W. Va. Changes Band Day Plans

West Virginia University's decision to bring its band to the game Saturday has necessitated a change in the plans to turn over the entire half-time period to the visiting high school bands who will participate in Band Day.

There will be a parade through town and campus beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday. It will start at Beaver Field, proceed down Burrows road, to Pollock road to Shortlidge road, to College avenue, and then west on College to Burrows road.

Hummel Fishburn, director of the affair, has announced that the 24 bands will assemble on Beaver Field about 12:30 p.m. and play two or three numbers en masse. A giant PSC formed by all the bands will be part of the pre-game program.

Each of the directors of the 24 bands has earned at least one of his degrees in music at the College. These degrees were the basis of selection when the bands were invited to participate.

Concert Series Dates Are Set

Dates for the appearance of artists in the Community Concert series were announced yesterday by Dr. F. R. Matson, president of the local committee.

The Trapp Family Singers will perform on Nov. 16 as part of a transcontinental tour. This is the twelfth of a series of tours made by the family which have included Europe, South America, and the United States.

The Vera Appleton-Michael Field piano duo will appear on Feb. 15. They have not only made many concert appearances, but have performed for radio stations throughout the United States.

William Primrose, who will perform on April 16, has made the viola a popular solo concert instrument. He has toured England and North and South America as well as making appearances in his native Scotland.

That more than half the 1230 available memberships were purchased by students was noted with satisfaction by Matson since the series is arranged mainly for the benefit of the students.

Permanent tickets to replace the season tickets now held by members will be mailed before the day of the first concert.

Women Will Show Foods At Festival

The cooking of foods from other countries will be demonstrated at the second annual International Festival to be held from 2 to 5:30 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday and from 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday in the Home Economics Building.

On Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Tara Purshottem will demonstrate the making of chicken curry with rice from India, and Mrs. Luis Bigott will make Venezuelan Tequesos.

Two food demonstrations will be given Saturday evening when Mrs. Nezi Manyas, wife of the assistant director of the Turkish Information Office in New York, will show how she prepares Karniyarik from Turkey. She will be assisted by Fati Atila, a Turkish student at the College. Mrs. Alice Lew and Mrs. Yoh Han Pao will prepare Chinese rice candy.

On Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Alfred will show the method of preparing Pizza Italiana and Mrs. Manyas will demonstrate Boreks, a Turkish dish.

The food demonstrations will be a part of the programs occurring simultaneously throughout the Home Economics Building during Saturday and Sunday. Movies, talks, exhibits from many countries, a fashion show, music, and dancing will be special features.

The international committee of the School of Home Economics planned the festival to follow the celebration of United Nations Day and it is for the benefit of their foreign scholarship fund. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Campus Chest Solicitors Meet With Prexy

Thirty-five members of the campus chest committee, including solicitation chairmen and town and dormitory heads, met yesterday with President Milton S. Eisenhower at a tea in the presidential mansion.

Mrs. Milton S. Eisenhower and Mrs. Wilmer E. Kenworthy were hostesses at the tea.

President Eisenhower turned drive solicitor when he obtained a pledge card from James Worth, All-College president. It was the first pledge of this year's Campus Chest drive which opens Saturday.

This year's drive will run for two weeks and will have $12,000 as its goal. Nine organizations will benefit from the concentrated effort.

Students will be solicited in town and on campus. Those who wish to pledge support will have the amount added to their second semester fees. Cash will also be accepted.

Commuting students will have pledge cards mailed to their homes. Contributors should return the cards to 304 Old Main, Murray Goldman, solicitation chairman, said.

Students who are overlooked in the two-week drive may secure pledge cards at that office. A mass meeting of all solicitors

Sophs to Hold Rally Nov. 1

Neida Fralich, freshman class secretary, and Bruce Wagner, a member of the freshman advisory board, were appointed co-emcees for a pep rally the sophomore class is planning for 8 p.m. Nov. 1 before the football team leaves for Lafayette, Ind.

Approximately 120 sophomores attended the class meeting last night. This was the largest turnout at any class meeting this semester.

Charles McClintock gave a dance committee report, and Feb. 8 was set as a tentative date for a sophomore class dance. Maroon and white were chosen as class colors.

At an executive meeting after the regular meeting, Bruce Wagner was named to contact cheerleaders for the rally; John Jenkins was appointed to contact the Blue Band; and Gerald Maurey was appointed to select a speaker.
