

Town Council Tables Further Airport Action

Action was again tabled on obtaining an airport for Centre County and the joining of State College and Bellefonte borough councils and the County Commissioners, it was announced by the State College borough council.

The two boroughs have been stalemated for ten months in an effort to combine sessions.

Both councils have heard detailed reports by the County Airport Authority on the proposed depot.

The local council has set a special meeting for Monday night with three State College Authority members to go over complete financial details of the airport.

The College's decision that it will not participate financially was discussed along with familiarizing the council with the authority's work.

Bellefonte took similar action, but it was pointed out that the group was in no position to undertake any obligation with the final cost not yet determined.

Sunday Papers To Be Provided

Sunday paper service will again be provided by the Student News Agency this semester, John S. Huber, assistant in charge of student placement, announced yesterday.

Sales started in the Nittany-Pollock and West Dorm areas last Sunday and deliveries in the women's dormitories will begin next Sunday, Huber said.

Subscriptions are available from Sue Sell, 446 Simmons; Joan Lobach, 229 McElwain; Josephine Hoffman, 135 Grange, and Helen Bonine, 31 Atherton.

Papers handled by the agency are the Philadelphia Inquirer and Bulletin, the Pittsburgh Press and Sun-Telegraph, and the New York Times, Tribune, Mirror and News.

Student Employment

All students who have registration forms on file in the student employment office, 112 Old Main, and students who desire part-time employment this semester should fill out new registration forms with their new schedules, Ted Allen, assistant in charge of student placement, said yesterday.

Senior Attends Ed Conference

William Klisanin, a pre-law senior, served during the semester break, as discussion leader and recorder for the college youth division of a national conference.

Klisanin traveled to Hunter College in New York City for the conference which took place from Jan. 27 to 31.

The conference was the third of the United States National Commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. The theme of the conference was "The Citizen and the United Nations: The Struggle for Peace, Freedom, and Advancement."

In addition to serving at the conference, Klisanin helped prepare the agenda for the college youth division at the conference and helped prepare a summary report for conference directors after the event.

The two previous conferences were held in 1947 in Philadelphia and in 1949 in Cleveland.

a check from the Peoples National Bank of State College.

Axford, in a letter to Klisanin dated Jan. 29, said "I gave the check to Mrs. (S. C.) Tanner, who was in charge of the local drive."

Mrs. Tanner, however, said yesterday that the check was turned over to the bank last April by representatives of the Campus Chest.

Johnson said he did not know the March of Dimes was included in the Chest drive this year until after the campaign ended.

Ogontz Gets Civil Defense Training Site

A training center for leaders of civil defense was opened this week at the Penn State Center in Ogontz, Pa. by the federal government and the Pennsylvania State College.

George Brueckman, of Wilkes-Barre, has been named director of the training program, which consists of one week of work for each individual. Forty persons, including civil defense instructors, directors, and workers, will be enrolled each week.

The civil defense leaders, coming from 17 Atlantic seaboard states, will study defense against atomic, chemical, and biological warfare; elementary fire fighting; emergency welfare; civil defense organization; and methods of instruction.

Instructors for the program will be provided by the federal government, while Penn State will provide dormitory and dining facilities as well as administrative assistance in the operation of the school. Grounds will also be provided for outdoor training facilities.

Upton Close --

1934, "Challenge" predicted the surprise blow on Pearl Harbor.

When he returned to this country he was made professor of Asiatic culture at the University of Washington, but returned to the East each summer as leader of oriental seminars composed of students and teachers.

His latest book, "Ladder of History," is a topical survey of world history and is now used in high school and college courses.

He writes a syndicated newspaper column, "Close-ups," and sends out a biweekly personal newsletter entitled "Closer-ups."

In sign language the breaking of a stick signifies strength, and the drawing of the finger across the forehead, to signify the presence of a cap, represents white man.

Kearney to Talk At PSCA Meeting

Walter Kearney, member of the legislative committee of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, will address a public meeting of the College and Centre County branches of the PSEA at 7:30 p.m. Monday in 121 Sparks, according to Dorothy Harpster, president of the Centre County branch.

Following the talk, a panel discussion on "What Do the Teachers of Centre County and the College Need to Work for and Promote in the PSEA during 1952" will be held.

Kearney will review the organization's legislation for 1951.
