Yanks Batter Giants, 6-2, Behind Reynolds

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (AP) — Revived by a heaven-sent day of rest, the Yankees came back behind Allie Reynolds' fine pitching today to batter the Giants, 6 to 2, and tie the World Series up at two victories apiece.

Reynolds, knocked from the box in the opener, was a different pitcher today. He limited the National Leaguers to eight hits, three of them doubles by Capt. Alvin Dark, and was in charge all the way.

Joe DiMaggio, the aging Clipper, snapped out of his series slump to hammer a mighty two-run homer into the second deck at the Polo Grounds, hastening the demise of Sal Maglie, Giants' 23-game winner and giving the crowd of 49,010 its biggest thrill of the one-sided exhibition.

Only once did Reynolds give Bomber fans a few fleeting moments of worry. That was in the ninth chapter when he permitted the first two Giants to reach base and Bobby Thomson singled one of them across with one one away.

But that, unfortunately, brought up youthful Willie Mays, the Giants' centerfielder from Alabama, who previously had rapped into two double plays to stifle potential rallies. Willie did it again, and the game was over. Four twin killings ripped off by the Yank infield tied the World Series record and chilled the Giants.

Maglie Lack Mastery
Maglie, whom Leo Durocher figured to handcuff the American Leaguers and shoot his club into an unbeatable 3-1 lead, did not have his usual mastery and departed for a pinchhitter after the Yanks had taken a 4-1 advantage on DiMaggio's blow in the fifth. Sheldon Jones was the victim of two more unearned tallies in the three innings he worked, but Monte Kennedy held the winners tightly in check in the ninth. By then it was much too late.

So, instead of going into tomorrow's fifth contest on their (Continued on page seven)

Record Crowd To See Game With Michigan

A record crowd will witness the Penn State-Michigan State homecoming game at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 20, at Beaver Field.

$2.40 end-zone tickets are still available in the north stands, Harold Gilbert, graduate manager of athletics announced yesterday. Temporary bleachers will be erected for the game.

The previous crowd for a Penn State game was 24,500 attending the Penn State-Michigan State game in 1948. The permanent seating capacity at that time was 14,500. In '49 that capacity was doubled. At present the permanent seating capacity of the field is 28,500, and 30,000 when temporary facilities are used.

Tickets for the game are on sale at the athletic ticket window in Old Main.

West Dorms Will Elect Council

Nominations and elections for officers of the West Dorm Council will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in the Hamilton Hall lounge. The election date was set last night at the first meeting of the council in McKee Hall lounge.

Council members will nominate and elect officers to fill the positions of president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer.

Charles Brewer was named temporary chairman of the social committee and David Dumigan was named temporary chairman of the food committee. Both appointments are subject to change when the new council officers assume office.

Food Committee
Serving on the temporary food committee will be John Brunner, Richard Klingensmith, John Barons, and David Cavanaugh.

Ray Evert, member of Tribunal, urged council members to report any violators of men's regulations to that group. He emphasized the fact that several false fire alarms had been set off in the West Dorm area and asked floor presidents to report violators to Tribunal so action may be taken against the dangerous practice.

Treasury Balance
Klingensmith, last year's council treasurer, explained the council budget and expenditures to the new members. He said the council treasury amounted to $165.88.

Thomas Durek, last year's council president and acting chairman until the election of officers, informed members of the ruling allowing only two absences from council meetings before expulsion from the council.

Richard Heck, who will serve as the council's faculty adviser, was introduced by James Whelan, resident adviser.

Seminar Draws 500, Sessions Continue Today

The Seminar on Human Relations, sponsored by the United Steelworkers of America and the College, began Sunday night and will continue in closed sessions at the Nittany Lion Inn until tomorrow night.

Objectives of the seminar were outlined Sunday night to 28 area directors of the United Steelworkers of America and nearly 500 faculty and students by President Milton S. Eisenhower and Philip Murray, president of the United Steelworkers.

In the rooting out of discrimination, both industry and labor benefit, David J. McDonald, international secretary of the United Steelworkers, told those attending the seminar in the first regular session yesterday.

Civil Rights Concern Unions
"When economic standards are raised," McDonald said, "more production results and this lowers unit costs which mean greater profits."

He said that denial of civil rights has been one of the main problems concerning unions. In the Soviet Union, he continued, individuals who do not agree with the government are denied rights.

Dr. Edwin E. Witte, chairman of the Department of Economics at the University of Wisconsin, said much has been accomplished toward recognizing the basic fact industry can enduringly prosper only if conducted as a human relations enterprise.

"But much remains to be done, particularly in carrying out in practice what we recognize to be sound conceptually," he continued.

E. E. Moore, vice-president of the United States Steel Corp. said that human relations in the home and in industry cannot be separated.

He said that man is the most important part of the combination of the industrial machine, raw materials, and the individual, that produce the products of industry.

Family Relations Are Important
Rabbi Morris Kertzer, of Brooklyn, told the seminar that you can't solve religious discrimination and ignore racial discrimination.

