

122 Faculty Members Receive Promotions

Five Others Granted Leaves; Two Resignations Accepted

One hundred twenty-two promotions, five leaves of absence, and two resignations of faculty personnel have been announced by President Milton S. Eisenhower.

Practically all of the promotions, President Eisenhower explained, were approved by the board of trustees and became effective on July 1, 1951, pending action on the State appropriation to the College for the period ending the same date.

Unless otherwise noted, promotions listed below are effective July 1, 1951:

Associate professor to professor: John O. Almquist, dairy husbandry; Paul M. Althouse, agricultural and biological chemistry; Edwin J. Anderson, agriculture; John M. Anderson, philosophy; Esther A. Atkinson, hotel and institution administration; William L. Barr, farm management; Paul W. Bixby, elementary education; Andrew W. Case, fine arts; J. Frank Cone, bacteriology; Albert E. Cooper, agronomy extension; H. Mauzee Davis, chemical metallurgy.

Paul Ebaugh, engineering research; George J. Free, education; Walter O. Gordon, mathematics; Marie Haidt, physical education; G. William Henninger, music; R. Rupert Kountz, sanitary engineering; Martin Lessen, aeronautical engineering; John A. Mourant, philosophy; Stephen M. Raleigh, agronomy; Harold J. Read, physical metallurgy; A. Chester Richer, soil technology.

Jessie McVey Rossman, home economics education; Joseph J. Rubin, English composition; Glenn N. Thiel, physical education; Charles A. Thomas, economic entomology; Delpha E. Wiesendanger, home management and housing; and Harold P. Zelko, public speaking.

John D. Ridge, associate professor of economic geology, was named associate professor of mineral economics and chief of the division of mineral economics.

Assistant professor to associate professor: Francis A. Babione, marketing; Samuel P. Bayard, English composition; Robert E. Clark, sociology; Joseph H. Dahmus, history; James W. Dunlop, music education; Norman M. Eberly, agricultural extension; Henry A. Finch, philosophy; Sherman P. Fogg, physical education.

Donald E. Hardenbergh, engineering mechanics; George W. Harvey, physical education; Arthur L. Haskins, agricultural and biological chemistry; Robert W. Higgins, human nutrition research; Marguerite E. Horn, hotel and institution administration; Chih C. Hsiao, engineering research; Melvin W. Isenberg, architectural engineering; Henry G. Lew, aeronautical engineering; G. Alma McDougall, hotel and institution administration; Chester T. McNeerney, education; Albert P. Michaels, physical education.

Alice M. Murray, home economics extension; Eugene A. Myers, economics; Benjamin W. Niebel, industrial engineering; Stuart Patton, dairy manufacturing; J. W. Crane Remaley, secondary education; F. Cuthbert Salmon, architecture; Robert W. Schiessler, chemistry; Warren S. Smith, dramatics; Muriel E. Starr, home management; F. Briscoe Stephens, meteorology; Shiou-Chuan Sun, mineral preparation; and Merrill Wood, zoology.

Instructor to assistant professor: Myles E. Altimus, Jr., mining extension; David E. Bauer, industrial engineering; Thomas E. Campbell, engineering (Behrend); Harry E. Cowan, mathematics (DuBois); Raymond S. Farwell, Jr., industrial engineering; William A. Gutteron, physical education; Louis F. Haller, in charge of mineral technology extension; Frederick L. Hoffman, industrial engineering; Charles L. Hosler, Jr., meteorology.

William Jeffrey, industrial engineering and physical education; Irvin H. Kochel, physical education extension; Robert E. McCord, engineering extension; Carl J. Moen, physics; Virgil E. Neilly, engineering extension; Robert W. Reed, English composition (Ogontz); William R. Shaffer, engineering mechanics; Sprague F. Snively, commerce (Dravosburg).

David G. Thurbon, English composition (Behrend); Fred Tracy, physics; Thomas H. Turnbull, history (Behrend); Gilbert H. Ward, physics (Hazleton); and Jack G. Zubrod, botany (DuBois); Richard O. Byers, journalism; Ralph W. Condee, English literature; Lee E. Corter, political science; Betty C. Delavan, clothing and textiles; Helen A. Guthrie, foods and nutrition; Frances S. Henderson, home management; Marjorie K. Horton, hotel and institution administration; Lyman C. Hunt, Jr., education, Sept. 1, 1951; Robert K. Murray, history; Robert M. Pockrass, journalism; Leon S. Roudiez, Romance languages; Walter H. Walters, dramatics; Ernest B. Watmough, industrial engineering, Sept. 15, 1951.

Ronald A. Bartoo, forestry; Emory J. Brown, rural sociology, Sept. 1, 1951; Glenn R. Kean, animal husbandry; Rex E. Melton, forestry; William T. Nearn, wood utilization; Raymond T. Pierce, Jr., agricultural and biological chemistry; John C. Shook, veterinary science; Clarence E. Trotter, marketing; George H. Watrous, Jr., dairy husbandry; and David P. Worley, forestry.

Kaj Drenck was promoted from research associate in physics to visiting assistant professor of physics.

Research associate to assistant professor: Ross L. Anthony, engineering research; Charles G. Haas, Jr., chemistry, effective Sept. 1, 1951; and John W. Lewis, engineering research.

Research assistant to instructor: Henry S. Myers, Jr., petroleum refining.

Research assistant to research associate: Ling-Wen Hu and Yoh-Han Pao, both in Engineering Experiment Station; James H. Probus, Robert E. Skipper, and James D. Weir, all in Ordnance Research Laboratory; and Anna T. Wink, Agricultural Economics.

Nelson F. Wood was promoted from assistant in engineering research to research associate in Ordnance Research Laboratory.

