'50-'51 Chest Lists Show 'Dimes' Gift

William Klisanin, Campus Chest chairman, said yesterday he has records from Herbert Axford, showing that $382.33 from Chest funds was turned over to the March of Dimes last year. Axford headed last year's chest drive.

"I assume that a check was sent into the national office as was done with other national participants," Klisanin said. "I am checking with Axford to see if my assumption is correct. I did not handle the funds last year."

Earlier in the week, Evan Johnson, chairman of the State College March of Dimes unit, said funds solicited by the Campus Chest this year for the March of Dimes cannot be accepted. Such action would be against the policy of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, he said. Johnson said that the foundation did not accept any funds from Campus Chest last year.

Dr. Arthur Harnett, professor of health education, said earlier that he informed Klisanin and the Rev. Luther Harshbarger last year of the foundation policy. Klisanin said a letter was sent to the foundation this year asking if it wished to be included in the drive. When no reply was forthcoming, he said, the March of Dimes was added to the drive beneficiaries.

Klisanin said about $443 will be set aside this year from chest income for the March of Dimes. He said he did not know whether the foundation would accept the money or not.

Commager To Address Graduates

Dr. Henry Steele Commager, professor of history at Columbia University, will give the commencement address at the mid-year graduation exercises Jan. 29 in Recreation Hall.

Approximately 500 students will receive degrees at the exercises, President Milton S. Eisenhower said yesterday.

The exercises, scheduled for 2 p.m., will be open to the general public. It will not be necessary for graduates to obtain tickets to admit friends and members of their families, the President's office said.

Dr. Commager, who will deliver the main address, is the editor of over seven books on American history and the American freedoms. He contributes extensively to the Nation, the Atlantic Monthly, Harpers, and the Spectator and is a contributing editor to Scholastic Magazine.

During World War II he served with the War Department commission on history and later with the Office of War Information.

Dr. Commager began his teaching career at New York University and was appointed to the faculty at Columbia in 1939.

First Symphony Concert to Be At 2 Tomorrow

The Symphony Orchestra, directed by Theodore K. Karhan, will present its first concert of the year at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

With more than 65 students and townspeople playing, the orchestra will perform four numbers. They are "The Merry Wives of Windsor" overture (Nicolai), "The Siegfried Idyll" (Wagner), Micala's aria from "Carmen" (Bizet), and "Symphony No. 3" (Beethoven).

"The Siegfried Idyll" is a tone poem written by Wagner as a birthday present to his wife. Secretly rehearsed by a small group of musicians, it was presented for the first time on the morning of his wife's birthday with Wagner conducting.

Micala's aria is a prayer for aid in effecting a reconciliation with her lover, Don José, and in persuading him to return to his home.

In contrast to Beethoven's preceding three symphonies, the eighth is gay because of a humorous musical reference to Moelzel, the inventor of the metronome. It then goes into a minuet making very enjoyable listening, Karhan said.

Heistand Will Talk at Chapel

The Rt. Rev. John Thomas Heistand, bishop of the Harrisburg diocese of the Episcopal Church, will discuss "Religious Faith in a Changing World" tomorrow at 10:55 a.m. in Chapel.

Dr. Heistand will also speak at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church for the closing service of National Week of Prayer.

George Ceiga at the Chapel organ will play music by Bach for the prelude, offertory and postlude. Two chorales, "In Der Ist Freude" (In This Is Gladness) and "Libster Jesu, Wir Sind Hier" (Blessed Jesus, at Thy Word) will be played for the prelude while the offertory will be Adagio from "Trio Sonata No. 3". The postlude will be "Fugue in G Minor" (the Lesser).

State Wrestlers Clip Virginia, 34-0

BOB HOMAN wrestles Virginia University's Thomas in the first match in Rec Hall last night. Homan took the 123 pound match by an 8-3 score. Homan led off a shut-out eight match win for State. Five wrestlers won by pinning. (See another picture, page six).

Stone to Speak Monday

Dr. Robert W. Stone, professor and head of the Department of Bacteriology, will speak on "The Respiratory Cycle, Human and Bacterial" at the Sigma Xi lecture at 8 p.m. Monday in 119 Osmond Laboratory.

IFC-Panhel Checks Due

All fraternities which have not yet turned in their $25 deposit checks for the Interfraternity Council-Panhellenic Council Ball should turn them in by noon today at the Student Union desk in Old Main, according to John Allison, IFC secretary-treasurer.

