

Over Injuries and Back in the Lineup...

Tony Rados

Ted Shattuck

Bob Pollard

Don Barney

Dick Cripps

State, BU Clash Tomorrow

Return of Injured Gridders Raises State's Hope for Win in Opener

By ERNIE MOORE

Penn State's hopes for a victory in its opening game tomorrow with Boston University on Beaver Field reached a new high yesterday when State trainer Chuck Medlar gave the okay sign to four Lion gridgers who had been sidelined all week with injuries.

Medlar announced that wingback Bob Pollard, tackle Dick Cripps, tackle Jack Pfirman and guard Don Barney would be available at least for limited action.

Quarterback Tony Rados and halfback Ted Shattuck, who were also on the injured list, have already returned to the lineup. With Pollard, Cripps, Pfirman, and Barney back, Penn State will almost be at full strength for the opener. Only halfback Buddy Rowell and guard Pete Schoderbek will miss the game.

Lineup Uncertain

Although Engle has not made a final decision on his starting lineup, the Lions will probably lineup offensively with Co-captain Art Betts and Joe Yukica at ends, Ed Hoover and Bill Hockersmith at tackles, Len Bartek and Tom Pevarnik at guards, and Jim Dooley at center.

The backfield will probably consist of Rados at quarterback, Shattuck at halfback, Pollard or Bill Leonard at wingback, and Paul Anders at fullback.

Defensively, Engle will probably field Charlie Wilson and Pat McPoland at ends, Stew Scheetz and Cripps at tackles, Don Barney and Joe Gratson at guards, co-captain Len Sheppard and Joe Shumock as linebackers, Leonard and either Pollard or Wayne Wolfkeil at halfbacks, and Chan Johnson at safety.

Non-Committal

Engle was non-committal on the outcome of the game tomorrow.

"They've played one game already. (BU lost to William and Mary last Saturday, 34-25). I really don't know how tough they are. If Agganis hadn't returned to Boston, I would feel much more confident," he said. "They are saying up there that they will be a lot stronger this week against us than they were against William and Mary."

Knew 3 Plays

A story in a Boston paper quoted Boston Assistant Coach Steve Sinko after the W & M game as saying that Agganis only knew three plays for the William and Mary game. The Boston quarterback only had one day of practice before the Terriers' opener. He was just discharged from the Marines last week.

Boston Coach Buff Donelli will probably start an offensive lineup of Tom Oates and Bob Capuano at ends, Don Frazier and Joe Barbagallo at tackles, Ray Cataloni and Len D'Errico at guards, John Pappas at center, Harry Agganis at quarterback, John Kasstan and Don Defeudis at halfbacks, and Lou Petroka at fullback.

Behind Stands 'Taboo' For IM Grid Teams

Intramural football teams, both fraternity and independent, are requested by the IM department and the varsity football officials to refrain from playing on the field behind the stands in Beaver Field. Teams are requested to play only on the lower field where the IM games are scheduled.

Nat'l Champion Harriers 'Marked' by Opponents

The only trouble with having a national championship team one year is that the following year's squad is marked by every opponent as "the one to beat."

That is the tough position Chick Werner's present cross-country squad is faced with as they make hard preparations for Pittsburgh's harriers who come here one week from tomorrow.

IM Grid Schedule

Every team faced by State this year, and each one is among the strongest in the East, wants to garner some glory for their school by beating the national collegiate champion Lions.

Manhattan Eager
But if any of the Lions' '51 foes—Pitt, Cornell, Michigan State, Army, NYU, and Manhattan—wants to beat the champs the most, it must be Manhattan.

There is plenty of ranking left in the mind of the Jasper's coach, Ben Eastman, over the way his proud runners were unmercifully trounced last fall by State.

Manhattan is perennially the champ of New York City's Metropolitan track games so it was quite a shock to be trounced 23-38 by the Lions last fall.

Nittany Rout
That day Bill Ashenfelter outlasted both the Jasper's aces Bill Lucas and Pat Duffy to win but that didn't surprise Manhattan's Coach Eastman as much as the sight that followed. Bob Freebairn, Bill Gordon, Dud Foster, Don Ashenfelter and Al Porto swept fourth through eight positions successively to make it a Nittany rout.

