers simultaneously while blindfolded, will demonstrate his ability tonight at the first meeting of the Penn State Checker Club.

The club will meet at 9 p.m. in the lounge of Hamilton Hall and is open to all students. Frank, who is a resident of State College, is the coach of the club.

The feat of playing checkers blindfolded is performed by using checker boards with each square numbered. Frank turns his back to his nine opponents who call their moves to him giving the number of the square from which the checker is moved and the number to which it is moved. Frank gives his moves in the same manner.

Frank moves down the line of opponents one play at a time, thus giving each opponent several minutes to ponder his next move. He wins almost 100 per cent of the games he plays in this manner.

Tonight's meeting will start off with Frank playing everyone present at one time. He will face the boards while doing this.

Checkers has been Frank's hobby for many years. He works at the State College Post Office during the day. He has a $1500 collection of books on checkers.

During the year, Frank will give several lectures to the club on the history and theory of checkers.

The Checker Club was first organized late last semester under Frank's direction. A seven-man team was formed and played two matches with a Clearfield club. The Penn State team was the victor in both meets.
