

Ambush for Cagers Will Set Off Rally

A public ambush of Penn State's traveling basketball squad Sunday night at Co-op Corner will set off the first outdoor basketball pep rally of the season.

The rally, sponsored by Hat Society Council, was originally planned to be held at Schwab Auditorium. Yesterday that site was declared unavailable.

Rally Brings Party Mixer Cancellation

By DAVE PELLNITZ

The State Party mixer originally scheduled for Sunday night has been cancelled indefinitely because of the basketball pep rally planned for the same time. Thomas Farrell, acting head of the State Party workshop, said at the workshop meeting last night.

At the meeting, the first of a planned series, chairmen of the six fields of party activity explained the operation of their sections.

Melvin Rubin, platform committee, told the group that work should be started immediately on the platform. He brought out that the platform will be formulated openly by the students themselves and not secretly by the steering committee as has been the rule in the past.

Ward set-up was explained by Ernest Famous, head of the ward committee, while Rae DelleDonne emphasized the need for a strong membership group. She said that the membership committee was responsible for setting up a directory of the party, checking on clique membership, providing entertainment, and checking the ballots in the clique elections.

The work of the publicity committee was discussed by Robert Kritt and distribution work was covered by Franklin Reese.

Farrell said that attendance at workshop meetings will count toward the necessary two meeting attendance eligibility rule for clique membership.

Today Is Last Day For Fee Payments

Today is the last day to pay student fees for the spring semester.

Fees may be paid at any time between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. in 6 Willard Hall.

David C. Hogan, bursar, asked students to check the lists of fees posted by matriculation number on one side of the room and make out checks before getting into the payment lines. This would speed up payment, he pointed out.

Students who pay fees late will be charged a $5 fee.

Snowy Weekend Is Not Foreseen

The spasmodic flurries of snow which have been falling in State College since yesterday morning are not an indication of a snow-bound weekend, the Meteorology department reported.

The flurries, which are expected to continue this morning, are the result of a cold front that passed through this area yesterday morning, the department said, and colder temperatures are in sight.

Debaters Will Meet Dickinson

The oldest intercollegiate debate relationship in Pennsylvania will be continued today when the Penn State men meet a team from Dickinson College at 4 p.m. in 305 Sparks.

This will be the 49th meeting of the two schools, whose rivalry began in 1903.

David Swanson, a member of the team which brought home the Boston Debate Tournament trophy Sunday, and John Baron, will argue affirmative for Penn State.

Open to Public

The question is "Resolved: That the federal government should adopt a permanent program of wage and price control." The non-decision debate will be cross-examination style—"a courtroom approach," according to manager Clair George, which gives each man a chance to question his opponents directly.

The match, one of the few intercollegiate debates on campus this year, is open to the public, George said.

When Penn State first met Dickinson in 1903, it was one of the top campus affairs of the time, according to Prof. Joseph F. O'Brien, debate coach.

Ran Special Train

The Chapel in Old Main was festooned with blue, red and white streamers for the occasion, and an orchestra from Williamsport and the Penn State Mandolin Club provided additional entertainment.

The Bellefonte Central ran a special train to bring 100 Dickinson students to the event. Daniel H. Hastings, then governor of the state, was to be chairman of the debate, but at the last minute he was unable to come and President Atherton took over.

Dickinson team won that debate, which was on the topic, "Resolved: That the United States government establish a national university."

The next day an item in the Free Lance, predecessor to Collegian, read: "We are filled not with regret because of a victory lost, but with pleasure because of the splendid showing of our men."

Penn State won the following year, and since then many of the debates have been non-decision.

Snow Ball Canceled

The Snow Ball, which was to have been held at 9 tonight in the Wesley Foundation, has been canceled.

Upper Respiratory Infection Hits College Again

The annual winter bugaboo, upper respiratory infection, has hit the College again, putting 20 students in the infirmary and causing many others to visit the dispensary for relief.

Dr. Herbert R. Glenn, College physician, was quick to say yesterday that this is "not an epidemic," adding that this is quite a common occurrence each year. Students started to enter the infirmary with complaints a week ago, officials said, and now 20 of the 31 patients in the infirmary are suffering from the infection.

The dispensary is receiving about 100 new students with the infection each day, Glenn said. About 300 are visiting the dispensary each day for relief, he added, but approximately 200 of those are revisits.

College Denies Plans for Airport

The College has no intention of operating any airport anywhere and never has had any such intentions, C. S. Wyand, assistant to the President, told some 200 citizens of State College at a town meeting last night.

"Despite the best efforts of College officials to be helpful in creating and maintaining an airport, there is nothing which the College can legally do to be helpful," Wyand said.

