

Driving Curtailment Under Consideration

A plan that would sharply curtail student driving on campus is now under consideration by a special traffic committee composed of four faculty members and one student, Walter H. Wiegand, director of physical plant and committee chairman, said yesterday.

Wiegand said that the traffic problem on campus has always been a big one and that the situation has become worse since World War II. There are only about 2500 parking spaces on campus to accommodate approximately 4000 student and faculty cars.

No Definite Plan

The traffic committee, appointed by the administration following a general meeting of faculty and student representation several months ago, consists of Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the School of Agriculture; T. C. Kavanaugh, representing the president's advisory council; David Mutchler, chairman of Tribunal; C. G. Reen, professor of civil engineering, and Wiegand.

Wiegand said the committee was conducting a series of meetings to study the problem, adding that no definite plan has yet been decided upon. He said one proposed plan would give campus driving permissions to only the number of drivers who can be accommodated with the parking spaces now available on campus. Such a plan would prevent about 1500 drivers from driving on campus.

Areas Now Available

Regulations now in effect do not allow student driving on campus between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays, Capt. Philip Mark, campus patrol, said. Special driving permits are given to students who are physically handicapped, he added.

Mark said that under regulations now in effect students may park overnight in the west area behind campus fraternity houses, in the Hort Woods area, in the Jordan plots area, and in the Grange Hall area.

'Peg O' My Heart' Tryouts Today

Tryouts for the thesis production, "Peg o' My Heart," under the direction of Carl Wagner, will be held at 3:15 p.m. today in Schwab Auditorium.

Tryouts for the comedy, which graduate student Wagner will produce, are also listed for 3 p.m. tomorrow in the Little Theatre.

Grade Prints Will Be Delayed

The short period of time between the end of the fall semester at 5 p.m. Jan. 29 and the beginning of the spring semester at 8 a.m. Jan. 31, will make it impossible to get grade prints out before registration for the spring semester ends, C. O. Williams, registrar, announced yesterday.

Neither grade prints nor grades will be given out either to students or advisors during the registration periods, Williams said. In accordance with present procedures, faculty members have been asked to telephone failing grades to the dean of the school in which the student is enrolled. Students who are in doubt about whether they passed a course should go to their dean's office to learn if any failures have been reported.

Williams added that school offices will get one grade print for each student on Monday morning, Feb. 4. He said that students will probably get their prints the latter part of that week at the department offices. When exact dates are available they will be reported by the Daily Collegian.

Final grades for graduating seniors and advanced degree candidates for Jan. 29, are due in the Recorder's office at 9 a.m. Jan. 23, A. W. Stewart, assistant recorder, announced yesterday.

A student lacking grade points for graduation should tell his instructors how important it is that his grades be sent in by this time, Stewart said.

Grades for all other students are due in the Recorder's office 48 hours after the final examination, and in no case later than Jan. 31, Stewart said.

'Who's in News' Ready at SU

The 1951-52 edition of Who's in the News at Penn State, containing biographies of more than 400 outstanding students, is now being distributed at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

Leonard Kolasinski, editor of the booklet, announced that 1100 copies of Who's in the News arrived on campus yesterday. All persons mentioned in the book may pick up two copies each by signing their names. Presidents of social fraternities and sororities may also obtain reference copies.

The remaining booklets will be sent to newspapers throughout the state, and to some of the major colleges.

Who's in the News was printed at the Grit Publishing Company, Williamsport, Pa.

Historian to Talk At Forum Tonight

For the first time this year the Community Forum will sponsor tonight a distinguished American educator and writer rather than a figure currently in the public eye.

Thirty-three year old Arthur Schlesinger Jr., perhaps not so widely known as the first two forum speakers, Robert Vogeler and Eric Johnston, is already established as one of America's leading historians. In fact, he was the youngest historian ever to win the Pulitzer Prize when he received it in 1946 for "The Age of Jackson."

Tickets On Sale

He will draw on his "clear-cut philosophy of history" when he discusses the topic "Can We Work with Socialism to Beat Communism" at 8:30 in Schwab Auditorium. This is one-half hour later than the time marked on the tickets, due to conflicting schedules in the auditorium.

The third ticket in the season book will be taken at the door. A limited number of single tickets go on sale today for $1.20 at the Student Union desk in Old Main.

To give the public a chance to meet Schlesinger, a coffee hour will be held following the lecture at the Allencrest Tea Room. An admission of 25 cents will be charged.

Was Junior Fellow

Schlesinger was born in Columbus, O., in an academic family that migrated from Ohio State University to the University of Iowa and Harvard. He was graduated summa cum laude from Harvard in 1938 and the following year his honor thesis was published and received high praise from critics.

He spent the year 1938-39 at Cambridge, England, followed by three years at Harvard as a Junior Fellow. This appointment, reserved for only a few, gave him a chance to pursue his own interests and collect material for "The Age of Jackson."

