

Blood Campaign Cut As Donations Rise

IFC to Get Workshop Suggestions

The need for improved public relations and the advisability of having permanent committees on the Interfraternity Council to represent the eight areas of fraternity activity were the main underlying recommendations to come out of the second annual IFC Workshop held last week.

During the program, eight groups met to discuss fraternity problems and to adopt useful recommendations to the IFC based on their sessions. The eight groups covered administration, rushing, pledge training, finances, scholarship, house maintenance, social, and public relations.

Among the chief recommendations to be made to the IFC are:

1. That the IFC sponsor more exchange dinners between fraternities and fraternity officers.
2. That a clear copy of IFC rules and regulations be prepared.
3. That an emphatic year-round informational program concerning Penn State fraternities and the fraternity system be initiated.
4. That civic projects by fraternities not be placed on a compulsory basis by the IFC.
5. That the week of work and activity held at the end of pledge-ship be conducted at the same time by all fraternities.
6. That all efforts be made to begin cooperative buying.
7. That closed social events may be in order for Penn State fraternities.

Seven Women Given Awards In Home Ec

Seven women in home economics received awards presented at a special meeting of the Home Economics Student Council last night.

Joanne Straley received the Borden Home Economics award of $300. This award is made to a senior who has achieved the highest average grade and has included two or more food and nutrition courses in her curricula.

The Ellen M. Stewart Memorial Award, made to a senior woman from Centre County who has shown general excellence in home economics, was presented to Robin Brunner.

The State Federation of Pennsylvania Women Award, a scholarship of $100, was presented to Nancy Ferguson, Dorothy Fabian and Vivian Harten. They were selected by the federation after consultation with the Dean of Women and the Dean of the School of Home Economics.

Peggy Crooks and Martha Learn received the Kroger Scholarships of $200 each. The scholarships are given by the Kroger Co. to two students who have been enrolled in the school for at least one year and have good scholastic standings.

WINDY

Blood drive officials yesterday cut their campaign drive short and added one day to the donation period because of the sudden influx in student contributions.

With over 130 pledges yesterday, the pledge total has reached 543. The drive, with a 600 pint goal, will end at 12 noon tomorrow to allow more time for scheduling. The drive previously was to end at 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Due to the large response the Red Cross bloodmobile unit will arrive at the TUB at 2 p.m. Monday and will remain on campus four days. The unit was previously to be here only three days.

Leaders were "extremely pleased" with student response and were optimistic about the drive. They were quick to point out, however, that the 600 pledge goal had not been reached yet and hoped for more than the 600 pints. They asked students to turn in all pledge forms to 112 Old Main by 12 noon tomorrow.

Individual leaders in the drive yesterday afternoon were Beaver House, 35; Delta Sigma Phi, 27; Pollock Dorm 2, 25; Sigma Pi, 23; Acacia, 21; Pollock Dorm 3, 9, and 13, 18 each; Nittany Dorm 34, 15; Pollock Dorm 8, 14; Beta Theta Pi, 13; Alpha Chi Rho, 11; Phi Kappa and Alpha Chi Sigma, 10 each; Tau Kappa Epsilon and Petroleum Engineering Society, eight each.

Students who wish to pledge blood may secure pledge forms at the Student Union desk in Old Main, TUB, women's dormitories, West Dorm main lounge, and 112 Old Main.

400 to Get Applications For 'Who's'

Forms will be sent out this week to more than 400 students whose names will appear in the 1951-1952 issue of "Who's in the News at Penn State," editor Leonard Kolasinski said yesterday.

In addition to a letter of notification, each student will receive an activities card to fill out.

The information requested includes data on fraternal organizations, honoraries, clubs, and scholastic, employment, and armed forces records.

Kolasinski said that all forms must be returned to the "Who's in the News" office, 115 Carnegie Hall, by Nov. 15.

The book, sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism honorary, and Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary, will probably be published sometime in January.

The selections committee, which met over a week ago to name those who will be listed in the book, consisted of Len Kolasinski, editor; Rosemary Delahanty, associate editor; James Worth, All-College president; Mary Jane Woodrow, W.S.G.A. president; and Donald Maurey, Athletic Association president.

The book, an annual publication, will be sent to newspapers, colleges, and universities throughout the state and will be distributed to organizations on campus as well.

Committee to Meet

The State Party publicity and promotion committee will meet at 8:15 tonight in 109 Willard Hall.

Thomas Farrell, committee chairman, said the meeting will be open to anyone interested in promotion and publicity of the party.

Sunday Shows Lose By 22 Vote Margin

By JIM GROMILLER

Sunday movies in State College were defeated in yesterday's special referendum, complete unofficial returns from all six State College divisions disclosed late last night. The vote was 1671 no, 1649 yes.

The official count by election officials will begin Friday.

Complete unofficial returns from the six divisions are as follows:

North division: 364 yes, 332 no.
West Central division: 248 yes, 305 no.
West division: 335 yes, 389 no.
South division: 297 yes, 210 no.
East division: 111 yes, 160 no.
East Central division: 294 yes, 275 no.

Last Vote in '47

The special referendum to determine the Sunday movie question brought a large turnout of voters.

Sunday movies were voted on in State College in 1947. The referendum was voted down by 85 votes.

