

Chest Officials Report Total of $7745 to Date

Campus Chest officials yesterday reported $7745.71 total income to date and said they were pleased with the way the solicitations were improving.

"I'm happy to see that the drive is picking up, but it is not yet what it should be," Murray Goldman, solicitation chairman, said. The drive, with a $12,000 goal, closes at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Goldman said some of the 350 solicitors have not yet reported any returns. He urged fast reports so a running account may be kept on chest progress. The drive was to end last Saturday but was extended when officials felt it would not near the goal.

The latest official breakdown on contribution figures shows dormitory men, $2397.37; fraternities, $1537.61; town men, $836.80; dormitory women, $2,640.62; town women, $223.81; and cottages, $109.50.

Nittany Dorm 25 has pledged 100 percent to the drive. Joseph Patterson is solicitor. The highest individual pledge, which was given by a freshman woman, is $15.

Goldman said there was some feeling among town students that since they have been solicited by the State College Community Fund, benefit should not be included in the Campus Chest. He said the community funds received only a one percent token from drive funds.

The nine groups benefiting in the chest drive, which is conducted to reduce the number of solicitation drives on campus, are Penn State Christian Association, World Student Service Fund, Scholaram program, Salvation Army, Leo Houck Cancer Fund, March of Dimes, Women's Student Government Association Christmas Fund, Heart Fund, and State College Community Fund.

Johnston To Address Forum Here

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston, originally scheduled to appear here last year, will speak on "The Price of Living in a Democracy" at the second Community Forum program Nov. 28. A limited number of single tickets will be sold for $1.50 on the day of the address.

Johnston took a nine-month leave of absence from the presidency of the Motion Picture Association last January, after President Truman appointed him to the Economic Stabilization Board. At that time he told the forum committee that it would be impossible for him to present his topic on the scheduled date.

A graduate of the University of Washington, Johnston served as a captain in the Marines during World War I. By 1930 he had built four businesses of his own in the Pacific Northwest.

He entered politics in 1940, running for United States senator from Washington on the Republican ticket. Two years later the U. S. Chamber of Commerce elected him its president, the youngest in history.

During the war he served on the Economic Development Commission and the War Manpower Commission. In recognition of his nationwide labor-management cooperation program he was awarded the Medal of Merit in 1947.

He is a member of the Illuminating Engineering Society and Theta Delta Chi.

Blue Band Practices In Mud, Darkness

By LU MARTIN

Have you been hearing "Fight on State" in your sleep lately? Well, the Blue Band doesn't mean to horn in on your dreams, but it's been practicing extra hard for the Rutgers and Pitt games.

Regular band practice is from 5:10 to 6 p.m., but since it is dark by then, band members haven't been able to read their music, or follow the yard lines for their intricate formations. So the band has been working out under the lights at Beaver Field from 9 to 11 p.m.

Mud, Yet

When asked how the band members managed to maneuver in the mud Wednesday night, James W. Dunlop, director of the band said, "It was quite muddy after the rain, but the boys anticipated it and dressed for it." The "boys" comprise a 96-man outfit, plus a drum major and two alternate musicians.

The band leaves for Newark today at 11:15 a.m., following a practice session. Besides playing at the Rutgers game tomorrow afternoon, the band will perform at an outdoor concert and Penn State Smoker at the Newark Athletic Club tonight.

According to Dunlop, special routines have been worked out for the weekend, to center around "music."

Pitt Plans

Dunlop also revealed plans for an elaborate series of routines for Thanksgiving, at the Pitt game next weekend.

At pre-game festivities, the band will spell out "Pitt" in script while playing "Hail to Pitt." Half-time maneuvers will include a pilgrim's hat during playing of the "Pilgrim's Chorus," a turkey on a platter to the tune of "Over the River and Through the Woods," an outline of a church during "A Prayer of Thanksgiving," and a huge football for "Victory" which will be played in tribute to this traditional game and to signify the end of the football season.

The Blue Band's Pitt weekend activities will also include a smoker at the Hotel Roosevelt and a pre-game workout on the Wilkesburg High School Field.
