Statistics Show Lions Weak on Pass Defense

After two games, statistics show that Penn State's pass defense has been the weakest link in the Lions' football game, as they have allowed 194 yards per game via opponent passing compared to 177 by rushing.

The two Penn State opponents, Boston University and Villanova attempted 30 passes, completing 19, for a passing percentage of 63 percent.

On the offense, the Lions have picked up 525 yards in two games for an average of 262.5 per game. In the air, Penn State has tried 38 passes, completing 13, for an average of 97.5 yards per game.

Lions Average 4.6 yds.

The Lions are averaging 4.6 yards per play, rushing and passing included. Opponents are averaging 3.9 yards per play.

Ted Shattuck is leading in individual statistics, having a total offense figure of 235 yards for an average of 6.3 yards per play. Paul Anders is second with 150 yards gained for an average of 5.3 yards per play.

Szajna Leads Passers

Bob Szajna has the best passing percentage, having completed 39 percent of his tosses. He has attempted 18 and completed 7. Tony Rados has attempted 19 and completed 6.

Co-captain Art Betts, Pete Shopa, and Shattuck have each caught three passes with Shattuck gaining the most yardage, 60, and scoring the only TD via a pass.

Betts has punted nine times for a total figure of 317 yards, averaging 35.2 yards per kick.

Shattuck is leading the scoring race with four touchdowns. Shopa has two and Anders has one touchdown.

Eagles' Coach to Undergo Operation

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11—(AP)—Coach Alvin (Bo) McMillin of the Philadelphia Eagles will be operated on tomorrow for an internal disorder, the club announced today.

Vince McNally, general manager of the Eagles, said assistant Coach Wayne Milner would direct the undefeated National Conference leaders in the game at Green Bay Sunday and until McMillin is able to resume active coaching.

Even though defeated in last year's meeting, Penn State still holds an edge on Nebraska in the all-time records. The Nittany Lions, who face the Cornhuskers at Lincoln tomorrow, scored their wins in 1920 and 1949.

Simon or Silock To Spell Wilson In Lion Lineup

By ERNIE MOORE

Penn State's football team left last night for Chicago, where the Lions will work out today before moving down to Lincoln for their game with the University of Nebraska tomorrow afternoon.

Coach Rip Engle, his assistants, and a squad of 36 men went by bus to Altoona where they caught a train for the Windy City. After their workout today, the Lions will board another train for Lincoln.

Playing their second away game in as many weeks, the Nittany Lions will be out to win their second game of the season and get back on the winning trail after losing to Villanova in Allentown last Saturday.

Nebraska Winless

The Nebraskans have yet to win their first game, losing to Texas Christian and tying Kansas State. Although it is still not certain how much he'll play, Bobby Reynolds is slated to be back in uniform for the Cornhuskers tomorrow. The Nebraska All-American has yet to see action this season because of a shoulder separation suffered before the season began.

Reynolds, who was selected Football Player of the Year by the Pop Warner Foundation of Philadelphia last season, will give Nebraska's offensive game a tremendous lift should he return to the lineup.

Last season, he set a new Big Seven Conference record of total yards gained rushing with 1342. His 157 points shattered a 30 year old NCAA record. Against Penn State last year, he went for scores on runs of 19, 26, and 43 yards. He scored three TD's in one game on six different occasions.

Wilson Out

Penn State will be without the services of Charlie Wilson, defensive end, who injured his hand in scrimmage this week. Either Dave Simon or Andy Silock will start in place of Wilson.

There is a possibility that Ed Hoover, offensive left tackle, may not start against the Cornhuskers tomorrow. Hoover was also injured in an intrasquad scrimmage. If Hoover doesn't start Jim Barr will probably be at the tackle slot.

Tony Rados will start at quarterback for the Lions. Bob Szajna was injured in the Villanova game last weekend and although he is slated to see a lot of action, he will not start the contest. There is also a possibility that Wayne Wolfkeil will start at defensive safety for the Lions. Wolfkeil has been showing up well on pass defense in practice sessions and he might get the nod over Chan Johnson for the safety post.