Froth Makes Four Promotions

Four promotions on the senior board of the Penn State Froth have been announced by Ron Bonn, editor of the humor magazine.

Marilyn Levitt, formerly associate editorial director, has been named co-editorial director with Peter Whelan. John Condit will replace Anne Hibbs as promotion manager, and Andrew Harvey will be Condit's associate manager. Miss Hibbs will be graduated in Feb.

Delta Chi Surprises Brother, Brings Fiance From England

By TED SOENS

What would be your first reaction if after 18 long months, and from 3000 miles away, your fiance suddenly appeared?

Chances are it won't happen to you, but it did happen to Derek Turnbull, a graduate student from England, at 4:45 a.m. yesterday.

Turnbull, a member of Delta Chi, was awakened by a pledge who informed him that a friend of his on the way to the coast had stopped to say goodbye.

Derek went downstairs and there sitting in the guest room was his fiance, Gladys Robson, from Wardley, England. All he could say was, "Well—!" English, you know!

"I just couldn't believe my eyes; of course they weren't open yet," Derek smiled. Then shook his head in wonderment, "and I looked all over for Herb." (The friend who was supposed to be on the way to the coast.)

Gladys summed it up in one breath. "The first time I saw him I was at a loss for words. It's hard to put into words something like this!"

The couple had the first few moments by themselves while the 50-some members of Delta Chi (Continued on page five)

First Wrestling for English Girl

GLADYS ROBSON, who recently arrived in the United States from England on the Ile de France, watches her first wrestling match. She was escorted to the meet with Virginia University last night by Derek Turnbull (to her left). Derek speaks with coach Charlie Speidel (extreme left) as his date talks with Captain Don Maurey. Lion Matmen Register 5 Falls In 2nd Victory

By JAKE HIGHTON

Charlie Speidel unveiled his Eastern Championship wrestling team before Rec Hall fans last night and the full house roared approval as the Lions staged a spectacular pinning show to shut-out Virginia, 34-0.

Victory over the inept Cavaliers was the Lions' second of the season and 13th successive dual meet triumph since 1950.

State scored five lightning falls and three decisions to whitewash the weak Cavaliers in one hour and fifteen minutes—one of the shortest matches ever held in Rec Hall.

Follow Lead

Dick Lemyre started pinning Cavaliers in the second bout, and from then on Virginia matmen fell in rapid succession as most of them spent an uncomfortable evening on their shoulders.

Don Maurey, Doug Frey, Hud Samson and Lynn Illingworth followed Lemyre's lead with pin victories and Lions Bob Homan, Doug Frey and Joe Lemyre came up with convincing decisions.

Quick and smooth as a cat, Dick Lemyre smacked Virginia's partially blind 123 pound Stewart Bouden's shoulders to the mat in 1:53 with a reverse cradle. Dick struck swiftly with a takedown and then stretching the stomach Bouden's leg over his head moved into the fall hold.

Quick Fall

Captain Don Maurey made his return to the lineup a striking one with a pin of Cavalier Wally Williams, 137 pounds, in 4:17. Calling on an abundant bag of tricks, Maurey took Williams down with a fireman's carry. Reversed, Maurey countered with a reverse and scored a near fall as the period ended. Starting the third, Maurey pinned Williams with a lying-on-his-side crucifix or guillotine hold.

Powerful Don Frey needed only 1:23 to pin Cavalier Carr Dorman to remain unbeaten in dual meets. After the takedown, Don moved into a crotch and half-nelson and then applied a cradle to get his second of the year.

First yearman Hud Samson added the fourth Lion fall in the 177 pound class with a reverse nelson and body press which (Continued on page six)

Dance Team Will Appear At 8 Tonight

Penn State students will get a chance to see Emily Frankel and Mark Ryder, modern dance team, before critics in New York do, when they appear here at 8 tonight in Schwab Auditorium. Tonight's show will be performed by the team at its opening in the Young Men and Young Women's Hebrew Association auditorium in New York.

Robert Reifsnider, assistant professor of dramatics, said that Frankel and Ryder asked for an inexpensively priced ticket, so that the so-called snob-appeal of modern dance can be eliminated. They have injected a lot of pantomime into their eight numbers so that they will be easily understood, Reifsnider said.

Reserved seat tickets are on sale at the Student Union desk in Old Main for 60 cents.

Frankel and Ryder are being sponsored by Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatics honorary.
