Boilermakers Triumph, 28-0; Syracuse Next

After absorbing its third and worst beating of the season at the hands of Purdue in Lafayette, Ind. Saturday, Penn State's football team went back to the practice field yesterday afternoon, preparing for what Coach Rip Engle terms "one of our toughest games"—Syracuse.

"We were beaten by a real tough football team," Engle commented on the Nittany Lions' 28-0 pasting by Purdue.

"They were a typical Big Ten ball club. They ran hard, they tackled hard, and they blocked hard."

Ten Fumbles

In the game, played in a 35 mile per hour bitter cold wind which played havoc with passes and punts, the Boilermakers captured their second win of the season, scoring once in the first quarter, twice in the second, and once in the third period.

The 21,000 shivering fans, who braved the elements to watch the two schools meet on the gridiron for the first time, saw ten fumbles slither off the cold fingers of the Purdue and Penn State backs.

Pollard Out

The wind was so strong that it made punting against the wind near impossible. Early in the first period, Purdue kicker Norm Montgomery could punt the ball only four yards into the wind. On another occasion, kicking into the wind, Jimmy Reuchert's kickoff shot through the air from the 40 and went 30 yards over the crossbar and up against the bleachers.

State's offensive game was hurt in the second quarter when wingback Bob Pollard was banished from the game on a personal foul. Ted Shattuck picked up the most yardage along the ground for the Lions with 39 in 14 attempts. Pete Shopa ran for 31 in eight tries. Tony Rados hit on six of 17 passes for 51 yards.

Fumble Hurts

The Lions came out of the game with three injuries. Tackle Bill Hockersmith suffered a ligament strain of the neck and shoulder. Halfback Don Eyer received a sprain of the shoulder. Fullback Matt Yanosich suffered a contusion of the ribs.

Penn State got a golden opportunity to score just after the game got underway when a fumble moved the Boilermakers back within their own five yard line. On fourth down, Norman Montgomery was able to punt only four yards against the stiff wind to the Purdue ten yard line. But on first play from scrimmage, Jim Pollard fumbled and Purdue recovered to end the threat. The fumble marked the fourth game in a row that the Lions' have fumbled and lost the ball on the first play from scrimmage.

Pass Interception

Purdue scored its first touchdown just a few minutes later on an 86 yard drive from its own 14 yard line. Halfback Rex Brock ate up almost half the yardage on his 42 yard jaunt around right end. Max Schmaling climaxed the drive by going over from the two.

Harriers Topple NYU For 4th Win of Season

By JAKE HIGHTON

New York University came closer than any other team all season to beating Penn State on its home cross country course but even the Violets were not too close as the Lions beat extreme cold, raw wind, a snow-covered course, and NYU 23-36 Saturday.

The closing home season victory for State was its fourth of the season—all at home—against only one setback to Army away from home.

Hollen Week's Top Athlete

Bob "Red" Hollen, sophomore on Coach Chick Werner's cross-country team, was voted athlete of the week by the Daily Collegian sports staff.

Hollen, a consistent point-getter for the harriers all season, ran his usual steady race against NYU Saturday and finished fourth despite a sprained ankle. He was the second Penn State finisher in the meet which the Lions won 22-36. Teammate Bill Ashenfelter won the meet and was followed by two Violets.

The lanky sophomore covered the five mile Nittany course in 27:43. He is the second harrier to win the award since Bill Ash previously won for his great run against Michigan State.

Bill Ashenfelter, synonymous with home course Nittany triumphs the past two seasons, scored again with an 180 yard, 26:52.2 five mile time. It was a creditable clocking for the terrible weather conditions which forced the runners to wear mittens and woolen undershirts.

NYU came up with the best one-two punch the Lions have met all year as Howie Jacobsen and Gordon McKenzie finished second and third respectively timed in 27:23 and 27:30.

But these two NYU aces, who didn't fold as so many opposing stars do on the State course, were the only punches NYU had. The other Violet runners after Ted Foy's eighth place, were buried deep in a mass of finishers.

Not even a sprained ankle could restrain Red Hollen as the swift soph scooted home fourth in the race and second for the Lions with a mark of 27:43.

Jim Hamill carried the ball for frosh teammate Lamont Smith who was prevented from running because of sickness, by notching a noteworthy fifth place for State in 28:03.

Captain Dud Foster and Jackson Horner stepped across the finish line together in 28:18 to cop final scoring positions for Chick Werner's harriers.

Behind NYU's Foy, State ran a host of reserves. In order they were Bob Gehman, Stan Lindner, Pete Judd, John Chillrud, Dave Pierson, John Davidson and Bob Roessler.

DU Swimmers Advance

Swimmers from Delta Upsilon, Delta Sigma Phi, and Beta Theta Pi kept their undefeated records intact yesterday afternoon at Glennland pool, scoring their third straight victories of the campaign.

In turning back a weak Alpha Chi Sigma team, 31-7, the DUS moved into tomorrow's quarter-finals.

Delta Sigma Phi's aquamen continued to sail along at full mast as they overwhelmed Phi Kappa, 39-11. Ned Shields led the Delta Sigs, taking a first in the freestyle, diving, and backstroke events.

After losing the 60 yard freestyle event, the Beta Theta Pi swimmers came back to win the next four events and beat Phi Kappa, 30-11. Ned Shields led Sam Hamilton played a major role in his team's victory, winning the 60 yard backstroke and swimming on the winning 120 yard freestyle relay squad.