Engle was non-committal on the Lions' chances against the Cornhuskers tomorrow.

Nebraska up for Game

"I understand we'll be two touchdowns under dogs in Lincoln. But we don't go to the games to lose. We're going to give them everything we have. The outcome of the game will depend on how well off they are. I understand that Bill Glassford wants this game more than anything. Well, that's the way we feel, too," Rip said.

Engle will start an offensive eleven of Co-captain Art Betts and Joe Yukica at ends, Bill Hockersmith and either Ed Hoover or Jim Barr at tackles, Len Bartek and Tom Pevarnik at guards, and Jim Dooley at center.

Tony Rados will start at quarterback; Ted Shattuck, the Lions leading ground gainer, at half-back.

Pete Shopa, of Blakely, looms as a capable understudy to full-back Paul Anders on the 1951 Penn State football team. The five foot eight, 172 pound Shopa impresses his coaches as a carbon copy of the former Lion ace, Fran Rogel.

Pigskin Pipe Dreams

Ted Shattuck, the Lions' leading ground gainer and offensive halfback, represents the gridgers this week in the Daily Collegian's football selections contest.

Shattuck will attempt to gain ground on the sportswriters who have built up a commanding lead in the first three weeks of the contest. The sportswriters' combined average is .691 while the football team's is .615.

X-Countrymen Race Cornell Tomorrow

Cornell's cross-country runners, opening meet victors over Colgate last week, will get their first test of the season when they hook up with the once-victorious Lions tomorrow afternoon over State's course.

Enroute to the 25-32 win over Colgate, the Big Red harriers displayed a stick-together team victory by placing five men in a dead heat for third.

Colgate took the first two places in the 3.7 mile run but the Red runners were content to stay together as a team with a third place time of 21:56.9.

Five Aces

Bob Robertson and Bob Stuckelman, Willig, Pierson, and O'Brien were the five Cornellians who led the win over Colgate. They can be expected to give the Lions the most trouble tomorrow. Robertson and Stuckelman are the senior veterans on a squad which does not boast any outstanding distance runners.

Two other Red runners to toe the line against State tomorrow are Les Knapp and Bob Kahrs. Third-year veteran Knapp wound up tenth against Colgate while Kahrs followed him by one place.

Two others who may see action tomorrow are Bob Grossman and Bill Albers.

Lions Swept Meet

One year ago the national champion Lions copped the first seven places in a 15-50 rout of the Red.

Not pushed seriously enough to threaten the Cornell course record of 27:32 set by Syracuse's Dick Church, Bill and Don Ashenfelter and Dud Foster finished together to win in 29 minutes flat over a five mile layout.

Behind State's winning trio followed Bob Freebairn in fourth, Bob Parsons in fifth, Al Porto sixth and Bill Gordon seventh.

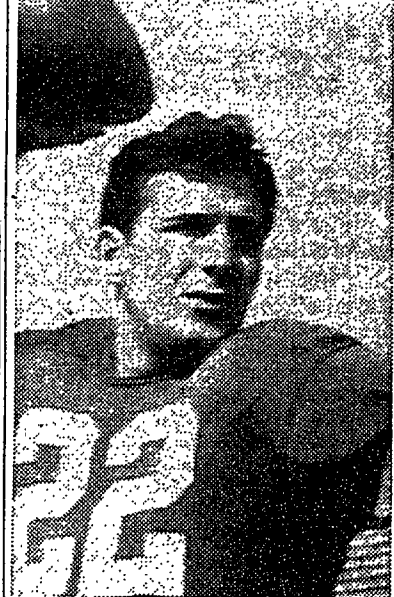

With only Foster and Bill Ash returning from the Nittany powerhouse no such sweep is likely tomorrow.

Of Cornell's runners returning from last fall's meet, Stuckelman took 13th, Knapp 14th, Robertson 15th and Kahrs 17th.
