

Egyptians Withdraw From Suez Canal

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 19—(AP)—Egyptian tanks and artillery pulled back toward Cairo today from the bristling British defense perimeter along the Suez Canal.

But Egypt made a new threat on paper to kick out the British, and Moslem extremists demanded "revenge" on British troops.

The canal area was sealed off and placed on a firm British war footing.

Minister Protest

The British Embassy disclosed Egyptian Foreign Minister Mohamed Salah Ed Din delivered a note of "general protest" against continued presence of British soldiers on Egyptian soil.

Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, commander in chief of British Middle East land forces, returned to the Suez by air today from London, presumably with orders to hold the canal with the garrisons and reinforcements pouring in.

Forces Posted on Highway

The withdrawn Egyptian armored forces had been posted on the Cairo-Suez highway yesterday at the height of tension over the first clash between Egyptian and British troops at El Ferdan bridge Wednesday.

The British announced the Egyptian Army apologized for firing first on British troops approaching the bridge; the Egyptians denied any apology was given. The British won control of the bridge, killing two Egyptian soldiers and wounding five.

of Pennsylvania. National Vegetable Week committee; Fred C. Brehm, president of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association; H. B. Gerhart, secretary of the Vegetable Growers Association; and Gilbert S. Watts, past president and son of the originator of the Hort Show, will speak.

The first Horticulture Show was staged in 1908 in the attic of the Agriculture Building during Farmer's Week in January 1908. This exhibit consisted mainly of non-competitive apple displays shown by commercial fruit growers from various parts of the state.

Early completion of new greenhouses in 1911 brought the first Penn State Flower Show and helped to expand the annual affair.

Storm Ends Show

In 1914 the Agriculture Show had an early and drastic ending. Tents erected to house the various exhibits were blown down by a strong wind ruining the displays.

The Department of Horticulture received a silver cup from the Penn State Agricultural Society for the most meritorious departmental exhibit in 1918.

In 1928 students were handed full responsibilities for design, promotion and management of the Horticulture Show, as it is conducted today.

Prior to 1936 the show was held in the Horticulture Building, but later moved to the Armory until 1940 to make room for the displays. In 1940 the stock pavilion became the site for the classic.

The show is open to the public free of charge and doors will be open today from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., and tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

DU Foundation Offers Scholarships

Delta Upsilon Educational Foundation has announced that students may now apply for the 1952 regional leadership scholarships which are awarded annually to college students throughout the United States and Canada.

An award of $500 is granted to one male student in each of the six regions into which competition is divided. Selections are made on the basis of leadership potentiality and constructive campus achievements.

Peace Talk Questions

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, Oct. 20—(AP)—Two minor questions, which Allied officials hoped could be solved quickly, were all that stood in the way today of a resumption of full-dress talks on a Korean cease-fire.

The remaining issues were: Should Allied aircraft be permitted to fly over the security zones?

Should a security corridor be established on the road linking Kaesong and Munsan with Panmunjom, where the formal talks will be held?

Colored TV Postponed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—(AP)—Color television for the general public was indefinitely postponed today.

The government called for an immediate "freeze" on mass production of television color sets during the big defense drive.

Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson said the defense emergency demands suspension of plans for the mass output of any new products "which are not absolutely essential and which would require the use of critical materials."

UN Shelves Dispute

NEW YORK, Oct. 19—(AP)—The UN Security Council today shelved the British-Iranian oil dispute indefinitely. The council climaxed a series of tense sessions by voting 8 to 1 for a French resolution withholding any action in the council until the International Court of Justice at the Hague has ruled whether the court itself had jurisdiction to intervene in the argument.

Internal Revenue Probe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—(AP)—Three New York agents were suspended today in a widening probe of internal revenue scandals, and in the House a demand was made for the dismissal of Attorney General McGrath.

Postal Rates To Be Boosted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—(AP)—Congress voted today to raise many postal rates—it'll be two cents for a "penny postcard"—and to increase the pay of 1,600,000 government employees.

The pay raises total $673,000,000 a year; the postage increases $117,000,000.

The legislation would mean: To the general public—paying two cents instead of one to mail a postcard, 20 cents instead of 15 for a special delivery stamp. Rates on second class mail (newspapers, etc.) are raised 30 per cent over a three-year period, at the rate of ten per cent a year over present rates; third class mail (advertising matter and circulars) is to go up 1 1/2 cents for each piece. Costs of C.O.D. and insured mail are also boosted. A sealed letter may still travel for three cents; air-mail rates are likewise unaffected. Parcel post rates were raised October 1.

All fraternities not present at the recent IFC meeting are to call the La Vie office Tuesday concerning the wearing of dinner jackets for La Vie pictures. An informal vote taken at the meeting found six of the 50 fraternities present opposed. The vote must be unanimous.

La Vie Pictures

Proclamation Ending State of War Signed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—(AP)—President Truman quickly signed a Congressional resolution ending the state of war with Germany today, even as Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) was trying hard to get the measure back from the White House.

The resolution, as of now, means that Germans are no longer enemy aliens in the eyes of this country.

The Senate passed it last July, the House only yesterday. Today, McCarran protested that Congress blundered in its phrasing of the document. He said it was so worded as to open it to the interpretation that German-owned property in this country could still be seized under the trading-with-the-enemy act.

That would be confiscation, he said. He asked that it be recalled before President Truman signed it, and be referred to the judiciary committee.

At McCarran's request, the Senate by unanimous consent called for the resolution's return from the House. The House sent back word that it had already sent it to the White House.

McCarran later asked the Senate to suspend its rules and call back the resolution from the White House. Senator McFarland of Arizona, the Democratic floor leader, blocked that. He said "it would be very much misunderstood by the German people."
