

The Daily Collegian

Successor to THE FREE LANCE, est. 1887

Published Tuesday through Saturday mornings inclusive during the College year by the staff of The Daily Collegian of The Pennsylvania State College.

Entered as second-class matter July 5, 1934, at the State College, Pa., Post Office under the act of March 3, 1879.

Collegian editorials represent the viewpoints of the writers, not necessarily the policy of the newspaper. Unsigned editorials are by the editor.

Marv Krasnansky Editor Edward Shanken Business Mgr.

STAFF THIS ISSUE

Night editor, LaVonne Althouse; copy editors, Joan Kuntz, Arnie Bloom; assistants, Laura Badwey, Evvie Kieler, Bobbie Wakefield, Tom Saylor, Sally Sapper.

Advertising staff: Manager, Don Jackel; Assistants, Nancy Supplee, Phyllis Kalson, Ruth Pierce, Bob Potter.

Drinking at Games Should Be Curbed

The drinking of alcohol is a quaint habit, a habit which has plagued man since time immemorial. Alcohol is not a food, so man could if he so desired, exist without liquor, beer, or wine.

But man ate the apple, smokes cigarettes and cigars, and drinks. Society, through rules of law and mores, has however, imposed certain restrictions on the consumption of liquor. Law requires, among other things, in Pennsylvania that liquor shall not be sold to persons under 21. The mores of the nation insist that we consume liquor with discretion as to the time, place, and quantity.

One of the places, we think, where liquor shall not be consumed is at football games. Those intoxicated by liquor are out of place in any public place. The larger the audience, the more out of place the abuse.

In three years of watching Penn State football, we have failed to note a single game during which there was not at least one spectator wending his way through the crowd with a case of beer on his shoulders. There have been few games where we have not seen one person obnoxiously intoxicated.

What lends a touch of incongruity to the entire situation is that the College has issued a policy statement forbidding the use of alcoholic beverages on College property. But no effort has been made to stop persons entering Beaver Field with cases of beer on their shoulders.

It would be difficult, if indeed practical or possible, to eliminate drinking from flasks. There is no reason why, however, the College should continue to allow persons to enter Beaver Field laden with cases of beer, or allow to go unpunished those students who become intoxicated at football games.

WRA Program

The addition of field hockey to the Women's Recreation Association's intramural program is encouraging to all women interested in sports not as yet included in the schedule.

WRA has shown that it will respond to its members' wishes when there are large enough turnouts for any sport. The enthusiasm at the daily meetings of the hockey club paved the way for hockey's inclusion in the intramurals.

If this policy is continued it will increase the interest in women's intramurals and make for a better WRA program.

—Carolyn Barrett

Give Once, Serve All-Campus Chest

During the next two weeks students will have a chance to aid nine organizations at one time. This chance will be Penn State's second annual Campus Chest drive.

The Campus Chest was started last year as a concentrated effort to eliminate repeated fund drives among students. Last year's chest goal of $14,000 fell short by about $3500 through lack of student support. This year's goal will be $12,000.

There is no reason why Penn State's students cannot raise $12,000 for the worthwhile charities included in the Campus Chest drive. There is every reason why students should pledge their support to this project.

