

Five College Teams Enter Canoe Race Customs--

Four teams other than the entry sponsored by Froth will represent the College in the Canoe race at the Flaming Foliage Festival at Lock Haven tomorrow.

Froth's canoe will be paddled by Frothy, the magazine's jester, and Joseph Barnett, the freshman who identified Paul Poorman as "The Foolish Hatman." Other crews from the College include

Fred Westman and Clifford Fry; Lincoln Warrel and Edward Makovsky; Harry Arnold and Robert Jones; Dick Klingensmith and Jack Baker.

40-mile Race

Thirty-one crews representing various schools, colleges, and other organizations will participate in the 40 mile race down the Susquehanna, Princeton, Carnegie Tech, and Juniata will be among those competing for honors. State's sports rivals, Pitt and Bucknell, have no entries in the contest.

The canoe race, sponsored annually by the Lock Haven Express, will begin at 8 a.m. and will last approximately 5 hours. Crews will leave tonight for Renovo, where they will stay overnight at the YMCA.

In the event that low waters in the Susquehanna prevent tomorrow's race, the event will be postponed until October 20.

Engle, Eads Speak to Councils

Coach Charles "Rip" Engle and the Rev. Robert H. Eads spoke to freshman council and the upper-class round table Wednesday night.

Talking to freshmen about the values of athletics in college, Coach Engle said that if sports are run in the right way, he believes they have a definite place in education.

Admittedly, if sports develop hatred or prejudice, they are not worthwhile, Engle said. He believes the boys playing college sports learn a great deal more than how to win a game.

He cited incidents of last year's team as examples. When the team left the Cornhusker Hotel in Lincoln, Neb., after their game, a woman in charge said that the team had been the finest, best-behaved group that had ever been there, Engle said.

The football coach told of the words on a sign in the football locker room, forming an acronym of the word "champs"—courage, honesty, attitude, manners, practice and sacrifice. If they develop these virtues, he said, sports have a place on any campus.

The Rev. Eads, speaking on "What About Sex?" recommended that students in college date a wide variety of people with different backgrounds and interests from their own.

He referred to an article in the September issue of "Intercollegian" called "The Desirability, Delights and Dangers of Dating," which gives advice to college students on dating matters and problems.

To get dates, the Rev. Eads recommended that students join organizations and become active. This has a double effect, he said, for the student can meet more people and the prestige derived from being active makes him more desirable to date.

The Rev. Eads stressed the importance of religion in dating and mentioned campus counseling services which are always ready to help students with their individual problems.

LSA to Entertain Mansfield Students

The Penn State Lutheran Student Association will be host to Lutheran students from Mansfield State Teachers College Sunday afternoon. LSA council members will meet at the student center at 2 p.m. Sunday to form a welcoming committee for the guests.

At 4 p.m. the visitors will take a tour of the campus, returning to the student center at 5:30 p.m. for a fellowship supper. The cost to Penn State LSA members will be approximately 35 cents.

Prof. Harold Reede of the Economics department will speak on "The Meaning of Faith" at 6:30 p.m.

(Continued from page one) gether and hatmen found it impossible to begin the contest. The rope broke twice when both teams put their weight on it. Then, in an attempt to move the crowd out of the street so the contest could begin, a water hose was turned on the spectators. It was after the crowd scattered that the hatmen gathered in the street and announced the end of the customs period, which would have entered into its fourth week Monday.

Many students did not understand that customs had been removed although several dinks and bow ties went into the air.

Serve 30 Gallons of Cider
Following the customs removal, 30 gallons of cider were served in the West Dorm area by Hat

Society Council. A large bonfire of paper, frosh dinks, and some hats from members of hat societies, was built in the center of the West Dorm courtyard. Singing and cheering frosh surrounded the fire.

Impromptu rallies of cheering frosh sprang up over campus after the announcement. A single file "snake line" of frosh streamed down the Mall and fireworks went off sporadically in the West Dorm area.