Eastman hasn't forgotten that deluge of Blue and White colors and will really be after revenge on Nov. 10 when the Lion harriers travel to Gotham.

Another hill-and-dale squad with as much desire and as much potential to upset the Lions as Manhattan is track-powerful Michigan State.

Spartans Walloped
A year ago the Spartans were treated with more disrespect than Manhattan as the mighty Lions walloped them, 19-43.

The Spartans were without the services that day of Dick Roberts. Warren Druetzler, their best, came up with a side stitch at the four-mile mark.

But in return meets both at the IC-4A's and the NCAA's Penn State beat them again.

With State's national championship ranks badly depleted this fall, every foe figures this is the year to repair some deep scars.

State May Get Gym Tryouts

Harold R. "Ike" Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics at the College, and Gene Wettstone, gymnastics coach, will leave for New York this weekend for olympic meetings.

Wettstone will meet the olympic gymnastics committee on Sunday at the New York Athletic Club. On the agenda is the selection of a site for the 1952 olympic gymnastics tryouts. Wettstone will request that the tryouts be held at Penn State where they were held in 1948.

Gilbert, a member of the olympic boxing committee, will meet with the general olympic committee on Monday.

U.S. Asked to Sever Soviet Relationships

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Sept. 27—(AP)—The national patriotic order, Sons of America, today urged that the U.S. cut off diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union.

A convention of the 104-year-old organization resolved to "request proper officials of the federal government to immediately notify the said Soviet government that we withdraw our recognition of their government."

Pigskin Pipe Dreams

The Collegian sports staff's football prediction contest enters its second week. Co-captain Len Shephard represents the football team this week in its "guessing battle" with the sportswriters big three.

Ernie Moore, sports editor, and Bob Vosburg, assistant sports editor paced the writers to their first week lead over the gridgers with a .700 percentage. Co-captain Art Betts and assistant sports editor Dave Colton followed with a .600 mark.

This week the swamis will attempt to predict 15 top games. All of these contests will be played tomorrow. None of the games include future Penn State foes. Toughest games of the week are probably the Navy-Yale, Clemson-Rice, and North Carolina-Georgia tussles.

Shephard forecasts upsets for UCLA over Illinois, Minnesota over Washington, and Tulane over Miami, Fla.

	Moore	Colton	Vosburg	Shephard
Fordham-Dartm.	Fordham	Fordham	Fordham	Fordham
Navy-Yale	Navy	Navy	Yale	Navy
Ga. Tech - Florida	Geo. Tech	Geo. Tech	Geo. Tech	Geo. Tech
N. Car. - Georgia	N. Caro.	N. Caro.	Georgia	N. Caro.
Illinois-UCLA	Illinois	Illinois	Illinois	UCLA
California-Penn	California	California	California	California
Noire D. - Indiana	Noire D.	Noire D.	Noire D.	Noire D.
Ken.-Mississippi	Kentucky	Kentucky	Kentucky	Kentucky
Holy Cross - Harv.	Holy Cross	Holy Cross	Holy Cross	Holy Cross
Tenn.-Miss. St.	Tennessee	Tennessee	Tennessee	Tennessee
Ohio St. - SMU	Ohio State	Ohio State	Ohio State	Ohio State
Clemson-Rice	Clemson	Rice	Clemson	Rice
Tulane-Miami, Fla.	Miami, Fla.	Miami, Fla.	Miami, Fla.	Tulane
Alabama-LSU	Alabama	Alabama	Alabama	Alabama
Wash.-Minnesota	Washin'ton	Washin'ton	Washin'ton	Minnesota

to Her
Heart:

(Mum's the Word)

Football just isn't FOOTBALL without the traditional chrysanthemum corsages at milady's shoulder! And only WOODRINGS make this official Penn State corsage, complete with letters and ribbons. Our mums are always fresh—kept that way under careful refrigeration. Drop in before Saturday's big game!

WOODRING FLORAL GARDENS

112 E. Beaver Avenue
Across From The Post Office

