Duo-Pianists Among Top Piano Teams

Vera Appleton and Michael Field, duo-pianists who will present the Community Concert program at Schwab Auditorium Friday night, have during the past nine seasons established a place for themselves among the leading piano teams.

At a series of three concerts in Town Hall, New York, two years ago, Appleton and Field made the first professional attempt on record to survey the repertoire of original keyboard music for four

The performance, entitled "Two Pianos Through Four Centuries, started with the earliest known compositions for two pianists and continued to the works of Strainsky, Hindemith, Bartok, and ther contemporaries.

The piano team at the New York performance showed that duo-pianism has a long tradition and a large repertoire, and that its unique range of tonal effects has been recognized by the world's greatest conmposers.

Appleton and Field have been leaders in the recording field. They were chosen to set down on wax the first recorded performance of Stravinsky's monumental two-piano concerto. The two have also appeared as guest stars on held last night at Beta Theta Pi.