The meeting was organized by the State College Lion's club to explain to the townspeople the airport situation as determined by the Centre County Airport Authority and other interested groups.

Speaking on authorization of President Milton S. Eisenhower, Wyand said an all-weather airport "would be a great convenience to visitors to the College."

The College recognizes the importance of an airport for Centre county, but has no preference as to where it should be located.

The College, Wyand said, has offered to turn over to the Centre County Airport Authority its option of $1 a year on the Mo-shannon airport because the College doesn't want it. The only reason it was not turned down when offered, he explained, was because President Eisenhower and his assistants, desiring to be of as much help as possible, decided first to offer the option to the airport authority.

If the authority wishes to take up the $1 a year option it is at liberty to do so, Wyand said, for the College legally cannot become involved.

During the process of negotiations during which options were undertaken by the authority over the State College Air Depot site, the College investigated all plans apparent under which it could, legally, help in the project, Wyand said.

Two plans were considered, he said, but had to be discarded.

College Talent To Vie Tonight In Annual Show

The curtain will rise at 8 tonight in Schwab Auditorium to open the 1952 All-College Talent Show, sponsored by the Penn State Club. Nine single and group acts will be competing for $50 in cash prizes.

Tickets for the show are on sale at the Student Union desk in Old Main. The price is 85 cents apiece.

Gene Love, master of ceremonies, will be aided by Allan Glou and his "Stardusters," who will accompany the vocalists and play during intermission.

Guest Performer

Robert Klug

Carl Espey, social chairman of the Penn State Club, reported that a party will be held after the show in 405 Old Main for members of the club, their dates, and the performers.

Robert Klug, guest star and last year's winner and the Collegians Quartet will be added features for the 12th annual show. Members of the Quartet are Jerome Capitanoff, Maynard Hill, William Daveys, and James Hess.

Dance Opens Show

Klug will play "Rondo Capriccioso" by Mendelssohn, and the quartet will sing "All the Things You Are" and "Massachusetts." The Quartet's third number will be announced at the show.

Peggy Mayberry, character dancer, will open the show with a "Gypsy Dance." James McCaughan, baritone, will follow with his renditions of "Lullaby of Broadway" and "Please, Mr. Sun."

Rodney Stegall will present a comedy skit with a variety of impersonations. Arnold Papparazo, accordionist, will present "Trieste Overture." Ending the first part of the show will be Gayle Thrush with an acrobatic dance.

Impersonates Jolson

Edward Rolf, baritone, will open the second part of the show with renditions of "You Are Love" and "You'll Never Walk Alone." Edward Eckl will present a magician's act. Part of his act will feature the help of two volunteers from the audience.

Charles Caricato will give his impersonations of Al Jolson's "Mammy" and "Swanee." To complete the nine acts a modern dance interpretation of "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" will be presented by Nancy Bradfield and Loretta McCarty.

Audience applause will decide the winners of $25, $15, and $10 cash prizes.

Exchange Plan Set With France

Arrangements for a student exchange program between the College and the Office National des Universites, of France, have been completed, according to Dr. Robert J. Clements, head of the Department of Romance Languages.

Dr. Clements explains that the French government office will reserve a teaching fellowship for one Penn State graduate, while an outstanding French national will be given an assistantship to assist in teaching oral French at the College.

Living expenses and a small stipend will be given the American recipient, who will teach English several hours weekly in a French school in a French university town.

Students who wish to apply for the fellowship may enter an application with the Department of Romance Languages, 300 Sparks, before April 15. Men and women preparing for a career in Romance languages and literatures will receive preference.

Drive Needs Blood Donors

The State College blood drive, sponsored by the borough Rotary Club, could use about 60 student contributors, C. W. Stoddart Jr., chairman of the Red Cross chapter, said yesterday. Contributions will be made Wednesday.

Stoddart said he had hoped it would not be necessary to all on students, to reach the 200 pint goal, but it is now apparent students will be needed.

Those who wish to donate may call 3162 during the day or 3197 during the evening. The pledge deadline will be tomorrow night. Donors must be 21 or over.

Donations will take place from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday at the Presbyterian Church, Stoddart said, and students will receive schedule cards.

Town Council Fills Single Ward Vacancy

Town Council filled only one of six ward vacancies at its elections meeting last night. Three residents of ward 11 nominated and elected Lincoln Warrell representative, and Karl Shilliff, alternate.

Payson Clyde, elections committee chairman, said ward representatives still must be elected from wards 1, 2, 15, 16, and 18. He also said anyone who was interested in representing his ward should attend the next council meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday in 104 Willard.

Otto Standhardt, ward 13, and John Chappel, ward 19, were named to serve as ward leaders for their respective wards. They had served as alternates. William Oldt was appointed ward 23 representative.
