MEMBERS OF TREBLESINGERS and the men's glee club sing Christmas carols at main gate to the campus on College avenue last night. The group also visited dormitory areas and the Prexy's home.

Time Table Bill to Go To Cabinet

A resolution will be introduced to All-College Cabinet tonight which will call for professors' names being placed in the time schedules when such information is available.

Marvin Krasnansky, Daily Collegian editor, who will bring the matter before cabinet, said he believes students should be able to choose their professors as well as their courses. He said too many names were omitted from the time table this year.

Krasnansky will also report to

Blood Drive Secures 105 Pints

One hundred and five pints of blood were secured in the first day of this week's blood drive extension, Betty Snoddy, chief deputy nurse of the Red Cross unit processing donors, said yesterday.

The blood drive, which opened yesterday morning at the Reformed Church, will close this afternoon. The drive extension was necessitated to handle the overflow of pledges secured in last month's drive at the TUB.

Although 192 pledges for yesterday's operation were received, Miss Snoddy said, only 128 donors turned out. Twenty-three of these were turned down for health and other reasons, he added.

Miss Snoddy said workers were "disappointed" that 64 pledges did not keep their appointments. A higher percentage had been expected to keep their appointments, she indicated.

The Red Cross unit can handle ten donors every fifteen minutes except during the noon hour, she said, and only 150 donors have been scheduled for today's operation. The unit can handle 192 donors a day.

"Walk-in donors," between the ages of 21 and 60, may donate in today's operation at the Re-

Lawn Display Canceled Because of High Costs

No lawn display will be erected in front of Old Main this year because the cost would run well over cabinet's appropriation of $90 for that purpose, Stan Wengert, chairman of the cabinet lawn display committee, announced yesterday.

Wengert said, however, that John Goduscik, seventh semester architectural engineering student, will receive the $15 first prize for his design for the display.

Heckel Selected As New Frothy In Final Judging

David Heckel, tall gangly red-haired sophomore, was selected as Frothy last night.

Frothy is the Penn State Frothy jester who attends home sporting events and joins with the cheerleaders and the Penn State lion in promoting college spirit.

Heckel was selected from six finalists and will serve as Frothy unless he is disqualified because of physical condition. A strict physical examination is required before the official naming of Frothy.

The other five finalists who appeared last night were Ralph Breidenthal, Warren Hommas, both sophomores, and Alan Pomeroy, Kenneth McQuire, John Truxel, all freshmen.

Students Lose $4638 in Fire

The approximate total of the losses incurred by students as a result of the Gentzel Building fire is $4638, a tabulation of statements from 14 of the fire's 19 victims shows.

This figure is an aggregate total of items completely lost, and partially destroyed. It includes losses of clothing, books, and miscellaneous articles, with some allowances made for those things which can still be used.

The amount will remain indefinite until the All-College committee which will distribute the funds being collected to aid the fire victims can go over the reports and determine the losses more accurately. The big problem, according to Daniel DeMarino, assistant dean of men, will be in determining the amount of damage done to articles which were partially destroyed, but are still useable.

Stores Give Aid

The fund is being collected jointly by the Association of Independent Men, Interfraternity Council, Leonides, and Panhellenic Council. The proceeds are not all in, and the amount of aid which will be available is not known.

In addition to this fund, College Sportswear Inc. and Keeler's Bookstore have offered some aid to the students.

At the moment, it is difficult to determine the amount of aid which will be needed, DeMarino said. A number of the students have insurance, either personal or family, which may cover part of their losses, but many of them are not yet certain as to what amount, if any, they are covered for.

$1400 Covered

The total amount of coverage reported by the men so far is about $1400, but this figure may be increased or decreased when the men get the final results from their individual insurance companies.

One of the students, who believes he is covered for a substantial amount, has offered to share what ever he receives with three other victims.

The proceeds of the fund being collected should be turned into the Student Union desk in Old Main HARRISBURG, Dec. 12—(P)—A bi-partisan committee was set up in the House tonight to iron out disagreements in the long-disputed bill requiring loyalty oaths by public employes in Pennsylvania.

