Giants Cop 5-1 Win In Series Opener

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—The rampant New York Giants, still scoring the odds, pinned no-hit Allie Reynolds' ears back with a barrage of blows and went on to humble the proud Yankees, 5 to 1, behind Dave Koslo's crafty southpaw pitching in today's opening World Series struggle.

The scrapping National League champions, maintaining the impetus of their amazing drive to the pennant, piled into the favored bombers as though they owned them from the very start, scoring all the runs they needed to win for Koslo in the first inning.

Tomorrow Durocher will go with Jansen, who received credit for his 23rd victory of the season by hurling one fine relief inning yesterday. Stengel, not having had much luck with a righthander today, announced he would throw his fine lefty, Ed Lopat, at the wonder boys tomorrow. Ed has a 21-9 record for the year.

Dark Hits Homer

Alvin Dark, captain and shortstop of Leo Durocher's dandies, put the game beyond the reach of the Yankees with a tremendous three-run homer off Reynolds in the sixth. Monte Irvin, slugging leftfielder, tied a series record with four clean hits and electrified the great crowd of 65,673 by stealing home for the Giants' second and winning run in the first frame.

Koslo, handing the American leaguers their first loss in a series opener since 1936, yielded only seven hits to Casey Stengel's warriors and handcuffed them almost completely over the last seven innings. The last flinger to stop the Yanks in a first series contest was Carl Hubbell, also of the Giants.

First Inning Drama

Koslo got the starting assignment only because Larry Jansen, righthanded Giants' ace, was forced to work an inning of relief toward the close of yesterday's sensational victory over Brooklyn in the deciding game of the league playoff. It is doubtful the little lefty ever pitched a

Frosh Frolic Informal, Open to All

Things will be strictly informal, with socks permitted, for the Frosh Freedom Frolic, a dance open to all students, to be held from 8 to 11 p.m. tomorrow in the West Dorm lounge.

According to Marilyn Williams, Women's Recreation Association president, "If you don't have a date, you can find one there." Although freshman customs are being lifted for the dance, Miss Williams asked upperclassmen to attend.

The dance, sponsored by WRA, Women's Student Government Association, and the West Dorm Council, will feature the Campuseers orchestra.

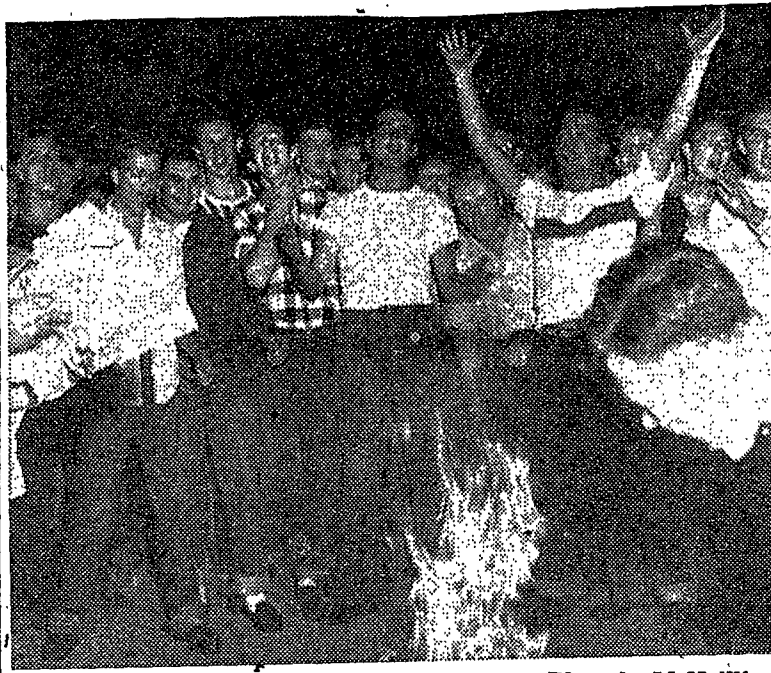

There will be no admission charge and entertainment will be provided.

According to David Mutchler, chairman of Tribunal, men's dress customs will be lifted from 6 to 11 p.m. Monday. Dating customs will be lifted from 6 p.m. Saturday to 1 a.m. Sunday.

Joan Yerger, chairman of the Freshman customs board, announced that women's dating customs will be lifted from 6 to 11 p.m. Saturday.

The dance committee consists of Mabel Marple, WRA representative; Barbara Werts, WSGA representative; and Charles Brewer and Thomas Durek, West Dorm council representatives.

Hats Go Up in Smoke

CHEERING FROSH surround a bonfire of hats in the West Dorm courtyard following the announcement last night that freshman men's customs were removed. Women's customs are still in effect.

3000 See 'Corpse' At Villanova Rally

By BOB FRASER

A crowd of about 3000 attended the Villanova pep rally last night in which the Mainliners' "corpse" was carried to the steps of Old Main and the Blue band presented a new rally arrangement called "Brainstorm."

Attempting to increase the rivalry between freshmen and sophomores for the tug of war, David Mutchler, tribunal chairman, said "the sophomores are still looking for a tractor driver."

Hatmen Carry 'Corpse'
Mutchler outlined the regulations for the battle which followed the rally. He was introduced to the crowd by Thomas Smith, master of ceremonies of the rally.

