

Houses to Honor Alums With Homecoming Events

Fraternities are busy this Homecoming Weekend, the biggest in Penn State's history. Most of the houses are holding alumni meetings and informal open houses, and the majority are featuring lawn displays and special themes for their weekend's entertainment.

Some of the highlights will be an alumnus speaker at the Lambda Chi Alpha banquet tonight, entertainment by the Delta Theta Sigma pledges for alumni and professors, and the burning of Delta Chi's mortgage tomorrow. Alpha Tau Omega and Chi Phi will have orchestras playing for their dances tonight.

Tonight will also be open house and informal party night. Acacia, Alpha Zeta, Delta Tau Delta, Lambda Chi Alpha, Pi Lambda Phi, and Phi Sigma Delta plan special banquets.

In general last night was set aside as informal reception night. Alpha Chi Rho and Chi Phi had alumni receptions while Alpha Chi Sigma, Alpha Sigma Phi, Alpha Tau Omega, Delta Upsilon, Phi Gamma Delta, Phi Kappa, Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Kappa Sigma, Pi Kappa Alpha, Delta Chi, and Pi Lambda Phi held informal parties.

Phi Sigma Delta, Phi Sigma Kappa, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Alpha Mu, Sigma Chi, Sigma Phi Alpha, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Zeta Beta Tau, Theta Xi, and Theta Chi held informal parties last night.

Several fraternity functions last night were strictly stag. Zeta Beta Tau, Phi Kappa, Phi Kappa Sigma, Phi Sigma Kappa and Sigma Chi held stag affairs.

any other center of legislation?

A loyalty oath will prove nothing. Just as the Red professors will sign the oath eagerly to avoid suspicion so to will great teachers with unimpeachable integrities declare their unwillingness to sign. The latter men, perhaps too idealistic for this world, will feel that the questioning of their characters is an unwarranted intrusion into a private matter.

Though the pro and con of the news regulations has been aired many times there is one point that needs re-emphasis. The regulations may tend to make newspapers the mouthpieces of the government. With the news outlets restricted all along the departmental line the blunders of government can be hidden from the public and the information revealed to the press can become only orchids in favor of the administration.

In Russia there are two major sources of news—one is Pravda, the other Izvestia. One provides the government with an outlet; the other provides the party with a means of funneling lies to the people. The question to ponder: Is the press in America being muffled by unthinking policy makers?

IFC Newsletter Staff Members Will Get Keys

The Interfraternity Council voted Wednesday night to award honor keys to all IFC Newsletter staff members who work for one year on the publication.

Giving of the keys had been a policy in the past, but was overlooked by the council last year.

The council also discussed the renting of a film called "Here You Choose" made by the visual aids department of the University of Wisconsin.

The sound film concerns the advantages and disadvantages of fraternities and sororities. It deals with such points as social life, outside activities, sports, studies, and costs.

H. W. Perkins, assistant dean of men, suggested the group view the film as a possible model for a similar Penn State film and for presentation to new freshmen on the campus during Orientation Week. It was also suggested that the picture might give a good idea of how other fraternity systems are run.

The film will be shown either at a future IFC meeting, a fraternity presidents' meeting, or possibly during the IFC workshop program.

Lamaster, Hedge Elected To House Positions

Touchdown Fashions To Vie with Lions

By BETTIE LOUX

Coeds clad in the brightest of fall hues and fabrics will score a touchdown at today's game, unless Indian summer temperatures zoom and send the woollens back to mothballs.

It's always a question. . . "Will I freeze if I just wear a suit? . . . or will it be hot up in the stands?" Whatever the weather, the coed who knows she's dressed appropriately is sure to be comfortable.

Imitation Furs

If the winds blow, a boxy, three-quarter length coat will keep its owner warm, especially if the fabric is one of the new curly textures, known variously as chinchilla, poodle cloth, and "Mirrak." These tufty, loopy materials, which come as near to fur as some budgets will allow, go equally well with sports and dress clothes. Frequent brushing keeps up the nap on these fabrics.

Imitation fur fabrics, including red and gray moleskin, brown Persian lamb and ocelot, may be seen this year in coat linings, weskits, slacks, and in short boxy jackets worn over contrasting straight skirts.

In Paris showings last summer, sombre colors were approved for suits and coats, leaving the way wide open for the brightest in accessories. Oxford brown, banker's gray, and black are a perfect background for the burnished beauty of copper, the new jewelry favorite. Leather shoes and handbags with a copperish finish are on the market, and harmonizing shades of nail lacquer and lipstick can be found.

Conversation Pieces

Colors bloom after five o'clock, however, and with the shades so brilliant, accessories must become less conspicuous. Purple, plum, the reddest of reds, royal blues, and spicy golds, and cinnamon are seen in velvet, taffeta, jersey, and fine-wale, fit-for-a-party corduroy.

For informal gatherings try a conversation piece—a blue rayon denim quilted skirt, for example, topped with a blouse of claret velvet or white corduroy. Or take a tip from Harper's Bazaar and try a pink felt circle skirt and a knitted black wool tube top. It's different, but it's fun!

4th Jam Session To Be Presented

The fourth College jam session will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Tub. Resident advisers of the Nittany-Pollock area sponsor the weekly sessions featuring Dixieland jazz.

This Sunday's session features Dick Brady on the trombone; Eugene Sprague, trumpet; Lloyd Sand, drums; Larry Enesco, piano; and Darrell Rishel, bass.

AIM to Hold Dance In West Dorm Lounge

The Association of Independent Men will hold an alumni dance from 9 to midnight tonight in the West Dorm lounge.

The dance, which is the first of its kind sponsored by AIM, is open to all undergraduates and alumni and is being planned as an annual affair for each Homecoming Weekend.

Ray Evert and his orchestra will provide the music.
