

'Tug' to Decide Customs' End

Change in Customs Program In Effect for Tomorrow Only

A change in the customs program that will permit upperclassmen to haze frosh women and upperclasswomen to haze frosh men will be in effect all day tomorrow.

The change was announced yesterday by Joan Yerger, chairman of the freshman customs and regulations board; and David Mutchler, chairman of Tribunal. It will be in effect tomorrow only. Normal customs regulations will resume Friday.

6 Violators Sentenced to 'Chain Gang'

Penn State's version of the chain gang will visit the campus tomorrow night when six customs violators, linked by ropes, will parade through the pep rally in front of Old Main.

The freshmen, brought before Tribunal for not wearing customs, will be given their penalties at 12:50 p.m. today in front of Old Main.

Each violator will carry a 18" x 24" sign placed on a five foot stick and will be linked by rope at intervals of three feet. The signs will read—"Let's Go Penn State-Beat-Villanova!"

The men will be dressed in old patch clothes with their pants rolled to the knee. Their cheeks will be covered with burnt cork. They must wear their dinks and a red handkerchief around the neck.

Another freshman violator was sentenced to take part in the tug-of-war between the frosh and sophomores tomorrow night.

Five other men were fined $1 each for parking and driving violations. One senior was caught parking behind the MI school, driving on Pollock road during class hours, and parking in the service drive of Old Main.

Another student was fined for parking for three days in the Hamilton Hall service entrance. He said he had "run out of gas."

Frosh Women Get Weekend Leaves

All freshman women will be permitted to leave the campus this weekend, Joan Yerger, chairman of the Freshman Customs and Regulations Board, announced.

The action was taken by the board at their meeting Saturday when it was determined that many students wished to attend the Penn State-Villanova football game in Allentown. Many girls from the Allentown area had appeared before the board asking permission to attend.

In fairness to those freshmen women who do not live in the Allentown area, the board voted in favor of permitting all freshman women to leave campus if they so desire.

Campus Chest Gets Over $500 from Dance

The Campus Chest will receive from $500 to $700 from the Kick-off Dance held Friday.

This is the first year a dance was used to help raise money for the chest. The goal for this year's chest is $12,000.

Rulings In Effect

Current rulings allowing upperclassmen to haze frosh men and upperclasswomen to haze frosh women will still be in effect during tomorrow's change.

Tribunal and the freshman customs and regulations board asked hat societies to enforce the new joint program and to see that there is no excessive hazing. Regulations on hazing limitations will remain in effect.

The change will mean that men may make frosh women sing, cheer, and curtsy, while upperclasswomen may also make frosh men button, sing, and cheer.

Women's Customs

Customs for this year's freshman class went into effect Sept. 17. Women's dress and dating customs are due to come off Monday morning. The regulations specify a three week customs period for women.

The change is an innovation in the Penn State customs program since its rejuvenation after World War II. No such joint effort was attempted last year.

Vet Enrollment Drops to 1800

Veteran enrollment at the College has dropped from a record of 5536 in the fall of 1948 to the present 1800.

Among the 2651 freshmen on the campus this fall there are only 20 veterans. In reporting on the number of veterans enrolled, President Milton S. Eisenhower said that the number of former servicemen on the campus a year ago was 3154.

The veteran program began at Penn State in the spring of 1944 with two students and boomed in the fall of 1945 when 1187 servicemen returned to the campus. By 1948, more than half of the students were veterans. More than 14,000 veterans have been admitted to the College since World War II.

Dodgers Blast Giants, 10-0 Behind Labine's 6-Hitter

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—Brooklyn's redoubtable Dodgers, a single defeat from extinction and supposedly licked to a frazzle, came off the floor today to hammer the New York Giants into submission, 10 to 0, and carry the playoff for the National League flag down to the final desperate gasp at the Polo Grounds tomorrow.

While Clem Labine, 25-year-old rookie from Woonsocket, R.I., was carving his initials on the Giants' wrecking crew, Jackie Robinson and his fellow sluggers tore into three second-line Giant pitchers for 13 ringing blows, including four home runs, to snap a victory string that had reached eight straight.

Yields Six Hits

Labine, who rejoined the Dodgers late in July from St. Paul, was a picture of poise as he mowed the Durochermen down methodically through the gloomy, rainy afternoon. He yielded only six hits in gaining his fifth win against one defeat for the season. The Giants only twice came close to scoring on the kid with the crackling curve.

Penn State Must Rely On Loans

The College will be forced to continue to rely on bank loans to pay its way because of the tax snarl in the state legislature, the Associated Press reported yesterday.

Auditor General Weldon B. Heyburn told the Associated Press that grants to state aided colleges will continue to be held up pending passage of special appropriation bills.

