

Human Roadblock, Outdoor Rally to Greet Cagers

Students Asked To Meet Near Allen St. Gate

A human roadblock and an outdoor pep rally will greet Penn State's 11-man traveling basketball squad and Coach Elmer Gross as they roll into State College tomorrow afternoon after a five-day trek on the road.

President Milton S. Eisenhower and John Lawther, former basketball coach at the College, will be at Co-op Corner to speak to the rally.

Students are asked to gather at 5:30 p.m. at the corner of College avenue and Allen street. When the cagers' bus comes in sight members of hat societies will lead the students into the street where the human roadblock will stop the bus and welcome the members of the squad.

Marvin Krasnansky, president of Hat Society Council, yesterday urged all hatmen to attend the basketball rally, the first of the season.

"Win or lose on this trip, we want to express our thanks to the team for the splendid job they've done this year," Richard Rostmeyer, president of Androcles, has said.

Clair George, vice president of Hat Society Council, will emcee the affair. He will introduce Lawther and Gross and then present co-captains Hardy Williams and Jay McMahan and the other members of the team.

Permission to hold the downtown rally was given yesterday by Chief of Police John R. Juba.

The team meets Syracuse tonight and is scheduled to reach State College at 5:40 p.m. tomorrow.

The 11-man traveling squad includes Jesse Arnelle, Jim Blocker, Frank DeSalle, Ed Haag, Chet Makarewicz, Jay McMahan, Joe Piorkowski, Herm Sledzik, Jack Sherry, Ron Weidenhammer and Hardy Williams.

Eisenhower Gets Tenth Degree

President Milton S. Eisenhower received the tenth honorary degree of his career as a college administrator yesterday when John Hopkins University conferred an honorary Doctor of Law degree on him. The president has received seven of the ten honorary degrees since he came to the campus in July, 1950.

President Eisenhower outlined a program for peace in a speech at the Commemoration Day program of the Baltimore, Md., institution.

He explained in his talk that the construction of peace may be divided into two time periods. The first designed "to prevent aggression and thus buy time for more fundamental development," and the second devoted to the building of a permanent peace.

The first period must be characterized largely by sheer power, Dr. Eisenhower pointed out, adding that we must be strong in military power, matched with intellectual, moral, and economic strength.

The permanent program for peace that Dr. Eisenhower outlined is one that involves the building of genuine understanding among the peoples of the world on which all other cooperative effort may be based. It would also include the achievement of enlightened economic cooperation among nations; political cooperation to settle disputes arising between nations; and again, power.

THE BASEMENT of Willard Hall was crowded with students yesterday and Thursday as thousands lined up at the Bursar's desks to pay their spring semester fees. Fees were payable to the Bursar from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days. Students are assessed $5 for late payment.

'Hedda' Lists Crews

With the opening of Henrik Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler" looming in the near future, more than 50 students are working on production crews for Players' third Center Stage show.

An outstanding example of Ibsen's social dramas, "Hedda Gabler" will be presented in conjunction with International Theater Month, which will be celebrated during March.

Robert D. Reifsnider, assistant professor of dramatics, is directing the play. Mesrop Kesdekian is technical director and Donald Barton is assistant director.

Jo Palmer is manager of the sound crew, which includes Thomas Elston and Anne Greene. Working on properties are Arthur Chadwick, manager; Joan Jewells, Karen Klein, Dorothy Levy, Betty Locke, and William Nudorf.

Charles Schulte is supervising the 19th century costumes, and Patricia Jenkins is manager of the costume crew. Her group includes Jane Evans, Ina Jackson, Doris Leventhal, Nancy May, Diana Mears, Virginia Rogers and Rachael Witherow.

John Pakkanen is manager of the makeup crew. Working with him will be Shirley Gable, Nancy May, Betty Rice, and Elaine Schleifer.

The house crew includes Yvonne Voigt, manager; Evalyn Horwin, Sally Johnson, Roland Johnson, Richard Kirschner, Joseph Marko, Patricia Marsteller, Thomas Owens, Lois Troxell, and Raymond Troxell.

