

PSCA Round Table to Hear Dr. Forster

Dr. Kent Forster, associate professor of history, will speak at the Penn State Christian Association round table tonight on "The World Struggle: Where Do I Come In?" giving an analysis of the dilemma of the world today and the place of the individual and his responsibilities in such a world.

The round table will meet at 8 p.m. in 304 Old Main.

The PSCA freshman council will hold an open house at 7 tonight in 405 Old Main. Admission will be one new member per person. The object is to acquaint more freshmen with the workings and purposes of the freshman council.

PSCA cabinet will meet at 6:45 tonight in 304 Old Main. The cabinet will receive reports of the Student Christian Movement area conference held at Camp Michaux last weekend and continue plans for the colloquy on religion and political affairs to be held at the College Nov. 16 to 18.

Judging Team Places Sixth

Penn State's dairy cattle judging team placed sixth in a field of 13 at the Intercollegiate Dairy Cattle Judging Contest held at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass. recently.

Paul Anderson led the individual scoring for the Lions and placed seventh in the contest. He was in a three-way tie for first place in judging the Brown Swiss class.

Donald Ace, Charles Brosius, Boyd Wolff, and Anderson represented the State team in the contest. Max Dawdy, professor of dairy husbandry, was coach of the team.

The Nittany judging team has placed first twice and sixth or better 18 times during 27 years of competition at Springfield.

The ranking of Penn State teams in comparison with all teams during the 27-year period is fifth place.

Report Reveals 1643 Ag Undergraduates

A total of 1643 undergraduates are enrolled in the School of Agriculture, according to the first report released by Dean Lyman E. Jackson.

This total includes 68 two-year agriculture and 9 special students.

The Forestry department is highest with an enrollment of 308 students and the new curriculum, general agriculture, is last with 10 students.

There are 398 seniors, 405 juniors, 319 sophomores, and 444 freshmen enrolled in the schools.

Alum Named Principal

Paul Dunkelberger, a 1939 graduate of the College, has been elected supervising principal of Kutztown High School, Kutztown, Pa.

While at Penn State, Dunkelberger was a member of Delta Theta Sigma and Alpha Tau Alpha, the agricultural education honorary.

Tomorrow, Eren will address the faculty and graduate students in the School of Education. Goris, who is also known as an outstanding artist, will speak to art classes.

International Festival

The School of Home Economics will bring to a close United Nations Week celebrations with an International Festival from 2 to 5:30 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday, and from 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday. The program will include exhibits, lectures, films, musical events, demonstrations, and a costume show. Nezh Manyas, assistant director of the Turkish information office in New York City, is one of the featured speakers.

The all-College sub-committee in charge of the United Nations Week program includes D. W. Russell, professor of education, chairman, Hazel M. Hatcher, professor of home economics, and Vaclav Mares, professor of economics. They have arranged all programs with the purpose of emphasizing international understanding.

Red Cross Honorary To Meet Tonight

Those interested in helping the Red Cross will meet at 9 tonight in the lounge of Old Main.

The Red Cross service honorary is one of the sponsors of the bloodmobile this year and is packing 25 boxes for overseas.

A variety show was given by the honorary for the Veterans' Hospital in Altoona last year, and plans for another show will be included in this year's program.

Nominations--

Two freshman positions on the Mineral Industries council will also be filled. However, they must be second-semester freshmen in MI with an all-College average of at least 1.

Three freshmen men and three freshmen women will be elected to council positions on the Physical Education Student Council.

Prof in 'Business Week'

Edward O. Malott, a member of the College's Economics department, is pictured in the current issue of Business Week magazine.

Malott is director of the new seminar center of the American Management Association, New York, on which the business management weekly is printing a feature.

Poultry Club Elections

Theodore Burr and Ronald Stief have been elected vice president and secretary, respectively, of the Poultry Club.

Your loss will be someone's gain—sign up now for the Red Cross blood drive Nov. 13 and 14 at the TUB.

Haller to Talk Before Council

Dr. George L. Haller, dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics, will address a special meeting of the Chem-Phys Student Council at 7:30 tonight in 1 Carnegie Hall.

His talk, which will follow the regular business meeting of the council to be held at 7 p.m., will concern the joint responsibility of the administration and council in the activities of the school. The meeting is open to interested students, and Bryson Craine, president of the council, asks that all freshmen who propose to nominate themselves for a seat on the council attend.

At the last meeting of the council, committees were appointed for this year. Members of the course evaluation committee are Donald Furlong, chairman; Jack Wolf; Joseph Geiger; Lloyd Hartough, and Edmund Storms.

Members of the elections committee are James Plyler, chairman; David Swanson, Gerald Loughran, and Neil Yocum. On the Newsletter committee are James Ramsay, editor; and James Ritter. Chairman of the student-faculty mixer committee is Edward Walden. Members are Barbara Reese, Lincoln Warrell, and Keith Smith.

Blue Band Plays In Harrisburg Show

The Penn State Blue Band was a feature in the Penn State Night program sponsored by the Pennsylvania National Horse Show Association and held in Harrisburg last night.

Appropriate marching formations and College and equestrian music were performed by the band for the thousands of visitors attracted by the week-long show.

Gov. John S. Fine was guest of honor of the Association. President Milton S. Eisenhower and members of the Board of Trustees were also invited to the affair.

The Blue Band left the College early Tuesday afternoon so they could practice in the Arena where the performance was held.

Collegian Promotion

David Pellnitz has been promoted to the junior editorial board of the Daily Collegian, Marvin Krasnansky, editor, announced yesterday.

Krasnansky also announced the resignation of Doris Golub from the junior board.

Name Food Supervisor

Loyalty Oath --

All-College Cabinet has approved a resolution prepared by All-College officers in cooperation with the National Student Association condemning the loyalty oath.

Faith in Trustees

The resolution expressed cabinet's faith in the loyalty of the College Board of Trustees, administration, and faculty and the group's satisfaction that there is no subversive person on the faculty of the College.

The forum on the loyalty oath was arranged to bring a fuller understanding of the issue involved with a free and honest exchange of ideas, according to Joseph Coates, GSA president.

Phys Ed Record Dance Slated for Tomorrow

A mixer sponsored by the Physical Education Student Council will be held from 7:15 to 10 p.m. tomorrow in the TUB.

The dance is open to all students and faculty members. Admission is free. Music will be recorded, and refreshments will be served.

The purpose of the dance is to promote a better student-faculty relationship, according to William Mihalich, council president.
