(Lion Party clique chairman) and all who worked to put over the campaign," George said.

The balloting, one of the closest races seen in campus politics, required two recounts before final results were announced. The first count for freshman class vice president showed John Apgar, Lion Party candidate, the winner by three votes. The recount made him the winner by 19.

Amole called for a recount on sophomore class president which was first listed as a 25 vote margin for Donald Herbein, Lion Party candidate. The recounted margin remained the same.

The heaviest voting took place between 1 and 3:15 p.m. This fact also contradicted the figures of last fall's elections. Last fall, balloting was heaviest during the noon hour.

The budgets of the parties, which were not to exceed $150, were submitted Thursday night before the ballot boxes were opened for counting. The Lion Party listed $116.29 and the State Party $140.90 in expenditures.

There will be a Lion Party meeting at 7 p.m. Sunday in 10 Sparks. There will be a discussion of the campaign and the election. Party candidates will speak to the group.

The nine groups receiving funds from this year's drive and the percentage of income they will receive are: Penn State Christian Association, 46 per cent; World Student Service Fund, 12 per cent; Scholargram program, eight per cent; Heart Fund, Leo Houck Cancer Fund, Women's Student Government Fund, March of Dimes, and Salvation Army, six per cent each; and State College Community Fund, one per cent.
