

Thetas, Co-op Win IM Participation Cup

By GINGER OPOCZENSKI

Kappa Alpha Theta and the Co-op have been named co-winners of the Women's Recreation Association participation cup for the fall semester, leading 30 teams, including sorority, dormitory, and independent groups, in intramural participation.

The cup will be presented to the two teams as soon as it is engraved, Mable Marple, intramural chairman, said.

The award is given to the group with the highest percentage of persons participating in WRA activities, and the highest average of hours of participation by individual members.

The Co-op is a repeat winner, having placed first last semester to win the first participation cup presented by WRA.

The tie this year is a result of the Co-op having the highest percentage participating, 100 per cent, and the Thetas achieving the highest average, 8.3 hours, of participation by its team members.

The WRA activities included in making the award are:

1. Intramural sports.
2. All WRA clubs.
3. Timing or scoring at sports events.
4. Officiating at games.

WRA clubs; 3. timing or scoring at sports events; 4. officiating at games.

Last semester's sports were ping pong and basketball, and the clubs included bridge, badminton, and bowling.

The sports on which next semester's award will be based are bowling, badminton, softball, volleyball, and swimming.

The intramural cup, presented to the team which receives the greatest number of points for winning in the five major sports of one year, was won last year by Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Big Four --

(Continued from page four) cation that she is now preparing for war in Europe. If she rejects the new proposals but keeps the long-standing treaty negotiations open, it will be taken as a sign of continued cold war, but not hot.

Russia, of course, will buck the Allied proposal for any treaty which would pull all occupation troops out of Austria. That was expected soon after the war. It had been agreed that Austria, having been captured by Hitler and used by him against her will, would be considered a non-belligerent.

But Russia won a deal by which she was allowed to keep troops all through central Europe and the Balkans to "guard" communications with her troops in Austria, and has used this license as a means of policing the other satellites. If her troops were out of Austria, it would give anti-Russian propagandists, and the satellite undergrounds in particular, a powerful weapon of popular resentment against continued Russian occupation of those countries. Not that it would matter much factually, since the local armies are now organized and administered practically as parts of the Red army. But it would be enough so that Russia is hardly likely ever to agree.

When the record on that is clear, the Allies will then have to do something about Western Austria much like they have about Western Germany.

Leap Year's Strains Give Bachelors Pains

Falling in the category of national Be-Kind-to-Animal Week, national Baby Day, and a miscellaneous assortment of other days and weeks, today has been proclaimed, logically enough, national Bachelor's Day.

The official announcement was made to the 50,000 members of the Bachelors' Protective Association by Robert W. Hensch, president of the association.

In a news release Hensch declared that the event of leap year has placed an undue strain on bachelors everywhere. He said that the meetings to be held today will be a source of new courage and moral support to all who attend.

Useful Purposes

The bachelor button, official flower of the organization, will be worn in the coat lapel today, and many get-togethers have been planned for tonight by clubs throughout the country. Hensch said.

In urging that bachelors be given their due in '52, the president of the association pointed out that bachelors serve many useful purposes, such as being best man at weddings, accommodating hostesses who need another man to balance their dinner parties, and taking out-of-town assignments for their business firms so that the married men can stay at home with their wives.
