Cabinet Suggests Time Table Listings

By ANDY McNEILLIE

All-College Cabinet last night unanimously passed a resolution recommending that the Council of Administration require the listing of instructors in all courses in the College time table.

The motion was introduced by Marvin Krasnansky, chairman of the Board of Publications, and amended by Charles Falzone, president of the Engineering Student Council.

Early Grade Release Is Discussed

Members of the Honor Society Council of the College yesterday discussed the possibility of an earlier release of spring semester grades for the benefit of honor societies which tap on basis of scholastic average.

Dr. Agnes McElwee, president of the council, stated that grades were not released last spring until mid-April, creating a problem for honoraries which initiate in the spring.

Dr. McElwee said that a student committee of council members has been formed to investigate problems hindering an earlier release of grades. Members of the committee are John Cusack, Chemistry and Physics; Raymond Oberdick, Mineral Industries; Gifford Albright, Engineering; Lois Pulver, Education; Nancy Ferguson, Home Economics; and William Downs, Agriculture.

In a committee progress report given by Cusack and Miss Luyben, it was stated that Wilmer Kenworthy, Director of Student Affairs, and C. O. Williams, Registrar, have been contacted by the committee. Williams studied the process necessary for the calculation of grades, and decided that March 15 would be the earliest possible date for their release.

March 1 had been set by the committee as the deadline required by honoraries. Consequently, it was decided that further study should be attempted by the committee.

Clothing Drive Ends Tomorrow

About one-third of the goal for the Korean Clothing drive which ends tomorrow has been reached. William Slep, co-chairman, said last night.

Downtown men have collected 125 of the 265 pounds collected to date. Women's dormitories have collected 80 pounds and fraternities report 60 pounds.

The committee is very disappointed with the returns from dormitory men, Slep said. He added that he hoped more students will take part in the last two days of the drive.

Clothing may be left in sacks at the College Sportswear store on the corner of Beaver avenue and S. Allen street, West Dorm dining hall, Penn State Christian Association office in 304 Old Main, dormitory units, and fraternity houses.

CLOUDY AND COLD

The recommendation, if approved by the council, would require departments failing to list instructors to post those lists when they become available. This would allow schools that did not have time to submit their lists of instructors in time to be published in the timetable to list section instructors at a later date.

Falzone Amends

Falzone amended Krasnansky's resolution to allow for the listing of instructors after the publication of the time table.

Krasnansky, in making his proposal, said that 21 of 105 courses listed in the timetables named no instructors. He said he saw no reason, if 80 per cent of the courses had instructors listed, why the other 20 per cent could not do the same.

The resolution also recommended that the council require section instructors to be made known in time to be printed in the timetables "if at all possible."

In other cabinet action, Stan Wengert, chairman of the cabinet lawn decoration committee, said no displays would be erected this year because designs submitted by students would cost more than the $90 appropriation made by cabinet.

First Prize

The first prize for the lawn display went to John Godusick. Wengert said it would have cost about $160 to construct. Second prize went to Richard Gibson with Paul Kuhnle and Robert Gladys.

148 Give Blood On Final Day Of Local Drive

One hundred forty-eight students gave blood yesterday in the final day of the drive, a "great improvement" over Wednesday, according to Betty Snoddy, chief deputy nurse of the Red Cross unit processing donors.

Of the 162 students, including 49 "walk-ins," who turned out at the Reformed Church, 14 were turned down because of health reasons, she said. The majority of pledges kept their appointments, she said, and estimated that about 15 students did not show up at their scheduled hours.

One hundred five pints of blood were secured Wednesday, when 64 pledges failed to keep their appointments.

Miss Snoddy did not say exactly how many pints were donated yesterday, as half-pints were taken from some students.

The drive extension was necessary to handle the overflow of pledges secured in last month's drive at the TUB. Of the 649 pints of blood secured then, 601 pints were converted to plasma for use in Korea and other places and 48 pints were shipped to Korea as whole blood.

Service Honorary Holds Initiation For 35

Alpha Phi Omega, national service honorary, will hold an initiation banquet, tonight at 6:30 at the State College Hotel. About 35 will be initiated.

Bill Jeffrey, Penn State soccer coach, will give a short talk. President Milton S. Eisenhower will be the guest of honor.

Christmas Issue Of Froth Boasts 'Stolen' Humor

The Penn State Froth is out once more, this time with a Christmas exchange issue which boasts humor admittedly 'stolen' from leading college humor magazines published throughout the country.

Roselyn Beard, December Froth Girl of the Month, is an exception to the theme; she's an eighth semester business education senior at the College. Froth willingly takes credit for Miss Beard.

Special exchange features were taken from the Annapolis Log, Alabama's Rammer-Jammer, the Yale Record, UCLA's Scop, the Virginia Spectator, and several other humor publications. Assorted humor and cartoons throughout Froth are credited to various magazines of the same type.

Joan Hofman's Froth original, "Your Son's in the R.O.T.C.," begins on page 18 of the issue. The feature tells of the purpose and functioning of college ROTC.

Dance Band To Present First Show

Three original compositions plus nine other numbers will be presented by the All-College Concert Dance Band at its first concert 2 p.m. Sunday at the TUB.

The band consists of 18 players and two vocalists under the direction of Jack Huber, resident counselor in the Nittany-Pollock area.

The three original numbers are "The Theme," "Fudge," and "Pleasant Valley." Other songs to be played include "Where or When," "Don't Blame Me," "This Can't be Love," "The Man I Love," and "What Is This Thing Called Love."