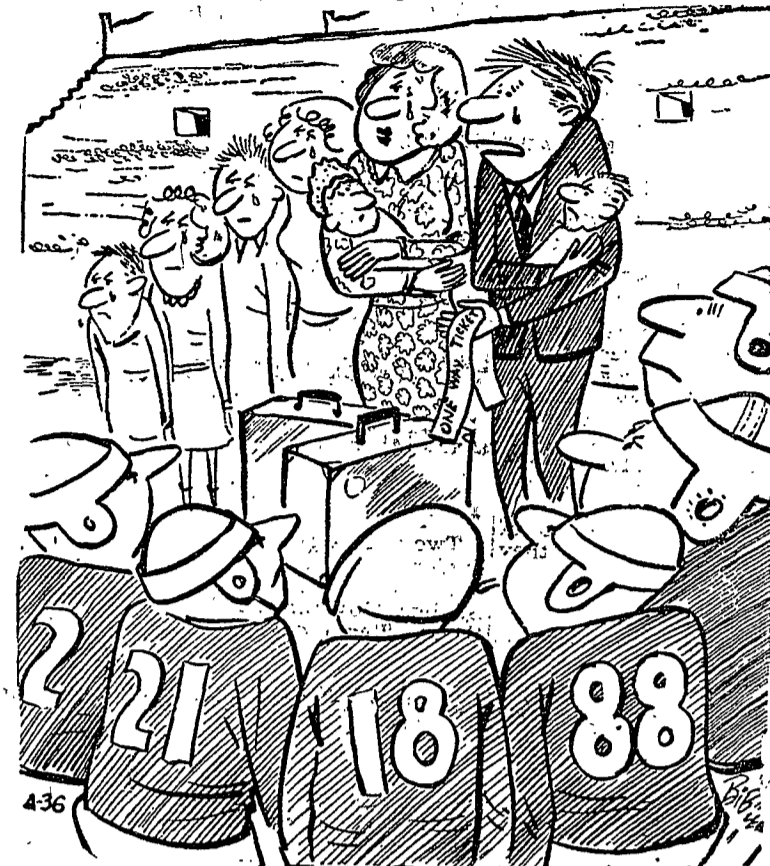

Campus Chest is something the College has needed for a long while. Its primary function is convenience—convenience eliminating a year-round chase for student funds by numerous drives.

The chest drive opens tomorrow. The donating procedure is simple. All a student must do to aid the drive is pledge his support. The amount pledged will be added to his second semester fees.

Without student support, this drive, beneficial to both students and the groups soliciting, may die. So when the Campus Chest solicitor comes knocking on your door, won't you give once—and serve all?

—Dave Jones

Little Man On Campus By Bibler

"Men—this is our last chance to win a game this season—together."

Gazette . . .

Friday, October 26

NAVAL RESERVE RADIO UNIT, Oct. 29, 200 Engineering E, 7 p.m.

NEWMAN CLUB Halloween party, Theta Kappa Phi, 8 p.m.

SABBATH EVE SERVICES, Phi Sigma Delta hosts, Hillel, 8 p.m.

COLLEGE HOSPITAL

Dorothy Balfour, John Bouch, Connie Kuter, William Leonard, Claire Lewis, Joan Lustig, Eugene Morley, Lois Richardson, Peter Shoderbek, Peter Smith, Louis Webster.

AT THE MOVIES

CATHAUM: A Place in the Sun
STATE: Come Fill the Cup
NITTANY: Mr. Belvedere Rings the Bell
STRALITE DRIVE-IN: I Was an American Spy —plus— Tarzan's Peril

COLLEGE PLACEMENT

American Locomotive Co. will interview January graduates in E.E., M.E., I.E., and Ch.E. Tuesday, November 6.
General Electric Co. will interview January graduates in C & F and A & L Wednesday, October 31.
Proctor and Gamble Co. will interview January graduates in C & F and L.A. Tuesday, November 6.
Radio Corporation of America will interview January graduates in E.E., M.E., I.E., Ch.E., Phys., C & F, A & L, and L.M.R. Monday, November 5.
Armstrong Cork Co. will interview January graduates in C & F, A & L, Journ. and I.E. Tuesday, November 6. They will also interview graduates in Chem. Eng. at the B.S. and M.S. level, and Chem. and Phys. at all levels.
General Cable Corp. will interview January graduates in E.E., I.E., and M.E. Thursday, Nov. 8.
General Chemical Co. will interview January graduates in M.E., Ch.E., Chem., Ento., and Hort., Thursday, Nov. 8.
Leeds and Northrup Co. will interview January graduates in E.E., M.E., I.E., Ch.E., and Phys., Friday, Nov. 9.

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT

Man to set pins for bowling league.
Student wife for permanent Friday and Saturday demonstration work in store.
Women with mornings free of classes for baby sitting.
Electricians.
Student for preparing noon-meal; cooking may be done during the noon hour.
Piano player for Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday nights.

