

Anders Returns at Fullback For Syracuse Tilt Saturday

Leonard to See Limited Action This Week

Penn State's hopes to get back in the win column when the Lion football team meets Syracuse Saturday on Beaver Field took on a brighter hue yesterday when it was learned that fullback Paul Anders would be back in action against the Orange.

The 200 pound linebuster hasn't seen game action since the Nebraska contest when he injured his ribs. But in Tuesday night's scrimmage his running was impressive, and he will probably get the starting fullback assignment Saturday.

Still a Question
Halfback Bill Leonard, who was also on the injured list the past two ball games, will probably return for limited action. He is slated to do the kicking for the Lions, but probably won't play at his regular defensive halfback spot.

Tackle Bill Hockersmith and fullback Matt Yanosich, who were injured in the Purdue contest, have both scrimmaged this week, and will probably be ready for Syracuse. Whether Don Eyer, who was the Lions' outstanding defensive player against the Boiler-makers, will be ready is still a question. Eyer suffered a sprain in his shoulder at Purdue, and there is a possibility that he may not play Saturday against the Orange.

Combination Attack
Anders' return to the offensive lineup might give the Lions the scoring punch which they have been lacking in the last two contests. Matt Yanosich, who played the fullback spot while Anders was out, did a better than average job for Coach Rip Engle's team, but the Lions missed Anders' power drives into the line.

Engle sent the State gridders through a short defensive scrimmage yesterday in preparation for Syracuse's combination wing-T, double-wing attack.

The Orange's success with the double-wing against Fordham two weeks ago has the Nittany Lion coaching staff guessing.

Even Record
"We don't know what to prepare for," said Engle. Syracuse has shown an inclination toward the double-wing but we have to prepare for both. They've had a two week layoff, and we don't know what to expect."

Syracuse will go into Saturday's game with a three won, three lost record. The Orange gridders have beaten Temple (19-0), Lafayette (46-0), and Fordham (33-20). Coach Ben Schwartzwalder's team has lost to Cornell (21-14), Illinois (41-20), and Dartmouth (14-0). Syracuse did not play last week.

Penn State and Syracuse have met on the gridiron 28 times, dating from 1922. The Lions hold the edge in the series, having won 12, lost 11, and tied five.

Name Training Rooms

Penn State's new training rooms at Beaver Field have been named in honor of Trainer John L. "Jack" Hulme, who died in 1946. Bronze plaques already have been placed, and dedicatory exercises will be held early in 1952.

Tarheels May Find Booters Stronger

With the possible insertion of Jack Pinezich into the regular lineup at inside right, Penn State's soccer team will be at full strength against North Carolina for the first time since the Bucknell match.

Pinezich wrenched his back in the Lion opener against the Bisons and has not been physically right since. The burly freshman started the next contest against Army, but that only served to aggravate the injury.

In State's next three games with Navy, Maryland, and Colgate, Pinezich played only in the middle game at Annapolis, where he saw some duty at inside right as well as center forward.

Should Pinezich be ready for the Tarheels, Coach Bill Jeffrey might switch two other front line positions.

Switch in Lineup

Ellis Kocher would move from inside right to left wing where he and Charlie Snyder would alternate. If this is the case, Kocher will probably receive the nod over Snyder for a starting berth.

The other modification in the starting eleven would probably send Don Shirk in the center forward slot to replace Hap Irvin. Against Colgate two weeks ago, Shirk turned the tide for the Nittany Lions by virtue of goals in the third and fourth periods.

Outside of those changes, State will use the same men who won over Colgate.

Halfback Spots

Handling the other two posts up front will be Captain Ron Coleman, who leads the team in scoring with four goals, at inside and Bill Norcik, outside right.

The halfback slots will be manned by Frank Follmer, right; Kurt Klaus, center; and Jack Charlton, left. Paul Dierks and Jay Simmons will take care of the fullback positions, with Dierks opening on the right side and Simmons on the left.

State's backfield is looking better every game and it will be given another severe test Saturday when the Carolinians come to town.

Holding down the goal tending duties will be either Bob Harris or Jack Krumrine. Harris opened against Colgate.

