Despite all warnings of the change, however, there will still be those who will show up for Church an hour early or try an hour too soon to get their favorite Sunday programs on the radio.

Remember, though, it isn't necessary to stay up until 2 a.m. to turn your clock back.

Windcrest To Remain In Service

The long debated future status of Windcrest, campus trailer community, was settled yesterday when Samuel K. Hostetter, College Comptroller, disclosed that the trailers will continue in operation as long as they remain serviceable and in demand.

Last May the College was faced with the dilemma of either raising the rent to keep up with the numerous repairs required or else discontinuing operation altogether.

Not wishing to raise the rent or evict the GI students, it was then decided to disband the trailers as they were vacated. Now, however, the trailer community will probably be continued until veterans no longer want to use them.

99 Units Opened

At the same time Comptroller Hostetter announced that for the first time in nearly four years, trailer units will be available to married veterans without children. Applications may be filed with Mrs. Sara Case, 109 Old Main.

When Windcrest opened on Nov. 6, 1945 with 99 units, married veterans without children were offered units. But in 1947 the trailer demand became so heavy that only veterans with children could be admitted to the area located behind Simmons and McElwain women's dorms.

Now with veteran enrollment steadily decreasing, the demand for trailers by veterans with children is on the decline.

Community Grew

From 1945 when the trailers were towed from New Castle where they had been used for defense housing during the war, the community grew rapidly. During the peak years of 1947 there were 312 units, more than 50 of which were privately owned.

At the present time there are 164 trailers, including 32 privately owned.

Peak years saw nearly 1000 adults and children accommodated in Windcrest.

Unit Renominations Up

Since many of the nominees for unit officers in Simmons dormitory were found ineligible because they lacked the required 1.5 All-College average, nominations will again be held in Simmons next Tuesday night, according to Yvonne Carter, vice-president of WSGA.

A list of all candidates eligible for the offices in other dorms will be posted soon, she added. Those in Atherton have already been posted.

All final elections will take place next Wednesday night at compulsory housemeeting as originally planned.

Unit Officers To Be Elected

Election of freshman living unit officers will take place Wednesday or Thursday of next week in the freshman dormitories, Nancy White, sophomore senator and chairman of freshman council, told WSGA senate Thursday night.

President and vice president of each unit will serve on freshman council, which is a sounding board for discussions on problems brought up at freshman house meetings, including suggestions for improvements on freshman customs. Each unit will also elect a secretary-treasurer.

On next Wednesday, also, final elections of unit officers will be made in upperclass dormitories.

Last spring's carnival netted $1,054.79. The spring week committee recommended that it be utilized to set up a student loan fund under direction of All College Cabinet. Cabinet, however, is not necessarily bound to the recommendation.

No Replacement

The committee also was instructed by cabinet to investigate the possibility of setting up a student sponsored scholarship fund.

Worth reported there will be no replacement on Tribunal for Carol Chapman. An error was made in the number of senior appointments, Worth said. Chapman's resignation leaves the senior representation still one over the constitutional limit.

An amendment to the All-College Constitution which would legalize the present Tribunal representation was given its first reading at last night's meeting. It requires three consecutive readings before the vote may be taken.

Millard Rayburn reported to cabinet on a purported bloodmobile visit to the campus sponsored by the student body. Rayburn said that last year the student body gave 137 pints of blood, and he added that that total might be higher with student sponsorship.

Worth appointed Rayburn to chair a committee to investigate the proposal further. David Fix, Jules Lippert, Lucy Barr, and Charles McClintock will also serve on the committee.

Worth also appointed Marian Levitt to serve as cabinet representative on the displaced persons committee.

Pledges Keep Lion Free from Painting

In four shifts of three hours each, the 19 pledges of Pi Lambda Phi last night stood guard at the Lion Shrine, in order to keep it from being painted by anyone from Boston University.

The Lambda Phi pledges, who last year prevented Temple from painting the shrine for the first time since 1941, will continue to guard the Lion from 9 p.m. Friday to 8 a.m. Saturday, before all home games. The fraternity hopes to make this a tradition.

Captain Philip Mark of the Campus Patrol, said the patrol would cooperate with the pledges in any way possible. Both Phi Mu and Alpha Chi Omega sororities will be on duty at the Lion Shrine office to the pledges before 1 a.m.