Advertising is being taken care of by Ruth McSparran, manager; Frances Dektor, Raymond Ferguson, Jewel Girod, Alma Gratz, Sally Johnson, Mary Ann Kitzmiller, Theodore Matlow, Alison Morley, Terese Moslak, Thomas Owens, William Raymond, Shirley Segal, Joanne Seitz, Dina Tapper, and Barbara Wasserman.

Osborne's Shot Gives Raiders Victory in Overtime Thriller

HAMILTON, N. Y., Feb. 22—(AP)—Colgate's Red Raiders continued their home floor supremacy with a thrilling 65-63 overtime win over Penn State before a packed house tonight.

It was the third loss of the season for the Lions and their second straight on their current road trip. Colgate's victory was its ninth against ten losses. The loss gives the Nittanians a 17-3 record and practically ended all hopes for a post season tournament bid.

Coach Elmer Gross' cagers will conclude their three game trip tomorrow night at Syracuse.

Dick Osborne, six-two forward, was the hero of the dramatic battle as he made the tying bucket with five seconds left in the fourth quarter and a tap-in to win the game in the overtime period. Osborne was also the Red Raiders' leading scorer with 16 tallies.

only other Lions to hit double figures. Both made ten points.

Colgate took the lead at 14-11 in the first quarter, but the Lions rallied for 15 markers in the second frame and a 26-25 lead at intermission. Midway through the third period State had moved to a commanding 12 point lead.

Good Defense
Then Colgate came out of its zone and went into a full court press—which proved the deciding factor in the Red Raiders' win. State had difficulty bringing the ball up the floor after the switch. State was ahead 44-38 at the end of the third quarter. In the fourth quarter State only scored ten markers against Colgate's effective defense while the Red (Continued on page eight)

Committee To Discuss Parking

Results of a traffic survey recently conducted among faculty and staff members, together with suggestions by committee members for possible solutions to the campus parking problem, will be heard Monday at the second meeting of the All-College traffic committee, Walter H. Wiegand, chairman, has announced.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in 319 Old Main.

The traffic committee was formed earlier this year to study campus traffic problems arising from having 4000 student and faculty cars on campus and only 2500 parking spaces.

Wiegand said results of the faculty survey have been tabulated according to schools and departments. Figures gathered in a similar student traffic survey conducted during fall semester registration may also be considered by the committee, he said.

Wiegand said he did not wish to predict all that the committee would talk about because committee members will probably have many proposals to be discussed.

Party Leaders Will Discuss Campus Politics

A non-partisan political meeting to interest students in campus politics will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow in 409 Old Main.

The meeting will be co-chaired by Ray Evert, Lion Party clique chairman, and Thomas Farrell, State Party representative. Evert served alone as chairman at last Sunday's meeting.

Evert originated the idea for a non-partisan meeting to interest students in campus politics last fall. The Lion Advisory Committee backed him up and at last week's meeting, with 30 persons present, students proposed that the State Party also have a chairman so a more objective view on important issues could be obtained.

The meeting will give students an opportunity to meet representatives from both parties and to clarify vague ideas, according to John Stoudt, Lion Party member.

Penn State DeMolays To Attend Dance Tonight

Members of the Penn State DeMolay Club and other DeMolay members on campus will attend an informal dance at the Bellefonte YMCA from 9 to 12:30 tonight.

Music for the dance, sponsored by the Bellefonte DeMolay chapter, will be furnished by the Modernaires.

Ed Rolf Wins Talent Show, Eckl Second, Paparazo Third

By SAM PROCOPIO

Edward Rolf, baritone, captured the fancy of the judges and audience last night to win the 12th annual all-College Talent Show, sponsored by the Penn State Club.

Rolf, sixth semester journalist, impressed the audience with his renditions of "You Are Love" and "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Edward Eckl, who presented a magician's act with the help of two volunteers from the audience, received second prize, while Arnold Paparazo, accordionist, took third prize.

Paparazo was well-received with his fast and easy moving fingers on the keyboard. He played "My Florence Waltz" and "Trieste Overture."

Gene Love, master of ceremonies, and Allan Glou and his "Stardusters," as well as Robert Klug and the Collegians Quartet rounded out the program.

Rodney Stegall, who received one of the two encores in the nine acts, won the applause of the (Continued on page eight)