Stating that a prejudiced person is ultimately a sick person who seeks to work out his hostilities on other groups, Rabbi Kertzer, president of the National Jewish Chaplains Association, said the only way to abolish discrimination is to have harmonious relations within the family.

First Froth Issue On Stands Today

The first issue of Froth, campus humor magazine published eight times a year, will go on sale today. In Froth's "Good News" issue, the troubles of the world are converted to a laugh with Froth finesse.

Beautiful Penn State coeds, the usual run of stolen jokes, a close-up of the Nittany gridders, and extra-special art work are featured in this issue.

Ernie Moore scores a touchdown with his story of "Football, 1951," the inside dope on Penn State's football team. "Destination Pluto," by Editor Ronald Bonn, is a yarn that is simply "out of this world."

In a Froth exclusive, General "Guts," du Vin discusses war and women with Pete Whelan. And Hank Progar continues to satirize the New Era with his cartoons of "Women in the West Dorms."

The draft scare has provided the "Old Mania" department with seven pages of copy on pinnings, engagements, and marriages since May.

"Goning Around in Circles" will provide conversation material for anyone who's hep to the Red Norvo Trio and the musical picture here at State.

Community Concert Signs Rochester Orchestra

The Rochester Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Eric Leinsdorf, will be included in this year's Community Concert Series.

The announcement was made last night by Dr. F. R. Matson, president of the local committee, at the "kick-off" party for the annual membership campaign.

The success of last week's membership renewal campaign in which more than one-half of last year's memberships were renewed, made it possible for the committee to confirm the tentative booking it made last spring.

Dr. Matson last night told more than 100 volunteer workers that last year's appearance by the Indianapolis Symphony was so popular that the committee decided to include a Symphony again in this year's series.

The Symphony was tentatively booked last spring because bookings for a symphony must be made a year in advance. The date upon which Rochester Symphony will appear here is as yet undetermined.

Dr. Henry L. Yeagley, campaign chairman, said that the sale of memberships must be closed as soon as the quota of 1230 is reached.

Dr. Matson explained that membership will entitle the holder to admission to a series of pro-quarters in 204 Old Main.

Juniors Weigh 'Hail! Oh Hail!' As Class Song

The junior class discussed adopting "Hail! Oh! Hail!" as the class song as part of the junior class weekend activities, Nov. 9-10, at a meeting Sunday night.

Details for the adoption of the song and its presentation at the Syracuse football game Nov. 10 will be worked out by a committee headed by Steven Schreier. The committee hopes to pass out copies of the song to members of the class.

Queen To Be Chosen
A junior class queen, to be crowned at the Junior Prom, will be chosen by a group of outstanding juniors. The outstanding juniors, probably ten men and five women, will be selected by a committee made up of the Dean of Women, the All-College President, and the manager of Associated Student Activities.

Student Bill of Rights

The Daily Collegian is running a series of three articles containing the student Bill of Rights prepared by the United States National Student Association.

Tomlinson Elected Nittany Head

Weston Tomlinson, former president of Hamilton Hall, was elected president of Nittany Council last night at the council's second meeting of the year.

In winning, Tomlinson defeated Milton Erb and Daniel Fagan. Erb was elected as treasurer, while Fagan was elected vice president.

Other officers named were Lances McKnight, recording secretary, and Jay Schultz, corresponding secretary.

Barons Schedule Show

All officers are automatically qualified for the AIM Board of Governors, with the exception of the corresponding secretary.

William Cole, reporting for the Barons, social organization of the area, said that a talent show for the area will be held Dec. 11. The show, entitled the "Splinterville Review of 1951," will consist of dances, humorous skits, and other acts. The organizational meeting for the show is scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday in the lobby of Nittany Dorm 20.

Plan Window Displays

The council also announced plans for a window display, similar to the lawn displays put on by fraternities, during Homecoming weekend. Borough merchants have volunteered the use of their windows to independents expressing interest in the idea.

Store names will be chosen from a hat at 6:15 tonight for the Nittany area in the council room of Nittany Dorm 20.

Women's Housing Almost Normal

The overflow of women students which has caused a housing shortage is slowly returning to normality, Dean of Women, Pearl O. Weston reported.

From a high of 96 students without rooms, the number has been reduced to 20 with this total expected to decrease as fast as dropouts from school occur.

Miss Weston stated that the 11 girls in Simmons and McElwain lounges are "nicely situated." The six in Grange and the three in Atherton lounge will be removed as soon as possible.

Fraternity, 3 Students Found Guilty, Fined

Three students and a fraternity were found guilty in hearings in State College Saturday.

Lawrence Cupka and Walter Keirse Jr. were each fined $25 and costs on disorderly conduct charges following a hearing before William P. Bell, justice of the peace.

Philip Amos and Delta Tau Delta fraternity were each fined $2 and costs on charges of shooting firecrackers in the borough by Guy G. Mills, justice of the peace.

Scholarship Presented

Robert F. Carr, a junior architectural engineering student, has been presented with the 1951 scholarship of the Central Pennsylvania chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

The presentation was made at the fall meeting of the institute, held Saturday at the Nittany Lion Inn.
