

Engagements

Tarlow-Kamens

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kamens of Philadelphia have announced the engagement of their daughter, Gloria, to Alfred Tarlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Tarlow, also of Philadelphia.

Miss Kamens is a medical technician at St. Luke's Hospital in Philadelphia.

Mr. Tarlow is a senior in commerce and finance, and a member of Pi Lambda Phi.

Norris-Rife

Mr. and Mrs. James Rife of Bethlehem have announced the engagement of their daughter, Joyce, to Harold Norris of Somerville, N.J., son of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Norris of Olanta.

Miss Rife, a senior in secondary education, is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta. Mr. Norris, who was graduated from the College in June, is employed by the Calco chemical division of the American Cyanamide Corporation. He is a member of Pi Kappa Phi.

Kline-Goldstein

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goldstein of Wilkes-Barre have announced the engagement of their daughter, Roby, to George Kline of Philadelphia.

Mr. Kline is a member of Zeta Beta Tau and is a graduate of the class of 1951. He was the recipient of a fellowship and is now doing graduate work in Ag-Bio-Chem at the University of Pennsylvania.

WRA Names IM Standings

At the completion of half of the WRA intramural schedule, Intramural Chairman Mabel Marple has announced the standings of the teams.

In table tennis, Women's Building and McElwain are tied in League I; in League II Simmons and Thompson B lead; Ath East is leading in League III; and in League IV Kappa Kappa Gamma is ahead.

Sharing honors for League V are Sigma Delta Tau and Alpha Chi Omega; Alpha Xi Delta is ahead in League VI; League VII shows Delta Zeta on top; and Alpha Omicron Pi has the honors for League VIII.

Basketball results show McAllister out in front in League I; Leonides first in League II, Kappa Delta and Zeta Tau Alpha tied in League III; and Gamma Phi Beta at the top in League IV.

Simmons heads the list in League V; Kappa Kappa Gamma leads League VI; Alpha Gamma Delta is first for League VII; and Theta Phi Alpha holds top position for League VIII.

University Women To Give Scholarship

The Penn State chapter of the American Association of University Women will give a yearly scholarship to a woman doing graduate work at the College.

The money for the scholarship, which will vary from $100 to $200, is received from the sale of playing cards and calendars.

Three-Time Winner

NANCY McCLAIN, president of Mortar Board, senior women's activity honorary, presents two Mardi Gras trophy cups to Jane Morton, president of Alpha Omicron Pi. The sorority will retain possession of the larger trophy for the coming year, and was awarded permanent possession of the smaller trophy for having taken in the greatest number of tickets at the annual Mardi Gras for three consecutive years.

Horses, Gems Vie For Notice at Show

Diamonds are a girl's best friend, so said a popular song hit of a couple of years back. And what does the typical coed say to the newly-engaged girl? "Oh, your ring is just simply gorgeous." Then she goes back to her boy friend and raves about the size of the diamond that Joe gave Sally.

Diamonds have a tendency to compete with other luxuries.

At New York's 63rd National Horse Shoe last week, the most outstanding competition the horses faced was that offered by jewel-bedecked women. The affair brought out the elite of society, and drew representatives from the fashion and film worlds. The jewelry industry's story covering the event told of how the ladies' jewels, furs, and attire outshone the red ribbons won by horses.

Diamonds and Sapphire
The wife of the mayor of New York City, Vincent Impellitteri, wore jewels rarely seen by the ordinary person. Her large opal pendant set with diamonds and suspended from a platinum chain, and matching drop earrings made of long opals punctuated with diamonds, added to her striking appearance. Of course, no one failed to notice her furs of silver blue mink.

The audience was also impressed, so they say, by an extraordinary diamond and sapphire necklace worn by a prominent socialite. The necklace, similar to one of Princess Elizabeth's favorites, fits fairly high around the neck and has a wide pendant center holding a large sapphire. She wore matching diamond and sapphire earrings of silver dollar proportions.

The wife of a theater magnate caused a considerable stir with her diamond jewelry. Along with a necklace with a double strand of large baguette diamonds, she wore earrings with a shower of diamond drops made of baguettes and pear-shaped stones.

Make Impressions
These and many others caused the audience to give out with "ohs" and "ahs." Yes, people actually agree with the song, "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend." And why is this so? Maybe it's because they shine and have a tendency to catch the eye. Or is it the thought that diamonds indicate wealth?

Second Half Of Slate Begins In WRA IM

Atherton West, McAllister, and Leonides won basketball games last night as the WRA intramural schedule began its second half of competition.

Atherton East found the West a powerful opponent and dropped a 32-5 contest. For the victors, Gert Hooper and Harriet Freeze were the top scoring duo with 14 and 12 tallies respectively. McAllister overwhelmed the Co-op in a 33-6 win. The leading scorer for the winning sextet was Jo Graves with a total of 12.

Leonides mastered McElwain in a 39-6 game. Betty Gleim took her team and also the evening high with 22 points. The remaining contest found Town forfeiting to Women's Building.

Thompson C took Thompson B in the first of the table tennis matches. Ath West overcame Ath East, and Alpha Gamma Delta won over McAllister. Forfeits were recorded in favor of Women's Building, McElwain, and Simmons.

Penn State Grad Plays Saxophone At Junior Prom

By DOT BENNETT

All eyes were on Freddy Martin at the Junior Prom Friday night, and on Nancy Bailey, Miss Junior Class, and her four attendants. Few people knew that back among the saxophone players in Freddy Martin's orchestra was Johnny Setar, a former Penn State student.

Since his graduation from the College in 1945, Setar has been playing with various bands, among them Henry Bussy's and Buddy Morrow's. He has been with Freddy Martin for three years, following an audition in San Francisco.

Although he majored in chemistry, Setar, a member of Skull and Bones, senior men's hat society, has always been interested in music. While at Penn State he was president of both the Blue Band and the College Symphony, and was a member of Thespians. He also played in bands in Boalsburg and Phillipsburg.

A member of Delta Chi, Johnny had been on campus only once prior to Friday since he was graduated. He said he rode around in a taxi and found the College "so built up, I can't believe it."

When asked about plans for the future, Johnny, who is unmarried, said, "It's a toss-up. What comes, I'll take."
