

Bloodmobile Here, Can Handle 768

A Red Cross bloodmobile unit is at the TUB this week securing donations from 956 students who pledged to Penn State's second blood drive. The drive began Oct. 18 and ended last Thursday.

The Red Cross unit, which arrived here yesterday, will remain on campus until Thursday. Drive officials said the unit will be able to handle only the 768 students who have already been scheduled to donate. Attempts are being made to work out an agreement to secure the unit for an additional period to handle the overflow of pledges.

The unit operates from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. each day. Student donors are given a complete physical examination before donating and receive refreshments following the donation.

Officials said that students who are effected should present their appointment card to either the Dean of Men or Dean of Women to secure a legal excuse from classes on the day of donation.

The drive, conducted by an All-College Cabinet committee, originally set its goal at 400 pledges. The goal was raised to 600 when pledges began to increase, and was finally fixed at 800 two days before the drive's end. Pledges topped the goal by 156.

Debate Team Ties 4th In Tourney

The men's debate team started off its season with a fourth-place tie with four other schools in the University of Vermont's annual forensic tournament last week end.

The team won six out of ten debates, sharing fourth place with Army, New York University, Georgetown University, and the University of Vermont.

The affirmative team of David Lewis and Robert Alderdice won four and lost one debate. They scored victories over the University of Vermont, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Suffolk College and Wagner College, and lost to Colgate University.

Clair George and Mark Ungar, the College's negative team, won over the University of Rochester and Wesleyan. They lost to Navy, Bates College and Union College.

Bates College took first place in the tournament, and Dartmouth and Wesleyan were second. Boston University, Colgate University and Syracuse University tied for third place.

The topic was this year's national intercollegiate debate question, Resolved: That the United States should adopt a permanent program of wage and price control.

Prof. J. F. O'Brien, coach of the men's team, accompanied them.

Over 45 colleges along the eastern coast from Virginia to Maine were represented.

Checking Blood Donor

DAVID GIRARD gets his preliminary check from nurse, Mrs. H. O. Rasmussen, before giving his blood donation.

Blood Donors Wait, But Glad to Give

Donors waiting to give blood for the current drive joked, read books, or watched the nurses suspiciously. Some of them had given blood two or three times before but for many it was the first time.

Bob Lambert, who has donated blood three times previously, said he was used to needles. He said he was giving blood because it was needed. Jeanne Stuffle, a stenographer in the Botany department, said that she was hungry but not nervous. Anne Robinson, who was giving for the first time, said she wasn't nervous but that she hoped they would hurry up.

Ernst Famous, Warren Dodge, and Steve Pourk, all giving for the first time, admitted being a little nervous. Steele Howard, a veteran of six donations, was not worried about the needle.

As the donors filed into the room, they were registered and then they filled out a questionnaire telling their age, and whether they had given blood before.

Each donor was weighed, and his temperature and pulse were taken. Then he was given a glass of orange juice.

At the next table, his blood pressure and hemoglobin count were taken and he answered questions for a short case history. (Continued on page eight)

Renshaw Talk Will Highlight PSCA Forum

Bill Renshaw, a '50 graduate of the College, who just returned from an 18-month stay in Europe, will talk at the Penn State Christian Association forum at 7:30 tonight.

Renshaw worked with the World's YMCA and the International Refugee Organization in Hamburg, Germany, with displaced persons and refugees. These two organizations have resettled about one million people since 1947, according to Renshaw.

Despite this figure, he said, "most people in this country don't realize that there are still 9,000,000 uprooted people in Western Germany—20 percent of the population." The dangerous potentialities among these people is a real threat to peace, he said, since they are open to any radicalism, excluding communism, which would alleviate their present miserable circumstances.

Renshaw explained that most of these displaced people are of German origin, who have been uprooted from communist-dominated countries since the end of World War II. Many are resettled in other countries, he said, but some prefer to stay in Germany, to wait for some sort of settlement whereby they could return to their own countries.

Trapp Family Will Present Boy Soprano

A new member will join the Trapp Family Singers when they perform here Friday in Schwab Auditorium for the Community Concert Series.

Johannes Trapp, 11, who is performing professional duties for the first time, is the new and only American-born member of the group.

The young singer possesses a soprano voice, but is better known for his solos on the recorder, the ancient block flute which the Trapps are restoring to popularity.

This is the 12th in a series of tours in which the Trapp family has averaged a hundred concerts in a season.

The Trapp family turned its hobby of group singing into a business when they left Austria in rebellion against Hitler. They are under the direction of Dr. Franz Wasner who also sings bass with the group.

Other members are first sopranos, Eleonore and Johannes; second sopranos, Agathe and Maria; tenor, Werner; first contralto, Hedwig; and second contralto, Maria Augusta, who is mother of the six children.