The State Justice Department has ruled, Heyburn said, that none of a recently passed $80,000,000 appropriation can be used for purposes other than ordinary expenses of the state government. This would limit expenditure to operation of departments and commissions, he said.

Well Under College Figure

In his budget message, Gov. John S. Fine had recommended an appropriation of $16,000,000 for the College for the biennium which started July 1, the Associated Press reported.

This figure, the news service said, was believed to be well under the amount estimated by College officials as necessary to meet the institution's obligations.

The House appropriations committee had discussed an increase of a million dollars over the governor's recommendation, it said.

AP Expects Compromise

The College, along with other similar institutions in the State, was forced to resort to bank loans when the tax deadlock developed in Harrisburg.

Student Fees Due

All students may pay fees from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. tomorrow and Friday in the basement of Willard Hall.

Individual student fees will be listed according to matriculation numbers and should be checked before making out checks.

Late payments are subject to a $5 fine.

Speaks Tonight

Charles "Rip" Engle

Engle, Eads Will Address PSCA Groups

Coach Rip Engle and the Rev. Robert H. Eads will be speakers at meetings of the Penn State Christian Association student discussion groups tonight.

Engle will speak to the PSCA's freshman council, which will meet at 7 tonight in 405 Old Main. Hope Powell and Kathryn Greenbaum will lead the recreation activities after the talk.

The Rev. Eads will talk to the upperclass roundtable on "What About Sex?" at 8 tonight in 304 Old Main. Sally Shoemaker will lead recreation afterwards.

Leona Anderson was recently named chairman of the roundtable steering committee. Others on the committee are Shirley Pritchard, who will preside at tonight's meeting, Edward Crossley, and Helene Carter.

College Gives 150 Stipends

A total of 150 scholarships ranging from $25 to $600 have been awarded to students by the College during the past year, President Milton S. Eisenhower said.

These scholarship awards do not include the other scholarships given by the State legislators, or awards made directly by other individuals, organizations, or industries.

Although many of the scholarships awarded by the College are restricted to students from a specific geographic area or to students enrolled in a certain curriculum or school, the majority take into consideration the scholastic standing of the student and his need for help.

It was explained that this arrangement has enabled many excellent students, who may have had to leave college because of financial difficulties, to complete their college work.

The College recently published a list of the scholarships, awards, and loan funds available to students. This pamphlet reveals that since World War II, 13 new funds with endowments totalling $128,000 were established at the College, and ten other scholarships with awards totalling more than $5000 annually were also started.

Debate Team Tryouts

Candidates for the men's debate team will try out at 7 tonight in 305 Sparks.

They will be required to give a five minute speech on either side of the question, Resolved: That the federal government should adopt a permanent program of wage and price control.

Frosh, Sophs To Hold Battle Tomorrow Nite

By DAVE JONES

Freshman men and sophomore men will meet in a tug-of-war tomorrow night to determine whether frosh men's customs will be removed immediately, or will continue to be in effect.

The tug-of-war will follow a football pep rally to be held at 7:30 p.m. on the steps of Old Main.

The decision that freshman men's customs will be removed if a frosh tug-of-war team can drag a sophomore team through a stream of water was made last night by Tribunal.

Through Stream of Water

Fifty freshmen and fifty sophomores will comprise the two teams that will battle with the termination of customs at stake.

The first team to pull its opponent through a stream of water, to be played across the corner of Burrows and Pollock roads on campus, will win the tug-of-war.

The winning team will be awarded a keg of cider, to be served following the battle. The removal of customs will serve as an additional prize for the frosh.

Identification Tags

Those who wish to participate in the tug of war must sign a list at the Student Union desk in Old Main. The list will appear today and the first 50 men students to sign the list from both the freshman and sophomore classes will take part in the action.

Sophomores will receive red tags to show that they are members of the sophomore team. Frosh will be given green tags. David Mutchler, Tribunal chairman, requested that participants wear their tags on campus until Thursday night when they must show them to be eligible to enter the contest.

Follows Pep Rally

A tug-of-war between hatmen and freshmen was held last year for the removal of dress customs. The hatmen won the contest but many frosh claimed foul play.

Penn State's second football pep rally of the year will precede the tug-of-war.

Plans are being laid by Hat Society Council, sponsors of the rally, to have the Blue Band and Coach "Rip" Engle on hand. Mutchler will also speak.

Today the Nittany

Lion Roars . . .

A firm believer in customs, the Lion lets loose a roar of approval for the plan which allows upperclassmen to haze frosh women and vice versa. Having lagged in the past week, customs need a lift—and this should do the job.

Congratulations are in order for Joan Yerger, chairman of the Freshman Customs and Regulations Board, and David Mutchler, chairman of Tribunal, for coming up with a fine idea.
