Shortages to Delay Construction of SU

Shortages of steel and other vital materials will probably hold up construction of the Student Union, James Worth, All-College president, announced last night at the cabinet meeting.

The information was part of a detailed report on the Student Union prepared from questions submitted by All-College Cabinet to members of the College administration.

Reading from the statement, Worth said that the National Production Authority had offered no objections to the College's application for permission to build.

"This is only the first hurdle to cross, and this alone by no means gives assurance that the College can obtain critical building materials. An application for materials such as steel must be made by the contractor when a contract for construction has been let. It is anticipated that difficulty may then be encountered," the report read.

Worth also reported that officials in Washington believe that the situation will ease greatly after Jan. 1, 1953.

Worth also announced that

Harry Cover, All-College vice president, has resigned from his position.

In the absence of Cover, Thomas Jurchak, secretary treasurer, read the formal letter from Cover. Cover wrote that because of academic difficulties, he found it necessary to resign from his position on All-College Cabinet.

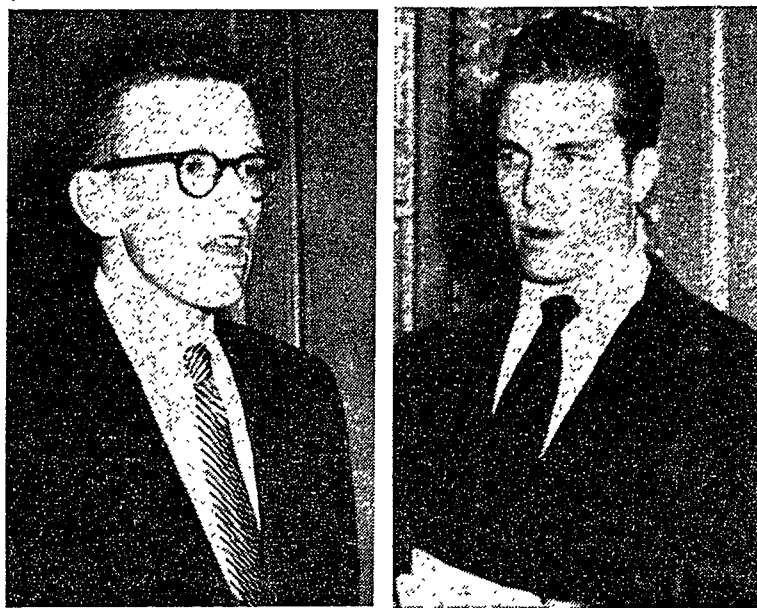

David Mutchler, ex-officio member of cabinet, will sit in Cover's position with voting power, but not as vice president.

Worth also reported that students have a right to appeal decisions made by Tribunal and Judicial. He pointed out that the constitution provides that defendants may appeal from a decision of Tribunal or Judicial to Cabinet, which has final jurisdiction over the matter.

Cabinet was asked to consider a donation of $200 to the Religion-in-Life Week to supplement the $600 provided by the College. Worth said that it had been done in the past and that a vote would be taken at the next cabinet meeting.

Millard Rehburg, chairman of the blood drive, reported that a total of 907 pints had been given, all of which went to Korea. It was decided to suspend the committee until March.

In Cabinet Exchange

CHARGES OF PARTY politics flew in All-College Cabinet last night when David Olmsted (right), senior class president, introduced a constitutional amendment. Clair George, president of the Board of Dramatics and Forensics, made the charges.

George Claims Politics Behind Olmsted Move

By DAVE PELLNITZ

Clair George, president of the Board of Dramatics and Forensics, last night charged that constitutional amendment proposed by David Olmsted, senior class president, was merely a "political football" to gain support for the State party.

George also said that the amendment added nothing new to the All-College Constitution since Article I, Section Nine provides that "any member of the faculty, administration or student body may attend and present to Cabinet any matters which concern student welfare" and that cabinet must take action on the matter within 30 days.

The proposed amendment provides for the taking of a statistical poll of a representative cross-section of the student body upon the presentation to cabinet of a petition signed by ten per cent of the student body within one week after a proposal to change student fees has been made.

Professor Speaks

Thomas Jurchak, All-College secretary treasurer, said that the amendment should not be taken as a political matter but should pass or fall on its merit.

George also asked what the advantages of a statistical poll were over a referendum. Dr. Lester Guest, professor of psychology, was called upon by Olmsted to answer the question. Guest said the poll, while it would not give a perfect sounding of student feeling, would give results close enough to be used for administrative consideration and guidance.

