

The Nittany Realm

Post-season bowl committees will be forming soon, and from the way things stack up at the moment, the boys who choose the Rose Bowl contestants are going to have real fun . . . California is ineligible, having participated last year . . . This leaves Southern Cal and Washington, each of whom has one conference loss.

Stanford is still unbeaten, but still has to play Cal and Southern Cal before the season ends, which makes the picture of an unblemished record appear dimmer . . . On the other hand, Stanford and Washington play eight conference games while Southern Cal plays only seven . . . Should these three finish with identical loss records, Southern Cal would be out.

Illinois seems to have clinched the job as representative from the Big 10 . . . And the Illini and Washington have already played with Illinois winning . . . Should Washington be picked from the coast, wouldn't that be a pretty picture?

Two teams who have already played meeting in the Rose Bowl . . . All Stanford has to do to clear up the whole mess is beat California and Southern Cal.

In looking over some pre-season predictions on the part of some well-known football "experts" we find that Nebraska was one of the most over-rated teams in the country . . . They were picked to finish at least second in the Big Seven, and in some quarters were picked to take the conference . . . So far, the best they have been able to do is a 6-6 tie with Kansas State while losing four other games.

Admittedly the loss of Bobby Reynolds had a definite effect on the Cornhuskers' spirits, but even with Reynolds' return to the lineup against Missouri last Saturday they showed nothing . . . With Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, and Miami (Fla.) lying on the path ahead, things aren't looking too good.

Probably the most under-rated team at the beginning of the season was Georgia Tech . . . Picked to finish as low as tenth in the Southeastern Conference the Yellowjackets have thus far rolled to six victories without a loss over formidable teams like SMU, LSU, and Kentucky.

Whether Joe Harrick, West Virginia's big tackle, has a passion for red flags or whether he just wanted a souvenir from the Penn State game is hard to tell, but whatever the passion or cause, he was in one red flag when he left the field Saturday and Head Linesman Joseph E. Mihm was minus one . . . The official threw his flag on the ground on the last play of the game, signifying an off-side penalty.

In the confusion that followed what with the ending of the game and the discussion of the penalty, Harrick neatly lifted the flag from the ground, tucked it inside his belt, and trotted innocently from the field . . . It was a bewildered and dejected Mr. Mihm who searched the grounds of Beaver Field in quest of his purloined red flag.

It must be a sign of the times of something because Joe Breu, Collegian assistant sports editor last year and Phillie fan extraordinary, has joined the ranks of Uncle Sam at Indiantown Gap, while last year's sports editor Ray Koehler has also abandoned his journalistic endeavors to tote a gun at Fort Meade, Md.

Eight Michigan State swimmers made the 1951 All-American swimming team. They took 11 places in individual events and two relay teams also were honored.

DSP, BTP, Phi Kaps Record Swim Wins

Swimmers from Delta Sigma Phi and Beta Theta Pi continued their dominance in intramural swimming activity yesterday afternoon at Glennland pool as they both recorded decisive second round triumphs. Phi Kappa also copped its meet with Theta Kappa Phi. In turning back a weak Alpha Tau Omega team, 37-3, Delta Sigma Phi scored a first and second in each event.

Don VanErp spurred in the final few yards to take the 60 yard free style event in 38.7 seconds. Shields then easily stroked to a 44.6 timing in the 60 yard backstroke. Shields also won the diving event and swam on the winning 120 yard relay squad.

For the second time in the past week, Beta Theta Pi's natators splashed their way to an impressive conquest as they overwhelmed Kappa Sigma, 32-5.

It was all BTP, as the two-time winners made a clean sweep of all first and second places in the five events. Jean Cronstadt started his teammates on the road to victory, winning the 60 yard freestyle in 34.6 seconds. Teammate Don Craul added to the feat, splashing a 48.6 timing in the 60 yard breaststroke race.

Joe Rynewicz paced the Phi Kappa mermen to hard-fought 23-17 win over Theta Kappa Phi. The Phi Kaps were hard-pressed throughout the entire match, but their relay team of Rynewicz, Bud Gruber, Bill Heinz, and Charley Frame clinched the victory as they stroked a fast 1:08.7 clocking in the 120 yard course.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

POOR PAUL was eggspaspered because every chick on campus gave him the bird. They told him: "We're all cooped up!" Then one day his roommate said: "The hens avoid you beak-cause your hair's messy, you dumb cluck! I don't know feather you've heard of Wildroot Cream-Oil or not, but you better fry it—er, try it! Contains soothing Lanolin. Relieves dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test." Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil—and now the gals think he's a good egg! Better lay down a few poultry cents on the nearest drug or toilet goods counter for a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. And ask for it on your hair at your favorite barber shop. Then the girls'll take off their hatch to you!

STEADY JOBS FOR JUNE GRADUATES!

$3,100.00 a Year to Start

The U. S. Government has announced examinations to select outstanding young men and women for positions in agriculture, management, and many professional fields. If you will receive your Bachelor's degree before June 30, 1952, you are probably qualified to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity. No actual work experience is required.

If you are successful in these tests you will be part of a progressive program to develop future Federal administrators and high-grade professional workers. Jobs are open at $3,100.00 a year with regular increases to $3,825.00 and promotions to as high as $14,000.00. In addition you can enjoy the many benefits offered only in the U. S. Civil Service — job security, generous retirement pensions, 26-day annual vacations, 15-day sick leave allowances, and many others. Securing one of these appointments is not easy. The examinations given to applicants are difficult so that the most promising graduates are selected to become the future key personnel in the Federal Government. Your grade on the examination is the determining factor in being appointed.

Last year, almost 9 out of 10 who took the Junior Management Assistant written examination failed to pass. In analyzing these results, experts agree that the cause of most of the failures was not lack of specialized knowledge and academic background. Those who failed simply were not trained to pass a Civil Service type examination.

JUNIOR AGRICULTURAL ASSISTANT

Wanted by the Dept. of Agriculture and Dept. of Interior for positions in Washington, D. C. and throughout the United States. Applicants wanted for 17 options including specialists on agricultural economics, psychology, botany, pathology, statistics and zoology.

Applications Closed Nov. 13

To take any of these examinations go immediately to your nearest First or Second Class Post Office and obtain a copy of the official announcement and application form 5000 AB. Fill out and file this with the Civil Service Commission according to directions. Do this at once since applications will be accepted only during the next few days. You will later be notified of the time and place of the examination in your locality.

JUNIOR PROFESSIONAL ASSISTANT

Important openings for graduates with majors in economics, bacteriology, geography, geophysics, social sciences and statistics. The first opportunity to use your professional training on important work in various departments of the Federal Government.

Applications Closed Nov. 13

JUNIOR MANAGEMENT ASSISTANT

Executives and administrators serving as interns in management. An almost unlimited future for advancement for those highly qualified with a background of social science, business or public administration.
