

Directory Supplement Approved by Cabinet

By ANDY McNEILLIE

All-College Cabinet last night unanimously approved the publication of a supplement to the Student Directory next semester.

The recommendation, introduced by John Laubach, president of the Association of Independent Men, also contained a measure that would ask the department of public information to aid cabinet in preparing the booklet.

350 Students Expected

Laubach told cabinet there was a definite need for such a publication. He said the Dean of Men's office had reported about 150 room changes in the men's dormitories and the Dean of Women's office reported about 300 room changes in the women's living units.

Laubach also said the dean of men's office expected 200 additional male students next semester and at the same time the dean of women's office predicted 150 more coeds for next semester.

In his report to cabinet, Laubach suggested that 500 copies of the supplements be printed, but after discussion, he said more would probably be needed. He said 500 supplements could be mimeographed at a cost of about 30 dollars.

Money Will Be Raised

He also suggested that representatives of AIM, Inter-fraternity Council, and Women's Student Government Association be placed on a supplement committee when publication is undertaken.

In a report of the cabinet scholarship committee, given by Marian Whitely for Ralph Egolf, president of the School of Education Student Council, Miss Whitely reported the committee would start work on the raising of more money for the scholarship fund set up by cabinet. The executive committee of the board of trustees approved the fund at its recent meetings.

Hillel House Nears Completion of Wing

By LUELLA MARTIN

Construction on the new $200,000 Hillel House is well underway with the roof on the new wing being laid.

The building is being erected by the combined efforts of the B'nai B'rith Lodges and Chapters in Pennsylvania. Each Pennsylvania district has been assigned a quota, and the campaign is under the direction of Albert M. Cohen, president of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation building fund of Pennsylvania.

The Hillel Foundation is part of a national organization devoted to cultural, religious, and counseling service among Jewish students at American universities.

Student Enrollment Increases
"An ever-growing student body" is one of the main reasons for the larger quarters, according to Rabbi Benjamin M. Kahn, director of the Penn State Hillel Foundation.

The increase of students at the end of World War II necessitated greater facilities. When the foundation came to Penn State in 1935, it was located in a second story office downtown. The growth of the Jewish student body necessitated another move to the present quarters at 133 W. Beaver avenue, in 1939. Since then, the number of Jewish students has grown from 600 to over 1000.

Plans for the foundation, at 250 S. Miles street, include the remodeling of a three story house and the addition of a new wing. The new building will have a main lounge, music room, offices, a 2500 volume library, two classrooms, a recreation room, kitchen, receptionist's office, and a cloak room.

The auditorium will have a seating capacity of 400, with a stage, dressing rooms, understage storage space, facilities for motion picture projection, and a built-in public address system.

Lodges Raising $25,000
The synagogue will adjoin the auditorium, so the seating facilities of both rooms can be combined by removing the partition. The capacity of the synagogue will be 200. A raised pulpit will be
