

Atomic Controls Stymie Big 4

PARIS, Dec. 11—(AP)—The big four powers announced today an agreement on a 12-nation disarmament commission, but Russia and the West remained poles apart on the fundamental issue of atomic controls after 10 days of secret talks.

Soon after the four-power report was made to the United Nations political committee, the United States, Britain and France called again for a one-package plan to curb the armed might of every country.

Such a system would put flying bombs, guided missiles, atomic artillery, atomic bombs and every other weapon of destruction under balanced controls aimed at promoting and preserving peace.

Lloyd Speaks for West
British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd spoke for the West.

Lloyd rejected once more Russian proposals for an immediate ban on atomic weapons and the fixing of controls later. He said the Russians apparently want to separate atomic weapons from conventional armaments in any control scheme.

"Conventional armaments may be very terrible," Lloyd told the committee in summing up the big four talks. "Think of a great city under concentrated and continuous attack by, for example, flying bombs, or by guided missiles or other so-called conventional armaments."

Impossible to Separate
"Are not the consequences of such devastation something we wish to avoid just as much as devastation caused by atomic attack? It is impossible to separate the two problems and with our attempt to deal with the atom bomb, so we must try to deal with these other weapons."

Truce Hopes Brighten at Panmunjom

MUNSAN, Korea, Wednesday, Dec. 12—(AP)—Overall prospects of reaching a Korean armistice agreement brightened somewhat Tuesday but Communist and Allied delegates were far apart on methods of exchanging prisoners and policing the truce.

Despite obstacles, observers agreed there was some progress. The Communists seemed in a bargaining mood and the United Nations command did not appear ready to reject flatly Red proposals for truce supervision.

In Washington President Truman and his top military and political advisers were reported to have agreed on the next moves to be made in the Korean truce negotiations. New instructions, it appeared, were going out to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, U.N. commander in the Far East.

The prisoner issue hit a quick snag Tuesday. The Communists wanted a blanket exchange of all war prisoners after the armistice agreement is signed.

Anti-Red Measure Given to Gov. Fine

A bill outlawing the communist party in Pennsylvania was given to Gov. John S. Fine after winning unanimous House approval of Senate amendments, the Associated Press said yesterday.

The bill prohibits the party's receiving corporate privileges in the state, party membership, and anyone's participation in the revolutionary activities of the party advocating violent overthrow of the United States government. It also provides for a maximum jail sentence of 20 years, or a maximum fine of $10,000.

Prohibition of the filing of nomination petitions by any party whose purpose is the violent overthrow of the state or federal government, was covered by a law passed in 1941. However, it does not name the Communist party by name.

Terrorism, Fights Rock Iran Capital

TEHRAN, Iran, Dec. 11—(AP)—Opposition and government deputies fought with their fists and feet inside parliament today while a frenzied mob outside shouted for the blood of the opponents of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

Opposition deputies, making up with noise and tumult for what they seemingly lacked in votes in the 136-member Majlis (lower house), present a determined bid to force the downfall of the aging Premier, whom they accused of setting up a "reign of terror" and leading the country toward ruin and Red domination.

The disorder forced postponement of the Majlis session until afternoon, when Mossadegh was to explain a 10-day deadline the government is about to set for Iran's western oil customers to come to terms.

But the opposition raised such a hubbub that Mossadegh finally yielded to Jamal Imami, the opposition leader. In vain, Mossadegh threatened to make his speech to the crowd outside.

Ignoring the threat, Imami and three others demanded that Mossadegh resign for the national welfare. Imami called Mossadegh a dictator, an ambitious politician, a stabber and other names.

In his speech today, Mossadegh appealed to Iranians to hold out to the bitter end against the former British owners of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

3 Xmas Projects Added to List

Three additional Christmas projects were announced today by Agnes McElwee, coordinator and president of the State College Welfare Fund.

This makes a total of nine organizations holding parties for children of needy families from State College and vicinity and five groups helping needy families.

Kappa Delta Rho will entertain 19 children from four to 11 years old on Saturday, and on Sunday Tau Kappa Epsilon and Delta Gamma will hold a party for 15 four to 11 year old youngsters.

On Sunday after delivering a food basket to a Boalsburg family, Phi Gamma Delta will bring the children back to the house for dinner and then give them the presents which they need.

Any group which would like to arrange a Christmas party may contact Miss McElwee from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at College extension 2413 or after 5 p.m. at State College 4318.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 11—(AP)—Argentina's atomic research chief, Dr. Donald Richter, said today Argentina is negotiating with a "highly industrialized foreign country" for a proposed interchange of atomic energy information and materials.

U.S. Sabre Jets Battle Red MIG's

SEOUL, Wednesday, Dec. 12—(AP)—Sixty-two U.S. Sabre jets tackled 115 MIGs Tuesday and when the last shot was fired in the cold Korean skies two Red jets had been probably destroyed and two damaged.

The U.S. Fifth Air Force, assessing results from two air battles over northwest Korea, said all the Sabres returned safely.

Aground, the twilight war ended its second full week Tuesday night after one of the most quiet days of the entire Korean war. Only two small actions were reported along the whole 145-mile front.

But in the air it was a different story.

One of the battles came in the morning over Anju, 40 miles north of Pyongyang, capital of North Korea. Twenty-six Sabres tangled with 50 MIGs. One Red jet was probably destroyed.

The second and largest fight was near Sinanju in the same general area. Thirty-six Sabres took 65 MIGs. Another MIG was probably destroyed and two damaged.

That the Air Force had little to do in the way of ground support was shown by reports of the quiet that persisted along the front separating the two warring armies.

Of two light actions, one was a probe by a Red squad, possibly 14 men, northwest of the punchbowl on the Eastern front. The other, scarcely larger, was a patrol skirmish in the center.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—(AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sawyer today ordered government agencies to release about 4,000,000 pounds of critically scarce metal scrap to private industry for defense production and civilian needs.

Senators Accused Of Bribery Attempt

HARRISBURG, Dec. 11—(AP)—Sen. John J. Haluska (D-Cambria) said today two fellow Senators offered him $750 and 50 state jobs to vote for the discarded income tax proposal.

He said they were Sen. John H. Dent (Westmorland), Democratic floor leader, and Sen. M. Harvey Taylor (Dauphin), Senate President pro tempore and Republican state chairman.

Dent and Taylor denied under oath Haluska's sworn charges aired at a three-hour hearing by a special 10-man Senate Investigating committee.

Britain Asks U.S. Loan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—(AP)—Informed sources said today Britain has requested $600,000,000 in emergency economic aid from the United States—and may get $300,000,000.

These sources, who asked to remain anonymous, reported that the British request was made to the economic cooperation administration (ECA) in a series of talks here last week. Help was requested to meet the economic strains of the next six months.

It is understood that no promises were made by the ECA, but that American officials have concluded that rising prices, the cost of rearmament, and the loss of Iranian oil revenue have created a real financial crisis in the United Kingdom.

Britain has been getting no direct financial aid from the United States since Jan. 1.

There is still a Marshall Plan mission in London, however, and W. L. Batt, its chief, has arranged an appointment with Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, R. A. Butler, to continue negotiations on the aid problem. Batt, it was reported by the sources here, probably will tell Butler that $300,000,000 is the most that can be offered.

White House Nixes Float

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 11—(AP)—The White House frowned severely and the Tournament of Roses Association said an emphatic "no."

Such was the official reaction today to a proposed float depicting President Truman playing a piano against a background of mink coats and deep freezes.