Guest also said that unless a referendum of about 90 per cent of the students was taken, the results would not accurately show student feeling, as only those students who had "an axe to grind" would be voting.

Called Compromise

Jerome Kidd, a freshman attending the meeting, said that the way the proposed amendment now reads, the poll might not do any good. He suggested the amendment be changed to make the poll binding on cabinet.

Thomas Farrell, a sophomore, said he thought the amendment was a good compromise. He said that even the federal government has a system of checks and balances and the proposed amendment would provide a compromise between an actual referendum and what he termed "no student representation at all" as things now stand.

The amendment must be read and discussed at two more cabinet meetings before a final vote can be taken. A three-fourths vote of cabinet is required to pass the amendment.

IFC Unanimously Backs Sole Dance Chairmanship

By TED SOENS

The Interfraternity Council last night unanimously gave a vote of confidence to its executive committee in support of the committee's proposal for a sole chairman from IFC for the IFC-Panhel ball.

On Tuesday, this same proposal had been rejected by the Panhellenic council which had suggested that it retain its present unpaid co-chairmanship.

Under the new agreement the IFC vice-president, James Wharton, would be chairman of the dance and would be assisted by a member of Panhel and two other IFC representatives, William Klisanin and Carrol Chapman. Also, the Panhel representative would be paid the same as the IFC members of the group. Last year's Panhel representative was not paid.

The agreement also calls for three fourths of the profits to go to IFC and one fourth to Panhel in proportion to the amount of money contributed by fraternities and sororities.

Stanley Wengert, IFC president, will again present the proposal to the Panhel council at its next meeting.

A suggestion that all of the houses make sure no men are pledged with below one averages, as they had last year, was made by Klisanin, president of Chi Phi. He said he felt that something should be done to raise the standard. (Continued on page eight)

'Yankee' Role Goes To Rolf

Ed Rolf will play the role of the Yankee in Thespians' production of "A Connecticut Yankee," Rodgers and Hart musical comedy, to be presented April 3, 4, and 5 in Schwab Auditorium.

Seen last fall in the Alpine Inn skit in "Bottoms Up," Rolf will portray Martin, who wakes up from a nap to find himself in King Arthur's medieval court.

In the fall show, Rolf sang "Never Trust a Woman" and "A Love Divine," which were also used as final numbers. He played Billy Crocker in "Anything Goes," last year's spring show.

The part of Fay, the scheming vamp, will be portrayed by Isabella Cooper, and King Arthur will be played by Ed Korber.

Miss Cooper and Korber also were in "Bottoms Up," Korber in the "You Went and Did It Again" act, and Miss Cooper in "Dirty Dan's Plight."

Betty Richardson will appear as Sandy, and Dick Hartle will play Merlin.

Nancy Lou Thomas, who sang "A Love Divine" with Rolf, will be seen as Evelyn, and Al Mc- (Continued on page eight)

New Pensions Affect College

Many employees of the College will be affected by the newly-passed State Act 622, which provides an increase in pensions for certain persons who retire at 60 or older.

The increase would be possible if the amount contributed by the person toward his pension is less than the amount contributed by the state. The act was passed at the last session of the General Assembly in Harrisburg and approved by Gov. John S. Fine.

S. K. Hostetter, comptroller of the College, explained yesterday that because the state employees' retirement board has referred the act to the attorney-general for clarification, interpretation as to the full meaning is not immediately available.

Hostetter added that as soon as clarification of the act is received, more detailed information will be provided.

'Woody' to Give Concert

Something new has been added to the big Greek weekend April 4 and 5. Woody Herman and his orchestra will not only play for the Interfraternity council-Panhel ball but will also give a concert on the afternoon of the fourth from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

This will be the first time a concert has been presented along with the ball. Herman and the Herman herd had given a similar concert at the University of Pennsylvania where it met with great success.

The Jazz orchestration, sponsored by IFC, will cost $1.25 per person and will be given in Schwab auditorium. John Allison, secretary-treasurer of IFC, will be chairman of the concert.

The decision to have the concert was made after consultation with several fraternity presidents, fraternity members and some advisers. The IFC hopes that by giving such a concert it will set a precedent for future concerts on Greek weekend.

To facilitate the presentation of the concert the engineering lecture scheduled for that afternoon in Schwab Auditorium was canceled.

The IFC-Panhel ball will be a semi-formal affair starting at 8:30 p.m. on April 4. The dance will be held in Rec. Hall and will cost $4 per couple.