Also "Poinciana," "White Christmas," "I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm," and "Always."

Persons helping Huber organize the band are Grant Price, James Longo, Samuel Moldovan, and James Bortolotto.

The band was organized in October through the Dean of Men's office to give its members a chance to read specially arranged music and to perform in public.

Choir to Give Xmas Programs

Chapel service at 10:55 a.m. Sunday and a candlelight program at 10:55 p.m. tomorrow will be presented by the Chapel Choir, under the direction of Willa W. Taylor, as its annual Christmas program.

Doors to Schwab Auditorium will open half an hour before the scheduled time.

The choir will be assisted by a verse speaking choir under the direction of William W. Hamilton of the Speech Department, a brass choir directed by James W. Dunlop, and a brass ensemble directed by Rex Rockwell.

Traditional and modern carols will be presented. George E. Ceiga will play the organ.

Senior Announcements

Today is the final day for seniors graduating in January to order their announcements and invitations. They may be ordered at the Student Union desk in Old Main until 5 p.m. for 10 cents each.

Charges of Subversive Activity On Campus Will Be Heard

By LEN KOLASINSKI

Specific information dealing with charges of communistic activities on the campus will be presented to the College Board of Trustees in the near future, Paul W. Beardslee, commander of the 23d district of the Department of Pennsylvania American Legion said last night. He spoke at a meeting of Nittany Post 245 in State College.

Previous attempts to get the information dealing with communistic and subversive activities on campus to proper College authorities were blocked, but that action has now been overcome, Beardslee said. He also said that the Federal Bureau of Investigation has seen some of the information concerning subversive activities on campus. However, Beardslee did not say whether the FBI is acting upon that information.

Trustees to Review Case

The information is now in a process of being indexed and catalogued and will cover the past 20 years, Beardslee said.

It will be given to a committee appointed by James Milholland, President of the board of trustees. A date for a meeting of the Legion group and the committee is being scheduled, he said.

A motion by Post No. 245 members to have the information and evidence presented by Commander Beardslee to President Eisenhower before the next meeting of the post was unanimously passed. Beardslee questioned the right of the local group to pass such a motion and maintained a stand that the information would be carried to the board of trustees as planned.

No concrete evidence of subversive activities was shown at the meeting last night. The appearance of Beardslee was requested by Edgar Benner, commander of the local post.

Beardslee did review some material which dated as far back as 1935. At that time, he pointed out, various peace groups were organized on campus which were later designated as subversive. He also said the Daily Collegian has many times in the past attacked the American Legion.

Pollock Men Polled on SU

Questionnaires concerning the Student Union fee are being distributed to residents of the Pollock dorms by two officers of the Pollock Council.

Joseph Haines, council president, and Alan Maloney, council secretary, are polling the 12 Pollock dorms in an attempt to discover the opinion of the residents on the controversial issue. The officers will be better able to represent the men in their area if they have this information, Maloney said.

The questionnaire asks, "Are you in favor of the Student Union fee?" The answers to be checked are "Yes," "Yes, if at a reduced rate," "No," "Not until construction is actually started," and "No opinion."

At present, all college students are paying $7.50 each semester for the SU.

All-College Talent Show To Be Held Feb. 22

An All-College talent show, sponsored by the Penn State Club, will be held Feb. 22 in Schwab Auditorium, according to Lewis Hoover, president.

No definite plans for the show have been formulated yet, he added.

Last year's talent show, also sponsored by the club, netted over $530 profit.

Resolutions Are Offered By Cabinet

By BOB FRASER

Three recommendations were passed by All-College Cabinet last night which will ask the Senate committee on calendar to have all holidays begin and end at noon, to continue the two-day pre-registration days free of classes, and to add one day to each semester in order that students, through cabinet, may have days off at their request.

The recommendations, added to Michael Hanek's report to Cabinet, will be presented by Hanek to the Senate committee tonight for acceptance or rejection. Hanek is a student member of the committee.

Pearl O. Weston, dean of women, said the noon vacation time would allow more time for women students to pack and leave before the 6 p.m. deadline for leaving the dormitories.

Harry Cover, All-College vice president, said such a time would practically eliminate the traffic snarls that occurred when students returned from their Thanksgiving holiday. Traveling at night also involves more danger to the students, he said.

Marilyn Williams, Women's Recreation Association president, said the two additional days added to the calendar would meet the state's regulations that state schools must be in session a certain number of days each year. She said the system of students choosing a day off each semester had been used at Kansas State University with great success. Sports championships are often celebrated by the entire student body in this way, she said.

Miss Williams said the reason we were not given a day off after Penn State's 21 to 20 victory over Pittsburgh last year was due to the required days which schools must be in session.

William Klisanin, chairman of the Campus Chest, reported that to date the drive has reached $8855.85. He said contributions were $958.83 over the amount reached last year.

Klisanin said Jordan Hall, "due

Carol Groups To Serenade

Two more caroling groups are scheduled to serenade both town and campus before Christmas vacation begins.

Players will leave Schwab Auditorium at 9 p.m. tonight and carol their way to Center Stage where they will pick up the "Tartuffe" cast and crew. They will carol until 10 p.m. and then go back to Center Stage for refreshments.

West Dorms will hold a mass carol sing for all the dormitories in their unit. The sing starts at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Hummel Fishburn, head of the Music department, and Luther Harshbarger, executive secretary of the Penn State Christian Association, announced that the annual carol sing sponsored by the Music department and PSCA will not be held this year.