Calendar Plan Goes to Senate

Three adjustments in the College calendar recently proposed by All-College Cabinet will come before the Senate committee on calendar Friday.

Cabinet's proposals, if approved, would terminate classes for holiday recesses at noon, continue the two-day registration recess, and create two "floating" holidays to be used by the student body for holidays because of special events.

The plan to end classes at noon was proposed to keep students from driving home for holidays during the night when roads are more dangerous and also to allow women more time to leave the dorms before they close, a spokesman said.

The two-day registration recess is now in operation. A poll recently conducted by the Daily Collegian indicated only one of eight school deans favored the plan now in operation.

The calendar committee must approve the proposals at Friday's meeting if they are to go into effect.

Eisenhower Favors GOP; Will Accept Nomination

PARIS, Jan. 7—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told the world today that if the Republican Party convention asks him to run for President of the United States he will give up his command here and enter the race.

But the general said he would not quit his job to campaign for the nomination.

The general's statement was read to several score correspondents in Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe (SHAPE) 22 hours after Senator Lodge of Massachusetts had announced in Washington that Eisenhower was a Republican and that his name would be entered in the March 11 primary in New Hampshire.

Emphasizing the great weight

President Milton S. Eisenhower would make no statement yesterday regarding General Eisenhower's statement that he would run for President of the United States if the Republican party asked him to.

he attaches to his job as commander of North Atlantic pact forces, Eisenhower's statement said:

"There is no question of the right of American citizens to organize in pursuit of their com-

Chinese Grad Student Freed On $2000 Bail

Lien Hueh Tu, Chinese graduate physics student, was released on $2000 bail yesterday by immigration authorities in Pittsburgh.

The Department of Justice in Washington said the 40-year old Chinese was arrested on charges of overstaying his visa to enter the United States temporarily to study according to the Associated Press.

The denial of his visa extension classified him as an illegal entrant, Dr. John Sauer, professor of engineering at the College, said here yesterday.

Scheduled to receive his doctor's degree in January, Lien had been taking placement interviews for work in this country.

Dr. George Haller, dean of the School of Chemistry and Physics, Dr. Wayne Webb, associate professor of physics, and Sauer conferred with immigration officials to help gain the release.

Lien has been working on an Army Ordinance project under Sauer. His Ph.D. thesis is entitled "Noise Amplitude of Noise Voltage."

Cap and Gown Deadline Saturday

January graduates must have their cap and gown orders in at the Athletic Store by Saturday. Hat size should be known when ordering.

An extra fee of $1 will be charged to students ordering later than Saturday. This charge will be for wiring in the order, which would otherwise be mailed.

Panhel Puts Sorority on Probation

Phi Sigma Sigma sorority was placed on six weeks social probation, last night, for violating the Panhellenic Council Constitution.

The probation period starts today.

The sorority failed to turn in a list of initiates to the Dean of Women's office a week before initiation. The submission of the list is required in order to give the council's adviser an opportunity to check the initiates' averages in the recorder's office. Phi Sigma Sigma initiated its fall pledges Dec. 16.

No Entertainment

The probation, placed by the Panhel judicial committee, will last until Feb. 19. Spring rushing starts Feb. 23.

During social probation, the sorority can participate in no entertainment by, with, or for any fraternity or independent men's group. Inter-sorority functions outside the suite are also forbidden for the six week period.

Last year Theta Phi Alpha sorority was given six weeks social probation for the same offense. Marilyn Levitt, Panhel president, said the six week penalty for constitutional violations is becoming normal procedure.

Present Officers

The judicial committee is composed of five Panhellenic officers, two advisers, and a representative from the Dean of Women's office.

This year's officers are Miss Levitt, Sigma Delta Tau; Marlene Heyman, Phi Sigma Sigma, vice-president; Byrne Tetley, Gamma Phi Beta, treasurer; June Leighty, Alpha Omicron Pi, corresponding secretary; and Josephine Waterhouse, Alpha Chi Omega, recording secretary.

Pauline Mack Wins Honor At Luncheon

Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, director of the Ellen H. Richards Institute at the College, was honored at a testimonial luncheon at the Autoport yesterday by nearly a hundred men and women from various organizations.

Dr. Mack, who was awarded the Garva Medal, top award for women in chemistry, will leave in the summer to accept a position as dean of the College of Household Arts and Sciences of the Texas State College for Women at Denton, Tex.

The luncheon was arranged by members of Ellen H. Richards Institute; Iota Sigma Pi, women's national honorary chemistry society; Beta Sigma Pi, business women's sorority; and Sigma Delta Epsilon, women's national honorary science society.

Dr. Mack, who is internationally known in the field of chemistry and nutrition, has served on the faculty at the College since 1919. In 1941 she founded the Ellen H. Richards Institute which she has directed since that time.