The family will appear in peasant costume for some of the folk songs, but will wear black and white when they perform the sacred music scheduled.

President to Talk At Texas Meeting

President Milton S. Eisenhower and seven faculty and staff members will take part in a meeting of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities tonight.

President Eisenhower will speak to the agricultural division of the association, now in session in Houston, Texas. His subject will be "Land-Grant Colleges, USDA, and Farmer Relationships."

As an active member of the association, President Eisenhower has served on the executive committee since 1944 and was chairman of that committee in 1946.

Lion and State Parties Reveal Election Issues

Both the Lion and State Parties issued six-point platforms yesterday for the Thursday freshman and sophomore class elections, it was announced by Carroll Chapman, All-College elections committee chairman.

Candidates for the three positions in each class began campaigning yesterday. They will continue until tomorrow night. Elections will be held from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. in the second floor lounge in Old Main.

Both parties propose in their platforms to improve and strengthen freshman customs. Other than this point, the platforms differ.

Food Committees

The Lion Party proposes a permanent food committee to investigate student complaints in the dining halls, increasing student interest in student government by use of non-partisan informative sessions with campus politicians, to combine student council and class elections simultaneously, and to form a sophomore hat society for other than students in athletics.

The State Party proposes to increase the use of vacant class rooms for study purposes, to work for the establishment of a School of Business and the subsequent removal of language requirements for that school, to obtain better Collegian circulation, and to eliminate blue books from "big weekends" and the Monday that follows. They also propose to investigate the possibility of co-education dining in the West Dorm dining halls.

Freshman Candidates

Candidates running for office are: for freshman president, David Lewis (S) and Robert Smoot (L); vice president, Barry Kay (S) and John Apgar (L); secretary treasurer, Phoebe Powell (S) and Dorothy Ebert (L).

Posters made their appearance yesterday and candidates began making their rounds of the living units. Candidates from both parties were driven around Beaver Field at halftime of the Syracuse football game Saturday. It was the first and last parade to be held in the present election campaigns.

Phys Ed, MI Councils Name New Members

The Physical Education and Mineral Industry Councils' representatives were appointed and elected, respectively, yesterday. Both held off the elections for two weeks because of the few nominations and ballots cast.

Seventy-five percent of the Mineral Industry votes were cast in a special election held in Dean Steidle's lecture class as Richard Tagland and Roy Brunjes were elected to the council.

The first semester freshmen will hold their offices for four years. The next council meeting will be held in two weeks, Millard Rehburg, president of the MI Council, said.

Patricia Gilbert and James Gardy, were appointed by the Phys Ed. Council, William Mihalich, president of the council, said.

The council also appointed Robert Hosterman, a sophomore, to the council to fill a vacancy caused when a sophomore representative left school.

The appointments were made instead of having elections, Mihalich said, because of the lack of interest in voting by the Phys Ed. students.

$6800 Total Reported in Chest Drive

Campus Chest leaders yesterday reported a $6800 drive total and expressed optimism on progress during its extended period of solicitation. The campaign, which was to end Saturday, has been extended until next Tuesday.

Murray Goldman, solicitation chairman, said solicitations were "picking up." Chest income Saturday was $200 and totaled $700 yesterday.

Some solicitors have still not made their first reports, Goldman added. He urged solicitors to turn in reports to 304 Old Main immediately so a "running account may be kept on drive progress."

New steps in the solicitation program will be introduced later this week, he said. The drive deadline is 5:30 p. m. next Tuesday.

The chest goal this year is $12,000. Members of the faculty and staff are being solicited this week to contribute to either the Penn State Christian Association or World Student Service Fund. Both are benefactors of the student drive.

The seven other groups that will benefit from the campaign are Scholargram program, Salvation Army, March of Dimes, Heart Fund, Leo Houck Cancer Fund, Women's Student Government Association Christmas Fund.

Solicitors are striving for individual goals of $2. Students may either pledge and have that amount added to their second semester fees, or give cash.

Hannah to Speak At Faculty-Trustee Banquet Friday

Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State College, will be the speaker at the annual faculty-trustee dinner Friday night at the Nittany Lion Inn.

All members of the faculty are invited to attend the dinner sponsored by the Penn State chapter of the American Association of University Professors. Tickets, priced at $2.40, may be obtained at the Student Union office or from individual solicitors.

President Milton S. Eisenhower will introduce Dr. Hannah, who will speak on the "Responsibility of a Land-Grant College for General Education." Dr. M. Nelson McGeary, professor of political science, will preside at the dinner.

Dr. Hummel Fishburn, professor of music and Frank Cullo, associate professor of music, will be responsible for the music at the dinner.

LaVie Pictures

Students scheduled to have their LaVie personalities pictures taken tonight have been re-scheduled for tomorrow night at the same time. James Geffert, LaVie editor, announced yesterday.