Robert A. Powers, Jr., was promoted Aug. 1, 1951 from associate county agricultural extension representative to county agricultural extension representative. George Settlemyer on July 1, 1951 was promoted from assistant county agricultural extension representative to county agricultural extension representative.

College Rating Jumps Higher In 'Who's Who'

From 1938 to 1950 the College has jumped from 104th to 48th place among American colleges and universities in the number of graduates listed in "Who's Who in America."

The number of Penn State bachelor degree-holders in the 1950-1951 volume is 119, an increase of 205 per cent over the 39 included in 1938.

This increase was revealed in a study of "The Colleges in 'Who's Who in America,'" made recently by B. W. Kunkel of Lafayette College and D. B. Prentice of the Scientific Research Society of America.

These authors counted bachelor's degrees only in analyzing the schools represented by the 29,203 college graduates among the 41,485 people listed in the 1950-51 "Who's Who in America." They had previously conducted similar studies of the "Who's Who" for 1928-29 and 1938-39.

Penn State and Georgetown University were the only two institutions to jump from above the 100th place in the 1938 listing to a spot in the "first 50" bracket in the 1950 volume.

Pay Boost --

(Continued from page one) $2,300,000 to overcome losses during the current biennium in Federal and other income; $3,700,000 for salary adjustments; and $500,000 for increased costs of maintenance supplies and equipment.

In discussing the "precarious" times through which the College had passed, the President said it had been necessary since July 1 to borrow money for salaries and other purposes. He added that while the interest payments on these loans had been "substantial," none of the money from the salary allocation would be used to pay the interest.

Describing the situation as perhaps only partially solved, the President said it is far enough along to permit faculty and non-faculty alike to carry on their work with renewed confidence.

Phys Ed Class Changed

The Physical Education 10 class will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in 213 Rec Hall instead of 7 p.m. Wednesday because of the basketball game with Rutgers scheduled for Wednesday night.

Returns from Korea

Dr. Robert T. Oliver

Oliver Cites Indecision In Korea

Another era of costly indecision, rather than World War III, has been predicted by Dr. Robert T. Oliver, head of the Department of Speech, who has recently returned from Korea where he served for the past six months as an adviser to Dr. Syngman Rhee, president of the Republic of Korea.

Because of this indecision, Russia will continue to make gains as she did following World War II, Oliver predicted, pointing out that the danger of communistic aggression in Southeastern Asia is now acute and that troubles are piling up in the strategic Middle East because the West doesn't know what it wants.

The speech professor saw the end of the truce talks in Korea within two months, resulting in either an indeterminate stalemate truce or the continuance of the war at a stepped-up rate. Only negative results are stemming from the talks, said the doctor.

The decision in June, 1950, to move into Korea, strengthened the United Nations, said Oliver, and will provide the opportunity to make that organization a sanction-enforcing agency.

Oliver said the action brought hope and assurance to millions of people in Asia and gave us our first experiences in meeting the peculiar communistic type of aggression, showing that we could turn it back.

The professor said that through

Salaries --

(Continued from page one) are low, and that we are doing all we can to increase them. Less than two weeks ago I told the entire staff of the College that we shall devote to salary and wage adjustments all funds which are available for this purpose."

The President went on to point out that the financial operation of the College is dependent on the funds made available by the state legislature. The opportunity to ask for additional funds will not be had until next year, he said.

He pointed out that some salary increases had been last March 1, and wage adjustments, effective July 1, 1951, equalized these two increases.

"We are now calculating additional increases," the President said, "which will exhaust all funds available for salaries and wages for the current fiscal year. Whether we can make still additional, very modest adjustments at the beginning of the next fiscal year—that is, beginning July 1, 1952—cannot be determined; for we cannot now estimate the probable fee income..."

The President's statement continued: "Some members of the College staff have advocated that we make a 'flat' adjustment in all wages. If we consider all classifications of faculty and staff... this is not feasible. Wages and salaries for the various categories of work are greatly affected by varying types of competition; the College, like any other institution or agency, must strive to pay salaries and wages which will obtain and retain competent personnel in all classifications."

The President concluded his statement by promising the employees that "every available cent for wages and salaries during the current year is going to be paid to the College staff."

the endless peace negotiations, the United Nations is losing the prestige it has gained, the confidence of Asia is again shaken, and instead of meeting the communistic imperialism, we are allowing ourselves to fall into indecisive negotiations.

The people of South Korea have hope, know what they want, and are determined to get it, Oliver said. They are paying an enormous price for the unification and freedom they have set as their goal, said the doctor, citing figures of 1,000,000 persons killed, 1,000,000 other casualties, and 8,000,000 homeless.

In spite of these hardships, the speech professor found the Korean people cheerful and willing to take their share of the sufferings and burdens.

79 Band Selections Announced by Dunlop

James W. Dunlop, conductor of the prep band, has announced the selection of 79 students for the group. In addition, all students in Music Education 469 and 51 are members of the band.

Dunlop announced that the band will rehearse for the first time at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 117 Carnegie Hall.

Cornet and Trumpet: Ronald Beasom, Jere Fridy, James Martin, David Faust, James Williams, Sherwood Hill, Edward Parris, Robert Jones, John Apgar, David Margolf, Edward Reider, Robert Marsh, William Lysinger, Ronald Sauers.

French Horn: Ralph Egolf, Joan Else, James Paterson, John Haer, William Stewart. Baritone: Bernard Carson, Evans Goodling, Roger Wilson, Rita Case, Robert Appleman. Trombone: Robert Potter, Lyle Barnard, Wesley Kriebel, William Stackhouse, Fred Wilder, William Lovell, Jack Houtt.
