

Prof Hits --

(Continued from page two) have not had a cost-of-living increase in almost three years, and there are plush lounges for students but not a single club room for teachers.

Good teachers don't strike, he said, they simply leave. He cited the example of six of his friends who have left Penn State in the last year and a half "to go into industry or to colleges in other states where the legislators are not so penurious with the education budget."

Skinner called the professor "the forgotten man . . . who goes home to use his higher mathematics to figure out how to stretch his $3800 per year to cover expenses in an expensive college town for a family of five."

Although the VFW "didn't turn up any Communists at Penn State," Skinner said, "to me it is a miracle the place isn't full of them. The legislature is doing its best to breed them."

ROTC --

Adrian O. Morse, provost, said last night that details of the new development was unknown to him. He said about 85 per cent of all Army ROTC students were deferred now and indicated the action may be either to keep boards from taking those enrolled but not deferred or may be just to raise the number of deferments.

A member of the Bellefonte draft board said last night he would give no information concerning the previous deferment plan. There was a conflict in information as to whether the Army ROTC could order the boards to defer a quota of men or only recommend deferments. Indications were that the question of a 1-D classification through ROTC was involved.

Fire Victims --

(Continued from page one) knowledge, this is the first time in the history of the College that a fund has been used to aid victims of fires. He said in the years before the war two fires took place, one of which happened during the spring vacation when students were at home.

Easter Fire
The other, Clark said, happened on April 1. Students did not leave their rooms because they thought the alarm was an April Fool's joke. No students were injured however.

Clark said there were many women students rooming in the house at the time of the Easter fire at the corner of Beaver avenue and Atherton street. He said students living at the corner of Beaver and Allen street during the April 1 fire were working their way through school and were hurt greatly financially.

Phi Kappa Phi

Phi Kappa Phi, national scholastic honor society, will hold an initiation banquet 6 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 12, at the Parish House of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church. Margaret Patterson, executive secretary of Science Clubs of America, Washington, D. C., will be the speaker.

Tickets are available through the chapter president, Charles Dillio, associate professor of mechanical engineering, or a representative in each school.

COME TO CHURCH

College Chapel
Schwab Auditorium

Dec. 2, 1951

Speaker: Rev. Luther Harshbarger, Chaplain of the College
Anthem: "Emitte Spiritum Tum"—Schuetyky

Going to church is a habit. It so happens that you and I are the kind of people who always need to remind ourselves of what we believe. We need to hold up before us regularly the central affirmations of our faith. No religious conviction will be meaningful or will endure for long without such reminders.

Get into the habit of going to church every Sunday.