The Villanova "corpse" was carried from the rear of the crowd by a group of hatmen. It was a dummy wrapped in bandages and was carried on a black stretcher.

While the hatmen were carrying the body, the Blue Band trumpet section played the funeral march.

The arrangement introduced by the Blue Band was a jazzed-up piece which included short vocals by the band members.

Thomas Hanna, head cheerleader, led the crowd in the College songs and cheers. The rally lasted about 20 minutes.

'Let's Go Frosh'

Coach "Rip" Engle and several players, Smith told those attending, would not arrive in time for the rally. They were to give brief talks to the audience.

A line of approximately 25 freshmen pushed through the crowd at various times chanting "let's go frosh."

When Hanna called for a short yell frosh, a group of sophomores maintained a steady hiss throughout the cheer.

At the close of the short rally, freshmen and sophomores in large numbers raced to the scene of the tug-of-war.

Material Wanted For First Inking

Material in the form of poetry, fiction, and essays, is now being accepted for the November issue of Inking, campus literary magazine, Florentz Fenton, editor, said yesterday.

Inking is the current effort of students to establish a literary publication for the College. Three predecessors have failed. The magazine contains fiction, poetry, photography, and art work. No such type of publication had ever before been produced on campus.

Inking was chartered last year by All-College Cabinet, which contributed to its financial backing along with other student organizations and private donors. It is the first student publication to make use of the offset lithography process.

Mutchler Halts Men's Hazing Amid Confusion

By DAVE JONES

Freshman men's customs were removed last night following a futile attempt to stage a tug-of-war between the freshman and sophomore classes.

Contrary to the belief of many, women's dress and dating customs will remain in effect until midnight Sunday, with the exception of tomorrow night's "Frosh Freedom Frolic" in the West Dorm lounge.

Students streamed across campus from Old Main following last night's football pep rally to witness a tug-of-war between frosh Mutchler last night asked all freshmen who have black hats in their possession to return them to the Daily Collegian office in Carnegie Hall.

Black hats, symbols of membership in men's activities honoraries, are bought by the society members.

Mutchler said no questions will be asked.

and sophomores to decide the fate of customs.

Freshman customs were officially removed when, after two attempts to get the "tug" started with no success, David Mutchler, Tribunal chairman, and several other hatmen, gathered in a group in the midst of the crowd awaiting the contest and shouted above the noise "Freshman men's customs are off."

After the announcement freshmen swarmed into the West Dorm area where cider was being served and impromptu rallies and bursts of enthusiasm by frosh followed all across campus.

Because of the press of the huge crowd, hatmen found it difficult to get the rope stretched out across the corner of Burrowes and Pollock roads, site of the inter-class battle.

After the rope was laid out and participants took their posts along it, the crowd again pressed to

Fine's Hope Still Alive For Passage of Tax Bill

HARRISBURG, Oct. 4—(AP)—Gov. John S. Fine indicated today that he has not abandoned hope for final passage of the long-disputed State income tax.

"Where there is life there is hope," the Governor told a news conference.

He made the statement in answer to a question as to whether he felt there was a chance that the bitterly-contested levy might eventually gain approval by the legislature.

Marathon Battle

The one-half of one per cent levy, sought by the Governor to fill a $120,000,000 gap in his State budget, has been the subject of a marathon tax battle in the General Assembly. A group of Republican Senators has led opposition against it.

Although Fine stressed that he still favors the income tax, he told reporters he will settle for any tax program which the legislature sees fit to pass at this late date.

Special Session

"I need money to operate the State government, and I need it badly," he declared.

Although he declined direct comment on the issue, the governor hinted that he may be forced to call a special session of the legislature next January if the assembly adjourns finally on Dec. 22 without passing a tax program.

Fees Due Today

Final payment of fees will take place from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. today in the basement of Willard Hall.

Nomiyama to Visit Home Ec School

Fuji Nomiyama, of the Department of Religions and Biblical Literature at the Japanese Women's University in Tokyo, will be a guest of the School of Home Economics from Saturday to Wednesday.

Miss Nomiyama is in this country to do research work for a book on the life of Jesus and to make a survey of student guidance programs as they relate to religious education. She is also studying the content of home economics courses at colleges and universities.

Oxford Men At College in Int'l Debate

Oxford University will debate at the College on Oct. 16 in the annual international debate with England, sponsored by the Institute for International Education in New York.

The topic will be, Resolved: That the return of Mr. Churchill as prime minister would be highly regrettable. The teams will be mixed, with Dick Taverne from Oxford and Clair George from Penn State taking the affirmative. William Rees-Mogg of Oxford and David Lewis of Penn State will argue the negative.

The British team arrived in New York yesterday and will remain in the United States until Dec. 20. It will debate in every state east of the Mississippi River. Last year the English team was made up of one debater from the University of Birmingham and one from the College of North Wales. Oxford appeared here in 1947 and 1949. Marlin Brenner and George represented the College last year.

Villanova Tickets

Tickets for the Villanova-Penn State football game tomorrow afternoon in Allentown will be on sale at the Allentown stadium gates.

The only tickets available are priced at $3.60. Tickets are no longer available at the athletic ticket office in Old Main.
