

Booters Blank Foreigners, 5-0

By TOM SAYLOR

With five different players participating in the scoring, Penn State's soccer team easily defeated a team composed of foreign students on campus, 5-0, Saturday on the baseball field.

The game was played on a muddy field and in chilly, raw weather. Captain Ron Coleman, who handled the varsity squad, used every available man, some in totally unfamiliar positions. Bill Jeffrey handled the foreign squad.

Coleman also scored the first Lion tally when he netted a shot at 10:30 of the initial period. State was held at bay for the rest of the first half, but the Nittany Lions found the range in the second half for four tallies.

Up Margin

Don Shirk, who opened at center forward, gave State a 2-0 lead when he sent one into the net at 7:10 of third quarter. Inside rightman Ellis Kocher also scored in this period with a shot just as the whistle sounded.

State upped its margin to 5-0 in the last stanza on goals by Hap Irvin and Paul Dierks. Irvin scored at 2:50 and Dierks' followed ten minutes later.

For the losers, goalie Rustam Roy, who serves on the College faculty as a research associate in geological chemistry, was outstanding, making a dozen saves to keep the score down. Center forward Joe Mijares also starred for the foreign club.

Still Unbeaten

Penn State's next opponent will be North Carolina, here, Saturday. The Lions defeated the Tarheels last year, 3-0, in a match played at Chapel Hill. The victory was the second over the North Carolinians, State having won in 1949, 3-2, at State College.

North Carolina's record is unblemished. The Tarheels have yet to see defeat this season, having knocked off Duke, Virginia, and North Carolina State.

Dale Samuels kicked the extra point.

Early in the second quarter, Montgomery intercepted a pass by Tony Rados and carried it to State's 24 yard line to set up the Boilermakers' second score. Brock took a pitchout from Samuels to go 21 yards for the score. Samuels again converted.

Samuels to Whitmer

Another Penn State fumble, this time by Ted Shattuck, set up the third touchdown in the same period. After Purdue had recovered on Penn State's 34 yard line, Samuels passed to Jim Whitmer on the ten, and he went the rest of the way untouched. Samuels converted for the third time.

The Boilermakers' last score came on another Samuels to Whitmer pass in the third quarter. Samuels made it a perfect day by converting his fourth straight placement to give Purdue a 28-0 edge.

Holcombs' reserves pushed over two more scores in the final period, but both were nullified by penalties.

Gridders Hit .600 In Football Contest

The football team moved over the .600 percentage mark for the first time this year in the Daily Collegian's football predictions contest, and cut down the sports-writers' lead. The gridders' average is now .611 while the sports-writers have a combined .645 average.

Quarterback Tony Rados, the football team's representative last week, selected nine winners and missed four to up the gridders' average. Two contests ended in a tie and were not counted in the total.

Sports editor Ernie Moore led the forecasters with a 10-3 slate and took the individual lead with a .663 percentage for the year. Bob Vosburg and Dave Colton, assistant sports editors, tied with 7-6.

What a structure! Speaking of structures, Vic's Hot Fudge Sundae is a work of art. Vic heaps two scoops of vanilla ice cream into a large sundae dish. With a heavy hand, he drips smooth hot fudge sauce over the ice cream until the sundae is fit for a king—or any student who appreciates the sweeter things of life.

Vic takes pride in his sundaes—they're the best in town. Come in and enjoy a hot fudge sundae soon.