At the time of that vote State College was divided into only three precincts and it was a 146 vote difference in the large West precinct which made the difference.

No Other Votes In

Strong advertising campaigns concerning the referendum were carried on in the last few weeks by both sides. It was the topic of sermons in several churches of the borough Sunday.

Besides the special movie referendum of special interest to students at the College, State College voters elected four councilmen, two school directors, an assessor, constable, justice of the peace, auditor and precinct leaders. Votes in these races were unavailable when the Daily Collegian went to press.

Officials in reporting a heavy vote said that many voters were forced to stand in line as the 8 p.m. closing time approached.

A special referendum on the Sunday movie question was also voted upon in College Township and unofficial returns showed that it met defeat there also. The unofficial vote was 296 no, 260 yes, with 47 spoiled ballots.

Students Will Attend ARW Rites

James Worth, All-College president, and Stan Wengert, president of the Interfraternity Council, will represent the College at the funeral of the late Arthur R. Warnock, dean of men emeritus, who died Sunday.

The Warnock family left last night by rail with the ex-dean's body for Petersburg, Ill., where funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon. Worth and Wengert will leave by plane from Pittsburgh this afternoon and will return Friday.

Fraternity flags flew at half-staff yesterday in memory of the late dean who was active in the fraternity field. Wengert said the flags will remain at half-staff for the remainder of the week.

In a prepared statement, Worth said yesterday, "Arthur R. Warnock, although not a Penn Stater, served the College long and well in his 30 years as dean of men. He was loved and admired by all who knew him and worked with him.

"As a moving force behind Penn State's student government, he lived to see it grow and become one of the strongest in the nation. Although much of his activity was with fraternity men, all of Penn State profited from his presence.

"His legend, a legend which grew when he was still alive, will become a cherished part of Penn State's tradition. It is a legend of service to the College and to his fellow men."

Wengert's statement read: "Penn State fraternity men as well as fraternity men across the nation have real reason for being." (Continued on page eight)

PSCA Council To Begin Discussion Men to Debate At 1st Tourney

Freshman council of the Penn State Christian Association will begin their fireside discussions in faculty homes at 7 tonight. The group will break into three units and meet tonight in the homes of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Anderson, Dr. and Mrs. Francis Doan and Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Cook.

Freshman council will also hold a cabin party at Watts Lodge Saturday night and Sunday. The group will leave from Old Main after the football game. Freshmen desiring to go may register in the PSCA office by paying a 50 cent deposit.

The Rev. Robert Eads and R. J. Garber, director of the U. S. regional pasture research laboratory at the College, will lead the weekly science and religion discussion at the PSCA upperclass round table at 8 tonight in 304 Old Main.

$100 Damage Caused By Fire at Windcrest

A fire, caused by a defective supply line into an oil burner of a Windcrest trailer occupied by the Melvin Witmer family, resulted in about $100 damage. The fire was discovered at 7:15 a.m. yesterday.

Although the fire was confined to the bottom of the trailer, some damage was done inside by smoke and a fire extinguisher. Alpha firemen answered the alarm. Through a mixup, instead of the all clear sounding when the fire was out, another alarm was sounded.

Chest Drive Has $3500 Of Quota

Campus Chest officials yesterday reported returns of only $3500 with four days remaining in the two-week drive for $12,000.

Murray Goldman, solicitation chairman, said he felt the slowness of returns is to be blamed on solicitors. Less than half of 350 solicitors have made any report to date, he said, and the drive is almost ended.

Goldman said student contributions seemed normal, but that lack of reports accounted for the small income. He urged solicitors to "get about their jobs because the drive is drawing to an end."

Chi Phi has reported 150 percent pledges to the drive, Goldman said. Percentage is figured on the basis of the individual $2 pledge. He said the 150 percent was possible because many men had pledged $5, and not all returns from the fraternity are in. Drive solicitor is Samuel Nowell.

One hundred percent contributions have been reported from Elm, Spruce, and Hemlock Cottages, third floor west of Women's Building, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Students may either pledge to the drive and have the pledge added to second semester fees, or give cash. Goldman asked solicitors to strive for the $2 individual goal.

Chest benefits were discussed by Goldman, William Klisanin, and Milton Bernstein, over radio station WMAJ last night.

Meeting Postponed

Because of the death of Dean of Men Emeritus Arthur R. Warnock, All-College Cabinet has postponed its meeting scheduled for Thursday night.

Tribunal Fines Four Violators

Tribunal heard seven traffic violation cases last night and meted out four $1 fines and three suspended fines of $1.

All of the cases involved either driving on Pollock Road during class hours, double parking, or parking in restricted areas.

David Mutchler, Tribunal chairman, reminded students that the only legal parking areas are the West Dorm area, which is behind Alpha Zeta, Sigma Nu, and Sigma Chi fraternities; the west Hort Woods' parking area, the Pollock parking area in front of Dorm 13, the new area behind Agricultural Engineering, the new area east of Hort woods, and behind the fertility plots.

Mutchler also cautioned two students about parking in service drives.

Double parking was the most serious violation as three students were fined and one received a suspended fine.

All Tribunal members were asked to meet at the Penn State Photo Shop at 8 tonight for their LaVie picture