Betas, Sigma Chi Mermen Win Again

Delta Upsilon's swimmers lost a tough one last night when their anchorman left the wall in the 120 yard freestyle before the touch judge started him off. Thus, Sigma Chi, last season's champs, was awarded a hard-fought 23½-17½ quarter-final triumph over their rivals at Glennland pool.

Beta Theta Pi successfully broke Delta Sigma Phi's four match winning skein in the other fray. The two winners will oppose each other in tonight's semifinals.

With Sigma Chi leading 18½-17½ going into the 120 yard relay event, DU's team of Bob Decker, Jerry Maurey, Bud Nicholson, and George White stroked to victory, but the disqualification reversed the score, and Sigma Chi, as a result, entered the semifinals.

Maurey, DU sprinter, pulled ahead in the final few yards to win the 60 yard freestyle race with a 35.9 clocking. The DUs also captured the next event (60 yard backstroke), but lost the breaststroke. Maurey came back to take the diving, and then the freak incident occurred.

After winning four consecutive matches in a row, Delta Sigma Phi's aquamen were defeated 23-17 by Beta Theta Pi. The victors were forced into the final event on their card before their 120 yard freestyle relay team of Al Helffrich, Ray Seever, George Lynch, and John Cronstedt gave them the necessary points to win. This foursome stroked a fast 1:02.5 timing in accomplishing their feat.

Delta Sig started off in fashionable style when sprinter Ned Shields swam a 33.9 race in the 60 yard freestyle event. Then the Betas retorted when Lynch got off to a fast start, winning the 60 yard backstroke race in 45.3 seconds.

Gratson Has Fun 'Hitting Other Guys'

By BOB SCHOELLKOPF

"Hit the other guy, that's what's fun," says Penn State's ace lineman, Joe Gratson in summing up the way a bruising linebacker feels about the game of football.

As practically anyone who has seen Penn State's grid team in action this year can tell you, Joe rates with the best in backing up the forward wall. Time after time he has prevented enemy touchdowns with his diving tackles.

Hits 'Em Hard

JOE GRATSON

Wants to be Pro
Gratson, who packs his 210 pounds on a five foot, 11 inch frame, is a junior in Physical Education.

Joe has definite ideas about his future. After he is graduated, he "would be very much interested" in a pro football career, if a suitable offer were made to him. When his playing days are over, he intends to do some football coaching.

Also a fine baseball player, Joe has had many major league offers, but has turned them down in favor of going to college. If he fails to land a pro football contract, he will play professional baseball.

Biggest Thrill

Formerly a quarterback on the Dunbar Township High School grid team, Joe acted on the advice of Penn State's football coaches when he switched to center last spring. He also believes that a lineman has a better chance to crack pro football. He has found little difficulty in making the turnover since he did some linebacking in high school.

Incidentally, Joe was a fine signal-caller in high school and relates his most thrilling moment on the gridiron in the role of a quarterback.

"I'll never forget that time," Joe said. "It was the last game of the season against our natural rivals, Connellsville High School, and the score was tied, 7-7 in the last period. I scored the winning touchdown on a quarterback sneak."

Worked in Mines

"The fans and players rushed up to me after the game and carried me off the field. It was really a wonderful experience."

After he was graduated from high school in 1948, he went to work in the coal mines near Connellsville for a year. Here he added considerable poundage and strength which has been a big factor in his success as a lineman at Penn State.

PIAA X-Country Meet Saturday

Thirty-four hopeful high school runners representing 15 schools and eight districts will compete in the annual PIAA cross-country championships on the College course Saturday morning. The race will be two and one-eighth miles, the usual high school distance.

Mt. Lebanon, Pittsburgh, will defend its team championship but a new individual champion will be crowned to succeed the 1950 titlist, Clyde Lowthert, of Pottsville. Top contenders for the individual crown are Bob Cherry, Mt. Lebanon; Dave Freas and Don Prough, Altoona; Don Barth, Reading; and George Ulrich, Haverford.

Seek First Win

Syracuse, a 27-7 winner over Penn State a year ago, scored its last previous win over the Nittany Lions in 1937. When the two teams meet here Saturday, the Orange will be seeking its first win since 1934 on Beaver Field.