The committee was set up after both Republicans and Democrats failed to muster sufficient strength within their own ranks to take a unified stand on the measure. The bill, already passed by the Senate, would require anti-Communist vows by all public employes in the state, including school teachers and elected officials.

Want Proper Form

The measure originally was scheduled to go before the House for a final vote today. However, Rep. Charles C. Smith (Phila.), GOP floor leader, told the lawmakers a delay was decided to attempt to settle differences on the bill.

"We all want this bill to be in its proper form and we know by reaching such an agreement we will have a better bill," Smith told the House.

His suggestion was accepted by Rep. H. G. Andrews (Cambria) Democratic floor leader, who agreed to hold off Democratic attempts to once again amend the bill.

Backed by Veterans

The long-disputed bill has attracted more button-holing citizens to Capitol Hill during the current session than any other single measure.

It is backed by state veterans organizations and has the support of Gov. John S. Fine. Ranged against the bill are teacher groups, college instructors, and civil rights organizations.

It was amended last night to broaden court appeal rights of persons discharged for subversive activities. Andrews indicated attempts may be made to alter the amendments.

Deferment Test To Be Given

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—(P)—About 22,000 college students are expected to take the college qualification test tomorrow, to become eligible for a draft deferment if they pass it.

The number compares with a total of 339,000 who took the test last spring and summer.

The testing system was set up by Selective Service to give its local draft boards evidence of a student's ability to continue college study.

The score on the test and the student's scholastic rank in his class may be used as a guide by the draft board for an educational deferment.

The present yardsticks for deferment are a score of 70 or a ranking in the upper half of the freshman class, the upper two-thirds of the sophomore class, or the upper three-fourths of the junior class.

Draft boards are not bound to defer a man even though he meets these standards.

More than 60 per cent of those who took the test previously got better than a 70 score.

Deferment Test Scheduled Today

The fifth national student draft deferment test will be given at 8:30 a.m. today in 121 Sparks, Dr. Hugh M. Davison, in charge of testings, has announced.

Those scheduled to take today's test should have with them their notice of classification, form 110; their selective service identification card, form 391; and their test ticket of admission, Dr. Davison said.

The sixth student deferment test will be given here April 24. The application deadline for April's test will be March 10.

Clothing Is Collected For Korea

The first report from the committee conducting the Korean clothing drive indicates that town students have thus far been the most cooperative.

Approximately 75 pounds of the 153 pounds collected to date have been left at the two town collection stations. Thirty additional pounds have been left at the Penn State Christian Association office with a negligible amount at the container for the West Dorms.

The girls dormitories report 25 pounds collected; fraternities indicate 20 pounds collected to date.

Two large bags have been placed at the main entrance of the West Dorm dining hall. William Slepik, co-chairman of the drive, asked all residents of the West Dorms to put clothes in these sacks, which will be collected Saturday. Clothing may be left also at the PSCA office, 304 Old Main.

Town students should make their contributions, Slepik said, at the College Sportswear store, opposite the post office on the corner of Beaver avenue and S. Allen street.

Sacks have also been distributed to all dormitory units and fraternity houses.

The bags for the drive have been donated by the New Windsor, Md. branch of American Relief for Korea committee. Penn State students are being asked to fill 100 sacks. Only 15 percent of the relief promised Korea's 3,000,000 displaced persons by the United States for this year has been collected, and the current drives are trying to make up this deficit.

Crusade Drive Gets 16 Scrolls

The first results of the Crusade for Freedom campaign on campus have been received in the form of 16 signed scrolls from Women's Student Government Association, Harry Cover, All-College vice president, announced last night.

Cover said that there are approximately 100 signatures per scroll. He also announced that John Laubach, Association of Independent Men president, and James Wharton, Interfraternity Council vice president, had stated that they would have their results in by the end of the week.

Cover urged students to read pamphlets distributed with the scrolls at time of signing. The campaign will be over Saturday and the scrolls will be given to W. R. Young, chairman for the Crusade for Freedom campaign in State College.

State Senate Receives Fire Protection Bill

A bill has been placed before the state Senate to appropriate $10,000 to the borough of State College for fire protection to the College, the Associated Press said yesterday.

Sen. A. H. Letzler (R-Clearfield) introduced the measure.