"Many persons carry about their characters in their hands; not a few under their feet."
—Anon

Two UN Delegates Give Views on U.S.

By MIMI UNGAR

Both Nuri Eren, Turkish delegate to the United Nations, and Dr. Jan-Albert Goris, Belgian delegate to the UNESCO, who spoke at the College Wednesday night in celebration of United Nations Day, believed that there are sections of the United States which remind them of their native countries.

Eren, in his travels through the United States, liked Denver because it resembles Turkey with its natural scenery and mountains. Goris chose Lancaster, Pa., as that part of this country which best typifies a Belgian community. The manner in which this Amish section is laid out is similar to Belgium, he said.

However, the Belgian added that New Mexico is the nicest part of America. He hopes that he can end his days there because it is such a marvelous country.

Fascinated by Gadgets

"Having been in this country for 13 years, nothing strikes me as being unusual anymore," Goris said. The interesting thing to watch, however, is the emotionalism of the American people.

The Turk, in this country for two years, is fascinated by the gadgets which the American people use. "It seems that they would not be happy without them," Eren said.

The UNESCO delegate, who has studied and taught in this country and abroad believes that the student and professor have much more close contact in universities in this country. "In Europe, the university is a much more scholarly affair, while, in America, stress is placed on the education of the people," Goris said.

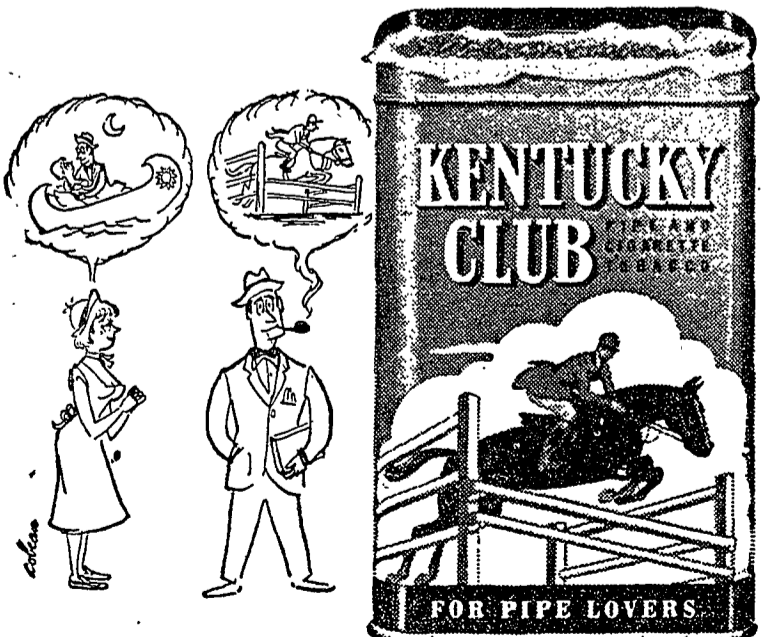

American Food

America's cafeteria style of eating in many restaurants, is similar to that in Turkey, Eren said. The Turkish dish, "chishkabob" is compared with American chicken. Turkish coffee is stronger than American. It is cooked with the sugar already in, served in a demi-tasse, and drunk without cream. "It peeps you up," the Turk said.

"The basic material in American food is fine, but their way of preparing it is fantastic," the Belgian pointed out. He added

(Continued on page five)

Makes a Man Love a Pipe
and a Woman Love a Man

The Thoroughbred of Pipe Tobaccos
Choice white Burley - Smooth and mild

STARLITE DRIVE-IN

on BELLEFONTE ROAD

SHOW TIME - 7 P. M.

FRIDAY & SATURDAY

"I WAS AN AMERICAN SPY"

ANN DVORAK
GENE EVANS

Plus

"TARZAN'S PERIL"

LEX BARKER
VIRGINIA HUSTON

SPOOKS 'n GOBLINS 'n EVERYTHING

at our

Annual

Halloween Candlelight

Dinner

Wednesday
October 31

Dinner
4:45 to 7:45

THE ATTENEW
TEA ROOM